GRAND JURY HEARS SHELTON WIDOW. MAN WHO MADE BRIBE RECORDINGS

Roy D. Gatewood, Accused of Posing as Intermediary in Talk With Gang Chief, Also Called for Today.

By THEODORE C. LINK
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 23—Roy D. Gatewood, whose solicitation of a $25,000 bribe from Bernie Shelton was secretly recorded on phonograph records, was served with a subpena calling for his appearance today at the opening of a grand jury investigation of bribery and official corruption connected with gambling and slot machine operations.

The now-famous Gatewood recording, which Shelton, before he was murdered last July 26, had directed was to be turned over to the Post-Dispatch, will be available to the grand jury. Gatewood, who represented himself as the emissary of State's Attorney Roy P. Hull in the bribe solicitation, a representation denied by Hull, was served with the grand jury subpena late Saturday. He has not been available to reporters since Aug. 6, when the Post-Dispatch published the recorded conversation between the secretary and Bernie Shelton.

Shelton's Widow Testifies.

Mrs. Genevieve Shelton, widow of Bernie, was the first witness heard by the grand jury. She has said she recognized Gatewood as the man with whom Bernie was talking when the recording was made.

Jack Ashby, manager of the Shelton Amusement Co., who made the recording in the kitchen of the Shelton farm home last June 26, was the second witness. Subpenaed with Ashby were his wife, Mary; Gatewood's wife, Dixie, and Ray Walker, Shelton lieutenant.

Two men whom the grand jury wanted to hear today could not be found by subpena servers. They are Peter J. Petrakos, missing gambler and former Shelton associate, and John E. Kelly, a Shelton associate. Petrakos is suspected by the Sheltons of having been the finger man in a murder plot against Bernie several weeks before the actual killing. He was away when Bernie was shot from ambush, returned to Peoria the following day and then departed again for an unannounced destination. Efforts to trace him since have been unsuccessful.

Accused in Fight.

Kelly and Walker are under charges of assault with intent to kill Richard Murphy Jr., a carpenter, in a fight at the Sheltons' Parkway Tavern on Memorial day. Bernie Shelton also was named in the charges, and the purpose of the Gatewood bribe solicitation was the dismissal of the indictments. Kelly is expected to appear before the grand jury later.

Gatewood, it is expected, will be questioned closely by the grand jury about the recorded conversation and also about two or three previous conferences with Bernie. These meetings were held in automobiles on lonely roads. In the recorded conversation Gatewood refers to a previous meeting.

Mrs. Gatewood is reported to have telephoned Bernie several weeks before he was shot to tell him that she had overheard a discussion of the $25,000 bribe by her husband at the Gatewood home. She is reported to have expressed indignation over the proposal, and to have offered to testify for Shelton if he took legal action in the bribe matter. In his recorded conversation, Gatewood said his wife was indignant about the bribe propoposal and he, too, offered to testify.

Sheriff Earl E. Spainhower announced today his office had located in Texas the missing Mary Davis, former Peoria waitress, who was reported to have sent a warning to Bernie Shelton early in July

PILOT BAILS OUT OF JET FIGHTER, PICKED UP IN OCEAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—A pilot bailed out of his F-84 Thunderjet plane into the Atlantic ocean off Quogue, N. Y., today and was rescued by a fishing boat.

The Coast Guard, which received reports that the jet fighter exploded in the air, said the plane sank.

The crew of the fishing boat put the pilot ashore, uninjured. The Coast Guard said his name was given as Carl L. Bellinger, a test pilot.

PLAINVILLE, Conn., Aug. 23 (UP) — A National Guard plane on maneuvers crashed between two houses here today, setting fire to both. The pilot bailed out and was taken to a hospital. None of the occupants of the two buildings was reported injured.

The town's water main was disrupted, and firemen were unable to fight the flames.

NAILS SCATTERED ALONG 3 MILES OF ROAD IN COUNTY

The sheriff's office at Clayton is investigating the presence of about 30 pounds of roofing nails found scattered early today along Walton road from St. Charles Rock road south a distance of about three miles.

The presence of the nails was discovered about midnight when a motorist reported them in a call to the sheriff's office. The county highway department reported today the highway had been cleared.

ONE KILLED, 3 HURT WHEN TRUCK HITS AUTO ON BRIDGE

Woman Is Crushed to Death Against Rail—Driver of Trailer Held for Grand Jury.

Mrs. Josephine Mudd of 5099 Page boulevard was killed and her two children and another woman injured yesterday when they were knocked against the rail of Sylvan Beach bridge in St. Louis county by a truck which had been struck by a tractor-trailer.

The driver of the trailer, Roy Douglas of Oklahoma City, was named in a homicide verdict returned at an inquest into Mrs. Mudd's death today by a St. Louis county coroner's jury and held for the grand jury.

Mrs. Mudd was crushed to death when she was pinned to the rail of the bridge which spans the Meramec river on U.S. Highway 66. Injured were Mrs. Marie McHugh, 6620 Alamo avenue, Clayton, James Mudd, 7 years old, and his sister, Joan, 5.

Auto Parked on Bridge.

One of the tires of the automobile in which the Mudd family and Mrs. McHugh were riding went flat as they were crossing the bridge. Glenn Mudd, the husband, parked the automobile on the bridge and started back toward a filling station. The others stepped out and stood against the rail.

While they were waiting, a truck driven by Jesse Britnell of Cleveland, Mo., drew up behind the machine, waiting for a break in traffic to pass around it. The tractor-trailer side-swiped an

3D PARTY CLAIMS TWICE AS MANY NAMES AS NEEDED FOR BALLOT SPOT

Petition Opposed by State Attorney General—Logsdon Calls on Truman to Speak Out for Free Elections.

Petitions to place all candidates of the Progressive party on the Missouri ballot in the November general election were being circulated today, and a third party spokesman claimed "over twice as many signatures as needed" already have been obtained.

To make sure of a place on the ballot, the party must obtain signatures of 22,000 qualified voters on petitions nominating electors, and must file the petitions before the deadline tomorrow night.

This is in conformance with a ruling by Secretary of State Edgar C. Nelson, who Saturday rejected a certificate of nomination for Henry A. Wallace, the party's presidential candidate, and Glen A. Taylor, vice presidential candidate. Nelson ruled that the certificate was invalid, without giving any reason for his decision.

After barring Wallace and Taylor from the ballot, Nelson indicated the party's candidates for six state offices and for three congressional seats also would not go on the ballot unless the Progressive State Central Committee filed proper nominating petitions in time.

Progressives File Petition.

Immediately after the Secretary of State issued his ruling, the Progressives petitioned the State Supreme Court to require that Nelson show cause why his objection should not be thrown out. As "insurance" against an adverse decision by the Secretary of State, the Progressives were circulating nominating petitions even before Nelson ruled on an objection filed by Cole County Collector Bert Koester.

Suggestions opposing the petition were filed with the Supreme Court today by State Attorney General J. E. Taylor, representing the Secretary of State, and attorneys for Koester.

The April 11 convention in Jefferson City at which the party was organized lacked authority to nominate presidential electors, it was contended, inasmuch as Missouri law prescribes that a nominating convention must be called only by a party's state committee, and no such committee existed prior to the Progressive convention. A group which went under the name of Missouri Citizens for Wallace called the convention, it was set out.

The nomination certificate filed by the Progressives should have been signed by the state committee secretary as well as by the chairman, it was further contended.

Oral Argument Tomorrow.

The Supreme Court today called for oral argument at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow on the question whether it shall take jurisdiction. This is a departure from court rules, inasmuch as the Supreme Court ordinarily does not hear arguments on the question of assuming jurisdiction in such cases. The action indicates there are points not clearly covered by either side about which the court desires further information before it reaches a decision.

In the event the court assumes jurisdiction, hearing of the case on its merits would follow.

Robert Logsdon, head of the Missouri Progressive and the party's candidate for Governor, today appealed to President Truman "both as President and as a

MET SETTLES WITH UNIONS, PLANS NORMAL OPERA SEASON

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (UP)—The Metropolitan Opera Association has reached agreement with 12 unions and will open this fall for a normal season, George H. Sloan, chairman of the opera's board of directors, announced today.

The announcement came about three weeks after Sloan had said that it would be "utterly impossible' for the Metropolitan to present its opera season.

Management and the unions planned to issue full statements later today.

NUMBER REPORTED TRAPPED IN MONTANA MINE CAVEIN

Doctor, Rescue Equipment Sent to Scene Northwest of Helena.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 23 (AP)—Helena police reported today an undetermined number of men were trapped in a gold mine cave-in at Marysville, about 26 miles northwest of here.

The Police Department said a doctor, rescue equipment and ambulance were sent to the scene from here. A department spokesman said additional details were not known.

Roller Coaster Fatality.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—Five-year-old John R. Eszes of Cleveland, fell 75 feet to his death from a roller coaster Saturday night. Sheriff's deputies said he lost his balance as the coaster rounded a high turn. His mother and his uncle, Walter Dingow, riding in the same car, made frantic attempts to grasp the child as he hurtled over the side.

WOMAN EX-RED TO TELL OF SOVIET WARTIME SPYING IN U.S. INDUSTRY

Miss Bentley to Testify—Congressman Says He Fears the Russians May Have Been Highly Successful.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Congressional investigators said today ss Elizabeth T. Bentley is ready to tell how a Soviet spy ring went after America's wartime industrial secrets.

One member of the House Un-American Activities Committee said he fears the Russians may have been highly successful.

Miss Bentley, avowed former courier for a Communist wartime spy ring, already has given the committee, in secret sessions, a brief peek at what she knows about "espionage in industry," this member said, adding that she evidently knows a lot. Her new story is expected to be told next month.

Paper Says She Will Name 20.

(The New York World-Telegram said today that Miss Bentley will name 20 more persons in the alleged spy ring when she resumes her testimony in September. They include an official of the British intelligence, a prominent economics professor, a well-known leftwing journalist and the editor of a foreign language newspaper, the World-Telegram said.

(According to the newspaper, Miss Bentley will also identify an employe of Amtorg, the Russian trade agency, who collected secret information from the alleged ring.

(The newspaper quoted Miss Bentley as saying the persons she would disclose were "people who held no Government jobs, but from private spots were able to get secret information of value to us."

(The newspaper said some of the persons Miss Bentley will reveal are business men, one a leading Communist author and another a free lance writer on scientific subjects who made up reports on American airplanes for the alleged ring.)

As soon as it can be arranged, the committee member said, public hearings will be held on operations of what the committee regards as a fourth Red spy network in the United States.

Chambers-Hiss Matter.

First, however, the committee has to dispose of loose ends of the testimony of Whittaker Chambers, an editor of Time Magazine. He has said that he, too, used to be a Communist and that the Communists operated a prewar underground in Washington in which Alger Hiss was a leading member. Hiss, former State Department official who now heads the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, denies it.

More witnesses are scheduled for secret questioning today and tomorrow, and then Hiss and Chambers are expected to confront each other in open hearings Wednesday.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (Rep.), New Jersey, has said the committee expects "to bring into full focus the operations of still another espionage ring which secured some of our most vital information." He has declined to go into details, other than to say that Miss Bentley will not be involved.

Request to War Department.

The committee has stirred some guessing by asking the War Department to appoint a liaison officer for this phase of its spy hunt.

In closed sessions today and tomorrow, three or four more witnesses were scheduled for questioning on what they know about the relationship between Chambers and Hiss. Their names were not released ahead of time.

The committee has secretly questioned Mrs. Hiss, Representative Nixon (Rep.), California, told reporters.

Chambers has said he regarded Mrs. Hiss as a Communist, too.

Nixon told reporters:

"No plans have been made for bringing the wives of either one (Hiss or Chambers) into the hearings."

For one thing, the committee feels sure their stories would parallel closely those of their husbands. And in those, there still are wide gaps and variations.

Complaint by Hatch.

Senator Hatch (Dem.), New Mexico, complained, meanwhile, that a congressional investigation of "minnows" has permitted the 'big fish" of the Communist spy pool to get away.

Hatch told a reporter before he left Washington on a vacation he thinks House and Senate inquiries into Communists in the Government "have done the country a great disservice."

"They have merely brought out into the open the minnows, whose activities are only good for the headlines," he said. "These investigations have seriously hampered the efforts of the FBI and the Justice Department to get into the deep waters for the bigger fish."

Taxicab Driver Loses $14 to Passenger Who Shifts Direction of Pistol.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (UP)—Taxicab driver Nathan J. Frank's passenger wanted to kill himself. He threatened to put a pistol to his head and pull the trigger.

Frank talked him out of it. But the passenger didn't let the pistol go to waste. He pointed it at Frank's head and demanded the driver's money.

"He had plenty of life in him when he jumped out with my $14," Frank said.

Struck as Man Fires Rifle to Get Help for Three Who Thought They Were Marooned.

Miss Catherine A. Richards, 5162 Cabanne avenue, was accidentally shot to death early today by Marion D. Hutchinson, 743 Westwood drive, Clayton, after she, her roommate and Hutchinson were marooned all night last night on what they thought was an island in the Missouri river.

The accident occurred as Hutchinson was firing his .22-caliber rifle to attract the attention of a Government towboat shortly before dawn. As he started to fire the second time, Miss Richards suddenly stood up in the boat in which all three were sitting. The bullet struck her below the left eye.

A former member of the United States Coast Guard Women's Reserve, Miss Richards was enrolled in the special veterans' program at Washington University under the G.I. Bill of Rights. She was 23 years old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford J. Richards of Nashville, Ill.

Miss Richards and Hutchinson, accompanied by Miss Beverly A. Erichson, had placed a boat with an outboard motor in the Missouri river near the Howard's Bend pumping station yesterday afternoon. When a pin in the propeller shaft sheared off, they rowed to an island where a farmer made a new pin.

They succeeded in getting back into the main channel only to run out of gasoline. Hutchinson rowed the boat to what he thought was an island but was in reality the St. Charles county shore of the river.

Hutchinson built a fire and fired several shots without attracting any attention and the three settled down in the boat to spend the night there. It was shortly before dawn that the towboat Roosevelt was sighted coming down the river. The accident happened as they tried to signal the boat.

Hutchinson then started walking on the shore and came to the farm home of Elmer Tayon who went back to the scene with him and helped him carry Miss Richards' body to the farm. It was taken from there in a truck to St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles where Miss Richards was pronounced dead.

Prosecuting officials and the St. Charles County Sheriff were investigating at the scene of the shooting today.

Hutchinson was ordered released without charge by the St. Charles county coroner who found the accounts of the tragedy given by Miss Erichson and Hutchinson were identical. An inquest was scheduled for tomorrow at 8 p.m.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23 (AP)—Beulah Louise Overell, 19-year-old heiress who was acquitted with a former fiance of murder charges in the yacht blast deaths of her parents, yesterday disclosed her engagement to Robert Cannon, 28, a Los Angeles policeman.

"This is the real thing," Miss Overell remarked. "I love Bob very much. He has a terrific sense of humor."

She said Cannon's mother, Mrs. Ruth Cannon, Stockton, Calif., has given her blessing, and that her own relatives have done likewise. The pair met last March.

Cannon, a former Air Force gunnery instructor, has been married twice. He said his divorce from Laverne del Santo, former film player, will become final next May. He and the heiress plan to wed soon after that.

"Miss Overell is a good, wholesome girl and a real sport," Cannon said. "We will live on my salary as a policeman. I am not interested in how much money Louise will receive when she becomes 21."

Miss Overell and her former fiance, George (Bud) Gollum, were acquitted of charges of murdering her wealthy parents, who were killed in an explosion aboard their yacht in Newport Harbor, March 15, 1947.

The state tried to prove that they killed the girl's parents so that Beulah would come into her inheritance and they could marry and live in ease.

During the trial they professed undying love for each other and torrid love letters were exchanged between their jail cells.

CORN FALLS 2 1-2 TO 3 1-2 CTS. TO NEW LOWS FOR A YEAR

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Corn fell 2½ to 3½ cents a bushel on the board of trade today in a downturn in grains which sent prices to new lows for a year or longer. Wheat for future delivery dropped 1¾ to 5½ cents. Soybeans fell 6 cents.

Traders said the prospect of a record-breaking corn crop would create a grain surplus this autumn and winter caused much selling. All corn, oats, soybeans and lard futures sank to new lows for the year. May and July wheat also made new lows.

September wheat closed at $2.17½@⅝, compared with a high earlier this year of $2.67, Septembern corn at $1.55¼@1.55, against its high of $2.41½, and November soybeans at $2.43, against a high of $3.47½.

TWO AMERICANS HAD BEEN HELD 18 DAYS, OTHER SINCE YESTERDAY

British, Meanwhile, Release Soviet Sector Police Officer — German Photographer Seized in Latest Russian Raid.

By EDWIN SHANKE

BERLIN, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Russians freed Thomas P. Headen, an American Military Government official, after overnight detention, and the British released a captured German executive of the Soviet-controlled Berlin police today. Two other A.M.G. officials were released by the Russians elsewhere in Germany.

However, a fresh incident stirred tense Berlin. Headquarters of the Western sector German police announced that Russian soldiers again invaded the American sector of Berlin and seized a German photographer.

This was at least the fourth reported violation of the western sector police jurisdiction in central Berlin since the state of virtual civil war between rival East and West police forces began last Thursday with a riot in the no-man's land of Potsdamer Platz.

Headen, 45-year-old deputy chief of the American Military Government's information services division, was arrested by Russian soldiers armed with tommyguns in Potsdamer Platz yesterday. He was turned over to United States liaison officers today.

"Glad to Be Back."

"I'm glad to be back, and I certainly don't want to have any part of that any more," Headen commented as he was brought back to American military police headquarters.

He said the Russians had returned the camera he had with him when he was picked up, before the eyes of his wife and two children—Judith, 10, and Peter, 5.

The Russians also released today five of seven German policemen who were kidnaped by their soldiers last week from the American and British sectors. One of those released was August Hoppe, district police chief of Kreuzberg, in the American sector, who was abducted at gunpoint last Friday.

Outside of Berlin, the Russians today released two American Military Government officials who had been held prisoners in the Soviet zone for 18 days. They are Lt. Sherman Turner of Council Bluffs, Ia., and Rowland Myers of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The release was effected at Hersfeld, on the border of the American and Soviet sectors, at mid-morning. United States officers who talked with the two quoted them as saying they had been "well treated by Russian standards."

Wouldn't Sign Receipt.

The Russians first produced them at the border Aug. 10. American liaison officers, however, would not sign a receipt drawn up by the Russians which said that Turner and Myers entered Russian territory "without authority" and took pictures of the border illegally. The Russian negotiator then took the two back into the Soviet zone.

A lieutenant to whom they were released today said he had signed a "simple receipt." He indicated that the objectionable qualifications had been withdrawn by Soviet liaison officers.

In Berlin, Western police headquarters announced that Franz Erdmann, head of the criminal division of the Soviet-controlled police, was released after his arrest yesterday by British sector police while he was watching a boxing match in the Olympic stadium.

The statement said charges of abduction and "presumption of authority" against Erdman, lodged in connection with the arrest of about 20 Western zone policemen by Eastern forces since the split, still stand.

Erdmann has been the jailer of the arrested policemen. Like his chief, Paul Markgraf, who was dismissed by the anti-Communist city administration but still claims to be chief for all Berlin, Erdmann still claims to head Berlin's entire criminal police force.

The Soviet-licensed German news agency ADN said Erdmann was arrested "illegally" and released by command of Markgraf. The headquarters of Chief Johannes Stumm, who was appointed Markgraf's successor by the city government, said, however, in its statement it "wished to emphasize Erdmann's release was not the result of an order by Markgraf or by a military government."

Photographer's Seizure.

The latest invasion of the American sector by Russian soldiers occurred this forenoon just off the Potsdamer Platz, an area which is being heavily patroled by Russian, British and American military police.

The photographer "was stand-

Nothing But Heat, Says Wahlgren, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

The weather can be summed up simply, the weather man said today—it was hot yesterday, it is hot today and it's going to be hot tomorrow. Furthermore, last night, when the mean temperature was 80 degrees, was the hottest thus far this year.

The mercury in the downtown weather bureau's thermometer didn't get below 80 until 4 a.m. today, and the low this morning was a warm 75 at 7 a.m., Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren reported. Yesterday's high in the city was 97.4 at 3 p.m., .5 of a degree below the high for the year set Saturday, but temperature at Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday afternoon got up to 99.

Wahlgren thinks the thermometer downtown will register a high near 100 degrees tomorrow, after a low in the morning of about 75. Fortunately, humidity has been relatively low during the current hot spell. It was only 48 per cent at noon yesterday.

The price of lemons, much in demand for lemonade and other cooling drinks, skyrocketed today as a result of the heat, it was reported. On Commission Row, auction prices of some lemons almost doubled, advancing $2.50 to $3 a box. Today's prices ranged from $5.50 to $9.65 a box.

Three persons were overcome by heat exhaustion yesterday. They were Henry Irish, 82 years old, 7603 Harter avenue, Richmond Heights, who is at St. Louis County Hospital, and Mrs. Ruby Dixon, Negro, 43, 1541 South Third street, and Candy Tate, Negro, 74, 2928 Market street, who are at Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP) — Babe Ruth set aside part of his estate for "the interests of the kids of America," his will showed today. The will was filed in Surrogate's court for probate today.

Ruth's attorney, Melvyn G. Lowenstein, declined to estimate the total value of the estate.

To Mrs. Ruth, the home running king left $5000 in cash, the income from a trust he established in 1927; all stocks, bonds and cash remaining after inheritance taxes, and household effects.

Ruth's will, drawn up Aug. 9, 1948 at Memorial Hospital just a week before he died there, provided that after Mrs. Ruth's death one-tenth of the residue of the estate will go to "The Babe Ruth Foundation, Inc., a corporation orgahized under the membership corporations law of the State of New York and dedicated to the interests of the kids of America."

"That's the way Babe wanted it," Lowenstein said. "I can't think of anyone else for whom I would have worded it that way."

The foundation was established to occupy itself with child welfare, juvenile delinquency and high school competitions for sportsmanship prizes.

Ruth made outright bequests of his baseball souvenirs to the executors of his will, J. Paul Carey II, and Lowenstein.

PURGE REPORTED IN YUGOSLAVIA OF HUNDREDS OF ANTI-TITO REDS

50 Secret Police Said to Be Among Those Arrested Since Aug. 4 in Roundup of Cominform Sympathizers.

BELGRADE, Aug. 23 (UP)—Reliable reports said today that 50 members of the Yugoslav secret police were among hundreds of persons arrested in a widespread purge of all anti-Tito Communists in the country.

The purge began in Montenegro after four members of the Montenegro Government were dismissed Aug. 4 and since then has spread to all parts of the country, the reports said.

It was understood that all 5000 members of the OZNA, Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz's secret police, are involved in running down and arresting Communists suspected of being sympathetic to the Communist Information Bureau (Cominform) in its dispute with Tito.

The arrest of Bozo Yumovitch, vice premier of Montenegro, already has been announced. Others arrested, according to reports, are Labud Kussovac, foreign editor of the Tanjug news agency, and Blazo Rajchevitch, director general of the state silo monopoly.

Reason for Purge.

Reports said the purge was ordered when it was discovered that there was a widespread movement in Yugoslavia to set up an anti-Tito movement outside the country.

The movement was disclosed a week ago when the Government announced that Col. Gen. Arso Jovanovitch, former chief of staff of the Yugoslav Army, had been shot and killed as he attempted to escape to Hungary.

Two other Yugoslav generals left Zemun airport in separate planes for undisclosed destinations the day before the shooting of Govanovitch was announced, reliable sources said.

One of the generals was identified as Maj. Gen. Krsta Popivodo, who often was seen in Tito's company. The other was not identified.

COMINFORM-TITO LETTERS REPORTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—The New York Times said today in a dispatch from Trieste that the basis for the Communist Information Bureau's denunciation of Yugoslav Communists was Premier Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz's desire to keep Yugoslavia outside the Soviet sphere of influence and insure its neutrality.

The dispatch was based on a series of letters it said was written between March 27 and May 22 by the Central Committee of the Russian Communist party to the Central Committee of the Yugoslav Communist party. The Cominform blast at the Tito regime was published June 28.

Camille M. Cianfarra, who wrote the dispatch, said he had been shown copies of the letters by Yugoslavia officials who arrived recently in Trieste from Belgrade. Cianfarra said transmission of the letters from Yugoslavia was reported forbidden by Yugoslav censors.

A letter dated May 4, described as 7000 words long and the most important of the series, was quoted as saying Tito had wanted Russia to go to war with the Western powers after the Soviets, at the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Paris meeting in the fall of 1946, had been forced to accept a French compromise for the creation of the free territory of Trieste.

Another letter was quoted as having rebuked Tito and Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj for objecting to requests by the Russian Ambassador in Belgrade for information on Yugoslav Communist work, thereby putting the Russian envoy on the same plane with "regular bourgeois ambassadors." The dispatch said the letter continued:

"After having exhausted all other means, the Soviet Union had only one means left to give Trieste to Yugoslavia—to wage war against the Anglo-Americans and occupy Trieste by force.

"The Yugoslav comrades could not be unaware that the U.S.S.R. could not embark in a new war after having waged one so hard. But this attitude has caused dissatisfaction among Yugoslav leaders, which has found its expression in Comrade Tito's atttiude."

The letter accused Maj. Gen. Vladimir Velebit, Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Minister, and Dr. M. L. Leontitc, Ambassador to London, of being British spies and asserted the United States Ambassador to Belgrade was permitted to "act as though he were in his own country."

A letter dated March 27 was quoted as having reminded Tito how Trotsky, termed another "traitor," died in Mexico. Trotsky was assassinated in Mexico in 1940.

The most recent letter, dated May 22, was quoted as having asserted Tito and the Yugoslav Communist party, "with their anti-Soviet and anti-Russian party," had "done all that was necessary to kill the trust that the Communist party and the Government of the U.S.S.R. had in them." Tito also was reported to believe that in any military showdown between the East and the West, Russia would lose.

ARSON CHARGE IN HOUSE FIRE

William Fierce, 2808A Gasconade street, was charged with arson in a warrant issued today by Assistant Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd as a result of a fire which caused $200 damage Saturday at the Gasconade street address.

Fierce was arrested after two passersby and a child living in the house told police they saw Fierce set fire to a pile of papers between an ashpit and the house, and that the flames spread to the building. Fierce denied the charge.

ing on the American side of the Koethener street (which runs into Potsdamer Platz) when a Russian officer, accompanied by a Russian soldier, approached him and wanted to take his camera away," Stumm's headquarters said.

"Two western sector police, who wanted to assist him, were beaten off by blows from the rifle butts of 10 Russian soldiers who had hurried to the scene in the meantime. The photographer was then dragged off into the Russian sector."

Headen's Experience.

Headen and his family had visited Potsdamer Platz—the international crossroads where the British, American and Soviet sectors meet—out of curiosity.

It was not clear whether Headen stepped into the Russian sector, for boundary lines in the big city square are poorly defined.

British military police said Headen was standing close to two other persons who were taking pictures. Soviet patrols recently have tried to nab all cameramen. The two other picture takers ran when the Soviet jeep rolled into the square.

Headen's wife said he did not run because he was afraid the Russians would shoot.

Mrs. Headen shouted to her husband, as the Russians seized him, "What shall I do?" He did not have time to answer. She then notified the United States military police.

Headen was held 21 hours. American officials who questioned him said the Russians did not mistreat him. Headen told American intelligence officers he drove to the Potsdamer Platz "to take some pictures because of the furor there during the last days." He said he was not sure whether he crossed the line into the Soviet zone.

"I snapped a couple of pictures and then, as I looked over my shoulder, I saw a jeep with three Soviet soldiers," Headen related. "They grabbed me by the arms, put me into a jeep and took me to a nearby Soviet police station. Before you could say Winston Churchill, I had had it."

He said he was interrogated and told it was forbidden to take pictures of the Potsdamer Platz, which the Russians said was in the soviet sector.

Reds Fed Him Twice.

"I was fed twice, once last night when I received beans, potato soup, black bread and cheese, and again this morning," Headen said. "This morning I was handed a broom and told to sweep the cell clean. I did. Later they gave me a mop to scrub it, but I did not do it."

Headen has criticized the Russians for suppressing freedom of expression in their zone of Germany by police methods. He said in a broadcast last February they "have the same fear of truth and criticism which was displayed by the Nazi dictatorship."

Headen, is a native of Springfield, Mo. He graduated from high school in Kansas City, Mo. and then from the University of Missouri. He began his newspaper career on the Kansas City Star and in 1928 joined the New York Sun.

ORDER REQUIRES ARMED FORCES TO AID EACH OTHER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—American military chiefs laid down the edict today that the Army, Navy and Air Force must each call on aid from the others when that will promote "effectiveness and economy" of operations.

This pronouncement came in a statement from Secretary of Defense Forrestal on what was accomplished at weekend meetings of top military officials at Newport, R.I.

Forrestal also said:

1. There was discussion of "broad strategic matters of particular interest in the current international situation."

2. "Current scientific developments were surveyed in an effort to insure that the armed services in both operational and logistical fields will keep abreast of the latest capabilities of various types of weapons and their appropriate employment."

Key West Pact Extended.

The announcement referred to aid and co-operation among the services in reporting that the Newport meeting "clarified" and "extended" the so-called "Key West agreement."

Forrestal met with military chiefs at Key West, Fla., last March to work out an understanding of what duties each service had under the consolidation of all services under a single department of defense.

Today's announcement said the "primary functions" assigned at Key West continue, but added:

"This does not preclude participation of other services. On the contrary, it requires the fullest consideration and use of any available forces, regardless of service, if they add to the effecttiveness and economy of the operations."

No Immediate Change Indicated.

There was no indication whether that would mean any immediate change in current military operations.

Some Navy men have been contending that the Navy, if given a chance, could contribute greatly to the air supply of Berlin. That is now strictly an Air Force job.

There has been a squabble between the Navy and the Air Force over air duties of each ever since the Air Force was created as a separate department on equal footing with the Army and Navy.

Today's announcement said that the Key West agreement has been "subject to different interpretations since its preparation."

The Newport meeting was to settle those different interpretations.

The Air Force, for instance, has loudly criticized the Navy's proposed construction of a super-carrier on the ground that it infringes on Air Force long-range bombing functions. The Navy has denied the purpose of the carrier is to do long-range bombing.

Others who attended were: Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff; Adm. Louis E. Denfeld, Navy Chief of Operations; Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, Army General Staff Planning Chief; V. Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Navy Planning Chief; Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad, Air Force Planning Chief and Maj. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, director of the Joint Staff.

DONNELLY CALLS FOR FULL CO-OPERATION IN DRAFT LAW

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 23 (UP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly today called on all Missouri citizens "to extend the fullest co-operation" in compliance with the National Selective Service Act.

In a proclamation, Donnelly repeated the exemptions and draft registration dates listed by the President last week. He urged state agencies and private businesses to give employes time for the registration which starts at 8 a.m. next Monday and lasts through Sept. 18.

Gen. John A. Harris, state selective service director, released names of most of the board members and clerks last week. Harris said today that additional progress had been made in setting up the full number of boards needed for registration next Monday.

RETIRED JUSTICE OF PEACE FOUND DEAD, PISTOL AT SIDE

Clarence Rehberger, a former St. Clair county justice of the peace, was found dead today in the yard of his home on Highway 50 in French Village. Dr. C. C. Kane, coroner, said Rehberger apparently sot himself through the heart with a .45 caliber pistol found near the body.

Since retiring as a justice of the peace about 10 year sago, Dr. Kane said, Rehberger had been in business as a notary public. He had been under a physician's care for a nervous ailment for about four years. He was 58 years old.

G.O.P. NOMINEES MEET TO PLAN STATE CAMPAIGN

They Also Discuss Selection of New Chairman —Phares and King Are Mentioned.

By BOYD F. CARROLL.
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 23—Republican nominees for state elective offices are meeting here this afternoon to discuss organization of the November election compaign and selection of a new chairman to head the Republican State Committee.

No agreement on the chairmanship was reached at previous meetings of the candidates in Branson and Springfield.

The chairman will be elected by members of the new state committee here on Sept. 14, when the committee will organize and then join with the party candidates in drafting of a state platform. The committee members will be elected by Congressional district committees of the 13 Congressonial districts, on Aug. 31.

Preferences Discussed.

Discussion among the candidates on their preference for Republican chairman has centered on William F. Phares of Maryville and State Representative R. J. King Jr., of St. Clair. Phares managed the primary campaign of Murray E. Thompson of Marshfield, Republican nominee for Governor. King close friend of Thompson, was active in the latter's campaign.

Grover W. Dalton of Poplar Bluff, now chairman of the Republican State Committee, has not been ruled out as a possibility but has indicated on several occasions his desire to retire from the post.

Democrats to Meet.

Reorganization of the Democratic State Committee will be discussed by the Democratic candidates some time this week at Sedalia, where most of the candidates are attending the Missouri State Fair.

The Democratic committee, whose members will be elected by congressional commiitees on Aug. 31, also will organize here on Sept. 14, in connection with the Democratic platform convention.

The law provides that both the Republican and Democratic platform conventions, and reorganization of the party committees, shall take place here on the second Tuesday in September, following a state-wide primary election.

Forrest Smith to Have Say.

State Auditor Forrest Smith, who won the Democratic nomination for Governor in a runaway primary race, will have considerable to say about the selection of the Democratic chairman.

Smith is reported to favor James P. Aylward of Kansas City, or John H. Hendren of Jefferson City. Aylward formerly was Democratic state chairman and served one term as Democratic National Committeeman for Missouri. Hendren was campaign manager for Smith in the recent primary campaign.

There is some support for retention of Frank W. Hayes of Sedalia, the present state chairman. He is favored by Attorney General J. E. Taylor, Democratic nominee for re-election. Hayes is a special assistant Attorney General.

AID OF EXPELLED CONSUL ALSO LEAVING FOR RUSSIA

Declines to Tell Why He Is Going—Superior Booked Passage Six Weeks Ago.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Zot I. Chepurnykh, Soviet vice consul here, said today that he is planning to return to Russia but will not accompany Consul General Jacob M. Lomakin, who is scheduled to sail Saturday.

Lomakin was ordered expelled by the State Department last week after it accused him of "improper conduct" in connection with the case of Mrs. Oksana Kosenkina, injured Aug. 12 in a two-story leap from the Russian consulate.

Chepurnykh declined to tell reporters why he was returning home or when he planned to leave.

"Are you going with Mr. Lomakin?" he was asked.

"No, later on," the vice consul replied, adding that he was in "no particular hurry."

Earlier today, a Swedish-American Line official disclosed that Lomakin's passage, aboard the liner Stockholm next Saturday, had been booked about six weeks ago.

Lomakin, his wife and their two children will occupy a $1400 suite on the Stockholm, the line official said.

The discredited consul general returned to the consulate shortly after 10 a.m. today after spending what he called a restful weekend with his family and friends. He said he fished, swam and played tennis and volleyball, presumably on Long Island. He told reporters he would make no statemen today.

As Lomakin alighted from his automobile, truckmen were completing the loading of a number of crates, paintings and other property brought out of the consulate.

An attache said, however, that none of the property was Lomakin's.

She will have to remain in the hospital about three months, her physician said yesterday, and surgery will be necessary on her right knee, one of a number of bones fractured in her jump.

Five men, heavily laden with luggage, left the consulate by automobile yesterday. Later in the day, three Russians, carrying so much luggage that they paid an extra $427 for transportation, left New York International Airport on a Scandinavian Airlines plane. An interpreter, who said he was from the office of the Russian naval attache in Washington, said the three men were couriers from the consulate here on a routine trip. They were booked for Stockholm, Sweden. The interpreter said the three passengers had not seen Lomakin.

TWO $75,000 BEQUESTS MADE BY WIDOW OF ROBERT HOLMES

Bequests of $75,000 each to two grandchildren were made by Mrs. Caro Nichols Holmes, widow of Robert Holmes, St. Louis lumber dealer, it was learned today when her will was filed in Probate Court by the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co., a co-executor of the estate.

The grandchildren are Fielding Louis Holmes and Caro Nichols Holmes Smith. After bequests of $1000 each to a chauffeur, his wife and a cook, the residue of the estate will go to a son, John Arthur Holmes, and a daughter, Caro Sewell Holmes Smith. An inventory of the estate has not been completed, a bank official said, and no estimate of its size has been made.

Mrs. Holmes, who lived at 4931 Lindell boulevard, died last Aug. 9. Her husband, president of the J. A. Holmes Lumber Co., died in 1934. Executors of his estate paid inheritance taxes to the state on a net taxabde estate of $1,307,000 after deductions totaling $374,000 for exemptions had been made.

Veterans in U.S. Jobs.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The number of disabled veterans working in the federal executive branch has doubled in two and a half years, the Civil Service Commission said yesterday. The total in January, 1946, was 50,973 out of 2,405,985, while in June, 1948, it reached 103,770 out of the 1,854,955 employes on the civilian payroll.

CENTRAL HIGH STUDENT WINS INDUSTRIAL ARTS PRIZE

A St. Louis high school student won a second prize in the second annual Scholastic Magazine Industrial Arts Awards contest, and three other St. Louis students won honorable mentions in various divisions of the competition, it was announced yesterday. The prize-winning work is being exhibited at the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

Ken Poole, 17 years old, a Central High School student, won second prize in the Machine Drawing classification. Honorable mentions were awarded to Fred Kirby, Central, architectural drawing; Warner Ruckngel, Hadley Technical High School, hand tools, and Leslie Black, Roosevelt High School, architectural drawing.

Cuts Price of Women's Shoes.

STALIN CONFERS WITH ENVOYS OF WESTERN POWERS

Climactic Meeting of Series on Berlin and German Problems Appears to Be Under Way.

MOSCOW, Aug. 23 (UP)—Premier Joseph Stalin met with envoys of the United States, Britain and France tonight, in what appeared to be the climactic meeting of a series seeking to end the East-West cold war in Germany.

The conference, sixth in a series which began late last month, opened at the Kremlin at 9 p.m. (1 p.m. St. Louis time), and less than an hour later speculation that Stalin was attending was confirmed by an official announcement.

Also present for Russia was Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who has conducted most of the negotiations. United States Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, Frank Roberts, special British envoy, and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau represented the Western powers.

At issue, as the diplomats began what was believed almost certain to be the final meeting of the series, were these questions:

1. The Berlin blockade imposed by Russia. The Western powers are asking that it be lifted immediately.

2. The future of Germany. Russia is believed to have demanded that the Western powers quit pushing plans for a separate west German state, and engage in new four-power negotiations regarding the problem of Germany.

3. Possibly even the future peace of the world.

The conference began at the same hour as that of Aug. 2 which Stalin attended.

The Western envoys had prepared for tonight's conference by spending several days in consultation and in referring questions back to their respective capitals.

Supporting belief that the final stage of negotiations had been reached and that some decision would be forthcoming after tonight's meeting was the fact that Roberts was known to have made plans for his return to Britain.

Smith told foreign correspondents in a letter that he assumed simultaneous statements would be issued in Washingon, Moscow, London and Paris when the four-power talks end.

"I regret to inform you that my instructions are specific and that I will not be able to make any comment until authorized by Washington," he said.

Commerce Department Survey Says, However, State in 1947 Showed Gain of 7 Per Cent Over 1946 Amount.

Missourians earned an average of $1197 each last year, about 10 per cent below the average income nationally, it is stated in the August issue of the Survey of Current Business, published by the Department of Commerce and released today.

While the Missouri income was substantially below the $1323 national average, it represented a gain of about 7 per cent over the state's 1946 average income. The per capita income increased 9 per cent over 1946 on a national basis.

Included in the figures are income in the form of wages; salaries; net income from unincorporated businesses including farms, dividends, interest, net rents and miscellaneous items.

Much of the increase in the national average came from higher farm income. The largest percentage increases were in the wheat producing states of North Dakota, where the increase was 43 per cent; Kansas, 26 per cent; Colorado, 21 per cent, and Montana, 20 per cent. South Dakota, Mississippi, Texas and New Mexico also showed substantial increases over 1946 income. An actual decline in farm income in Missouri, Iowa, Arkansas, Nebraska and California resulted in a lower than average increase when compared with the national trend, the article said.

The nine highest areas in per capita income in 1947 were Nevada, with $1842; New York, $1781; North Dakota, $1678; Connecticut, $1671; Delaware, $1646; California, $1643; Montana, $1641, and the District of Columbia and Illinois, $1624. Mississippi was at the bottom of the list, with $659, and the 15 southern states were among the last 16 as far as average earnings were concerned.

For the country as a whole the dollar volume of income was 25 per cent more than that in the peak war year, 1944. Areas that had little war industry and that have had greatly expanded post-war farm income were particularly fortunate in this respect. The Northwest states, which had an income 36 per cent above the 1944 average, were at the top.

AS MERCURY HITS 98, 11 SNOWSUITS ARE STOLEN FROM AUTO

A somewhat unseasonable quest was made today by police. They searched for 11 snow suits, which were reported stolen last Saturday from a parked automobile at about the time the mercury reached 98 degrees in the downtown area.

James Lane, 3518 North Prairie avenue, a salesman, said the garments were in a suitcase that was taken from his car in the 600 block of North Thirteenth street.

Three Negroes who were seen carrying a suitcase in an alley in the rear of the 1300 block of Delmar boulevard later in the afternoon were arrested. The suitcase, which was empty, was identified by Lane as the one in which he had had the suits. The suits were found on a vacant lot in the neighborhood. The Negroes denied breaking into the car, but warrants charging them with grand larceny in connection with the theft were issued today by the circuit attorney's office.

ARDMORE, Okla., Aug. 23 (AP)—A burglar broke into an Army-Navy surplus store here yesterday while thermometers were registering 103. Four pairs of snowshoes and 20 fishing poles 26 feet long were stolen.

THREATENS TOSSERS OF BOTTLES WITH SHOTGUN; JAILED

Paul Revere Norton armed himself against what had become a daily bottle barrage Saturday night, and even police conceded that he had plenty of provocation.

Norton lives at 3631A Dodier street. His rear yard backs up against the right field side of the Sportsman's Park grandstand, and baseball fans find it a convenient dump for beer and soft drink bottles, Norton said.

About 11 o'clock Saturday night, Norton, who had been drinking, had had enough, both of the bottles and their contents. He loaded a shotgun and flourished it threateningly in the general direction of the grandstand. Police arrived, however, before anybody had sailed any more bottles into the yard. At City Hospital he was found to be suffering from acute alcoholism.

Beaten, Robbed of Watch.

James Fisher, a laborer, 1719 Franklin avenue, reported he was robbed of a watch yesterday by two Negroes who held him up and beat him on Lucas avenue near Eighteenth street. Fisher was treated at City Hospital for a fractured nose and lacerations of the face.

Crippled Girl, 7, Reaches Safety After Night in Woods on East Side

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

A 14-hour intensive search for 7-year-old Margie Moore ended this morning when the girl, apparently suffering from nothing worse than mosquito bites, walked out of a heavily-wooded sector near Hartford, Ill.

The first person to see the child was her father, Leslie Moore of Cottage Hills, near Alton, who had been with more than 100 rescue workers during an all-night search of a wooded area, about three miles square, bordered on one side by a drainage canal and on the other by the Mississippi river.

Margie, who has a crippled leg as the result of an attack of infantile paralysis, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, for examination after she was found.

She emerged from a timbered area near the Ohio Oil Co. loading dock on the Mississippi river, three miles from the mouth of the drainage canal, as bloodhounds, brought by the Illinois State Patrol, were put on her trail.

The girl disappeared shortly before 8 o'clock last night after she left her father, who was fishing on the bank of the drainage canal, to join her mother in the family's automobile about 300 feet away. Her path led through a sector thick with underbrush.

A search was begun after the Moores' four other children, who were together, followed her a few minutes later and found she had not arrived at the automobile.

Participating in the search, in addition to the state police, were the Alton volunteer emergency corps, Coast Guard auxiliary, Madison county officers, Boy Scouts and firemen from Hartford, Granite City, Madison and Alton. The drainage canal was dragged for one mile in an attempt to locate the girl. The Red Cross set up a canteen for rescue workers.

MARRIAGE LICENSE APPLICATIONS UP AFTER DRAFT LAW

Eighty-seven pairs seeking marriage licenses, exactly three times the number of a week earlier, will return to the license office at City Hall tomorrow to obtain the documents for which they filed application Saturday. That is, unless some of the applicants fail to get the required health certificates, or unless some of the young men decide, on second thought, that they would prefer induction into the Army to matrimony.

The number of applications filed Saturday compared with 29 on the previous Saturday. Seventy-two licenses, based on previous applications, were issued Saturday, as against 49 one week before. The increase was chiefly in the number of candidates between 19 and 25 years of age. Young men in this age range are eligible for induction only if they remain unmarried.

There was no noticeable rush of applicants at the opening of the license office today.

Chicago, Brooklyn, Detroit, Minneapolis and Cleveland were centers of the get-married-quick movement last weekend, with some of the husbands-elect declaring openly that they were marrying to escape the chance of being enrolled in the peacetime Army. Chicago had nearly 500 applicants; Brooklyn 400 and Detroit about 300. Boston, Los Angeles and Kansas City reported no unusual activity in the marriage mart.

$3700 IN DONATIONS, BABY SISTER FOR BOY WITH CANCER

A total of $3700 had been contributed today to the family of 20-month-old Larry Burns, who is expected to die of cancer in the next few months. Larry's father, James J. Burns, a foreman at the Lipic Pen Co., has been receiving his regular pay even though he has been working only a few hours each week recently.

Meanwhile, Larry's mother gave birth yesterday to a 6-pound 8-ounce girl at Josephine Hietkamp Hospital, and both mother and daughter were doing well today. The girl is the Burns's third child. They have a son, James Jr., who is 4 years old.

Among donations received yesterday was $90 given by three girls and a boy who operated a lemonade stand last week in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Mueller at 4055 Lee avenue. The children took the money to the Burns home at 1784A Mississipi avenue and gave the baby a baseball an anonymous donor had given them for the boy.

A total of $3200 had been received by Burns today and about $500 more had been collected by Earl Evans, president of the Associated Cartage Co., who was preparing to wind up his separate campaign for the family.

NEW RECORD SET FOR ATTENDANCE AT MUNICIPAL OPERA

A new weekly attendance record for Municipal Opera was on the books today, "Up in Central Park," the opera's current and final production, played to 79,660 persons in the seven-day period ended last night.

The new mark for a week's attendance was more than 1000 ahead of the old record, 78,485, set by "Babes in Toyland" last summer at the outdoor theater in Forest Park, the Municipal Opera Association reported.

Last night's production played to 11,436 persons; only a few hundred short of capacity, 11,935. The latter figure has been reached by other shows this summer. "Up in Central Park" will continue at 8:30 o'clock each evening through next Sunday. Officials hope it will do even better this week.

LOSES SHOES, PANTS AND $5 ON TOUR OF EAST SIDE TAVERNS

A man identifying himself as Wesley Thompson of Braddock, N. D., reported he lost his shoes, trousers and $5 after a tour of taverns in St. Louis and East St. Louis in the company of two women and a taxicab driver early yesterday. His companions disappeared about the same time as his apparel and money, he reported.

Thompson said he met the two women in a tavern in the 3900 block of Olive street. After consuming several drinks, the women called a taxicab and Thompson accompanied the group to the East Side, where the cab driver joined them, he reported.

The party ended, for Thompson, he reported to the Illinois Highway Patrol, when he found himself wandering in stocking feet and shorts in a strange street on the outskirts of East St. Louis.

CHURCH DISCOVERS $94 MAIL THEFTS OF 2 MONTHS AGO

Officers of the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards, learned for the first time last night that a total of nearly $100 in contributions apparently was stolen from the church mail last June.

The discovery was made after an usher, Delbert Crow, 2627 Sullivan avenue, saw a man dressed in work clothing place a bundle wrapped in newspapers beneath a cushion of a sofa on the church balcony during evening services. After the man walked away, Crow investigated and found the bundle, which contained checks and money orders payable to the church and totaling $94.

There also were envelopes in the bundle, and on the basis of postal cancellations on them police believe the checks and money orders represent contributions received in the mail last June 26.

RECEIVER SOUGHT FOR LOAN FIRM; HEAD IS KILLED

Suspect Says Man Tried to Make Death Appear to Be Murder to Collect on Insurance.

EMPORIA, Kan., Aug. 23 (AP)—Receivership was sought today for the City Finance Co., a loan firm here, as an aftermath to the mysterious killing of its 60-year-old president, Herbert J. Kindred.

Incorporators applied to District Judge Jay Sullivan for a receiver because the "corporation is in danger of insolvency." The action came as the Kansas Corporation Commission at Topeka was recommending receivership and dissolution.

Kindred's body, pierced by three bullets, was found on a lonely road near Florence, Kan., last Tuesday. William E. Gayer, 29-year-old Emporia truck driver, has been charged with murder in the case. Gayer has maintained Kindred offered him $1000 to kill him (Kindred) but that he had refused.

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation quoted Gayer as saying Kindred made the strange offer because he was in financial difficulty and had chosen death as a way out but wanted it to appear as murder rather than suicide so Kindred's wife could collect on his insurance, estimated as high as $60,000.

Defalcation Indicated.

At Topeka, Jeff Robertson, corporation commissioner, said "indications are there have been widespread defalcations, but the conditions of books and records of the firm are such that we cannot determine the extent.

"The bulk of the loss will fall on financial institutions and few if any losses will fall on small investors."

During the presentation of the receivership application before Judge Sullivan, Beck listed as major creditors on rediscount paper:

City Investment Corp., Fairbury, Nebr., $134,000; the Associated Discount Corp. of South Bend, Ind., $180,000; the Riverview State Bank of Kansas City, Kan., $49,000, and the National City Bank of Topeka, $30,000.

H. C. Davis, who became a member of the firm last week after Kindred's body was found, told Judge Sullivan that as far as he knew the company's cash assets were $100 on deposit in an Emporia bank and less than $150 in cash found in the firm's office.

Estimate of Losses.

Davis told Judge Sullivan estimated losses to creditors may run as high as $500,000 or $750,000.

Gayer was arrested after police learned he had made a trip to Wichita with the murdered man. Gayer said Kindred had asked him if he had thought a .25 caliber pistol would be powerful enough to kill him and that later they had exchanged a .25 caliber pistol for a .32 caliber.

On the way back to Emporia, Gayer told police, they both fired practice shots and then Kindred asked him to kill him. Gayer said he refused. At Florence Kindred made a phone call and said they would return to Wichita, Gayer said.

In Wichita they met two men in a black car, Gayer said. Kindred left with the men after telling him to drive his car to Joplin and giving him $100 for expenses. Kindred took the .32 with him, Gayer said.

Gayer's trip to Joplin has been corroborated by a companion on the trip, police said.

The murder weapon, thought to be a .32 caliber pistol, has not been found.

$500 FIRE IN FOREST PARK

Firemen were called to Forest Park today to extinguish a blaze in four evergreen trees on Government Hill near the World's Fair pavilion.

The fire, believed to have been started by two children playing with matches, was soon put out. Damage was estimated at $500.

Loses Arm

DR. BARNES S. SOUDER

LOSES ARM AFTER HIS BOAT UPSETS IN RACE

Dr. Barnes S. Souder Is Hit by Craft When Thrown in Water.

Dr. Barnes S. Souder, a dentist, 406 Innisfail drive, Webster Groves, suffered the loss of his left arm yesterday in a motorboat race on the Illinois river at Hardin, 65 miles northeast of St. Louis.

An experienced motorboat operator, Dr. Souder was piloting his 14-foot craft when it capsized on a turn of the one-mile course after hitting a wave. Dr. Souder then was struck by the boat that was behind his craft in the race.

As he started to sink, the pilot of the other boat and another motorboat operator jumped into the water and pulled him out.

Dr. Souder was given emergency treatment at the scene and then was taken by ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, where it was found necessary to amputate the arm below the shoulder. His condition today was serious.

The race, witnessed by hundreds of persons, was part of an American Legion celebration. Among those who saw the accident was Dr. Souder's wife, Blanche. She told a Post-Dispatch reporter that her husband was left-handed.

Dr. Souder, 37 years old, has an office at 5625 Hampton avenue. He was a major in the Army's dental corps in the last war. He and his wife live with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Norris, at the Innisfail address.

20 RADIO-EQUIPPED BUSSES TO RUN ON DELMAR ROUTE

Passengers on the St. Louis Public Service Co.'s Delmar bus line will be exposed to frequency modulation radio broadcasts when 20 radio-equipped busses move to that line for a 10-day test beginning tomorrow at about 6 a.m.

Radio already has invaded the confines of the 20 busses in previous tests on the Cherokee and Natural Bridge lines. After the trial period on the Delmar route, the busses will be available for similar 10-day runs on the Kingshighway, Lindenwood and Carondelet lines.

Early reports from a survey being made for the company on rider reaction to the radio programs indicate an "overwhelming" favorable response, a company spokesman said. If most passengers like the music and commercial announcements with their rides, the company plans to install receivers in about 1000 of 1200 busses and in some 300 streamliner streetcars.

P.S. CO. PROFIT IN 6 MONTHS 218 PCT. ABOVE 1947 PERIOD

Net Income $473,997 for First Half of 1948 —Rise Laid to Higher Pass Charges, Strike Last Year.

Net income of the St. Louis Public Service fo rthe first six months of 1948 totaled $473,997, an increase of 218 per cent over the $147,517 total for the corresponding period of 1947, the company reported today.

Most of the big increase was attributed to higher fares and the fact that income in 1947 was slashed by a two-week transportation strike in June. Prices of bus and streetcar passes were increased an average of 20 per cent in July 1947, and the company last April abandoned the four-for-35-cent fare tokens. It was estimated that the 1947 transportation strike cost the company $500,000 in fares and about $110,000 in net income.

Operating income in the first half of the current year was listed at $881,820, compared to $346,071 in the corresponding period of 1947. Gross sales increased from $12,120,733 to $13,466,439, and sales cost went up from $11,774,661 to $12,584,528.

The company set aside $315,902 for federal and state income taxes, as compared to $99,978 in the first half of last year.

The number of employes was reduced by 207—from 4106 to 3899—yet the total for salaries and wages went up, it was reported. The figure for the first half of 1948 was $6,118,110, compared to $5,962,237 in 1947.

Busses and streetcars operated 27,015,591 revenue miles, compared to 25,422,549 miles in the 1947 period.

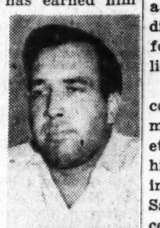
'DAYLIGHT BURGLAR' ADMITS $1000 CASH TAKE IN 15 JOBS

Collected Silver in Preparation for Getting Married, He Tells Police.

Walter J. McKnight, former convict whose habit of breaking into homes between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. has earned him the sobriquet of "the daylight burglar," admitted to police today he has obtained $1000 in cash and household articles of unestimated value in 15 burglaries in the city within the last four months.



W. J. McKnight

McKnight, 23 years old, was arrested Saturday near Ninth street and Tyler avenue by Detective John J. Enright and Detective Sgt. Gus Ernst, to whom he had been identified as the burglar who took $100 in $2 bills Aug. 5 from the home of Mrs. Jeannette Herzog, 5595 Page boulevard.

It was the second time Enright had arrested McKnight. When he picked him up once before for a theft, McKnight was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary. He has been sought for jumping bond on another larceny charge since his release from prison in April.

Police said McKnight told them he would ring the doorbell of a house and, if anyone appeared, tell them he understood they had a used automobile for sale. If no one answered he would break in and take whatever was handy. Sometimes, when sewing machines or typewriters proved too bulky to carry away on foot, he called a taxicab.

McKnight said he was the burglar who absent-mindedly left a silver-plated service at the home of William Stumbaugh, 2047 East Prairie avenue, July 29, while taking $25 and a wristwatch valued at $15. He planned to get married next month, he told police, and was collecting silver to set up housekeeping.

GROOM ALL SET FOR CEREMONY LOSES LICENSE

Hectic Interlude Before Document Is Recovered From Jewelry Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Lebedun of the Forest Park Hotel were on their honeymoon today, following a hectic period before their wedding yesterday when Lebedun found he had lost the marriage license.

Lebedun made his startling discovery when he dressed in the morning. He searched in the pockets of his clothing; then, calming himself for a moment, he began in his mind retracing his steps of Saturday. Concluding the lost license had been left at Arnold's Jewelry Store, 302 North Sixth street, he hurried to that address.

The license was there all right. It was in plain sight on a counter inside the store. The only trouble was that the store was locked and Lebedun, now thoroughly confused, couldn't remember who "Arnold" was. He called police, they checked records, then called Arnold Kovin, the proprietor. He came downtown from his Clayton home and opened up.

Lebedun, clutching the license, settled down somewhat after that. The wedding came off quietly at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goodman, 7415 York drive, Clayton. Goodman is a cousin of the bridegroom. The bride, who knew nothing of the difficulties encountered by her husband-to-be, is Miss Milda Schneider of New York.

FATHER DROWNS TRYING TO SAVE CHILD IN BIG RIVER

Two Other Swimmers Pull Girl, 9, to Safety When George W. Francis Loses Life.

George W. Francis, 31 years old, of 317 Brand avenue, Jefferson Barracks, drowned yesterday in the Big River at Cedar Hill when he tried to save his 9-year-old daughter after she was swept into deep water by a swift current. She was rescued by two other swimmers.

Eyewitnesses said Francis was swimming in shallow water with his daughter, Shirley, on his back when an unexpected current swept the child into deep water. The father, in his frantic struggles to reach her, went down as two youths, swimming nearby, pulled the girl to safety.

After 20 minutes of searching, the same swimmers brought out the father. Artificial respiration was employed for an hour until a pulmotor could be brought from Eureka but all efforts to revive him were unsuccessful. His wife and three other children saw the accident.

Recent dredging operations near the scene were believed to have been responsible for the swift undercurrent.

G. L. K. SMITH PARTY TO SEEK PLACE ON MISSOURI BALLOT

A certificate to place candidates of Gerald L. K. Smith's Christian Nationalist party on the Missouri ballot in the November general election will be filed with the Secretary of State in Jefferson City today, it was announcd by Don Lohbeck, Smith's chief lieutenant.

The Christian Nationalists nominated Smith for President and named Harry A. Romer of St. Henry, O., as his running mate at a meeting in Kiel Auditorium Saturday. The certificate to be filed in Jefferson City will nominate Presidential electors.

The Rev. Frank C. Tucker, president of the Metropolitan Church Federation, last week denounced Smith and his followers as enemies of Jews, Catholics, Negroes and liberals. In a reply issued today, Smith asserted, "As a Christian I love all mankind." He denied he was anti-Catholic, and said that Romer, his running mate, is a Catholic.

automobile headed in the opposite direction then veered to the right, striking the rear of the Britnell truck and catapulting it against the Mudds and Mrs. McHugh. Before it could be stopped, the trailer crashed against the Mudd machine.

Woman Tied to Bridge.

Mrs. Mudd was killed instantly. Mrs. McHugh, knocked partly through the guard rail, was tied to the bridge by Dr. Louis F. Stephens of Times Beach, to prevent her from falling into the river before she could be given medical aid.

Mrs. McHugh was taken to St. Louis County Hospital where her left leg was amputated above the knee. Joan Mudd was treated at the hospital for fractures of both legs and transferred to St. John's Hospital. James Mudd was released from St. Louis County Hospital after treatment for cuts and bruises.

The homicide verdict was returned before Coroner Arnold J. Willmann after State Highway Patrolman P. H. Updegraff testified a sign forbidding passing on the bridge had been placed on the side of the highway 2400 feet east of the span.

Douglas, Updegraff said, told him he was trying to pass the Britnell truck when the accident occurred. The officer said Douglas told him he was traveling 30 miles an hour and had a load weighing 24,000 pounds.

Two Men Killed by Auto, Another Fatally Hurt By Truck.

Two men were killed in automobile accidents in the St. Louis area over the week end and another was killed today when he was run over by a tractor-trailer truck at Twenty-second and Market streets.

Louis J. Etheridge of 1130B East Broadway, Alton, died of a broken neck late Saturday when his brother, John, lost control of their automobile on a steep hill in the 700 block of Washington avenue, Alton. Police said John Etheridge told them the accelerator stuck as he started down the hill and the machine swerved to the side striking a parked automobile.

Syvester Harris, Negro, of Sykes Township, east of National City, died in St. Mary's Hospital of injuries suffered early yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by L. C. Gardner, Negro, 2730 Howard avenue, while walking along State Route 3 in National City.

The third man, unidentified, was killed when he fell beneath the rear wheel of the truck operated by Leroy E. Wagner, 20 St. Rita lane, Bridgeton. Witnesses told the police the man, about 70 years old, walked against the side of the truck. A notebook, found in his pocket, bore the name Albert Bronsen, 1100 Farnam avenue, Chicago.

Two Hurt in Head-on Crash of Auto and Truck in Maplewood.

Two persons were seriously injured early yesterday in the head-on collision of an automobile and truck in the 3600 block of Big Bend boulevard, Maplewood.

Neither Stevens nor Edward Hayes, 11 South Gore avenue, Webster Groves, driver of the truck, was injured. Another passenger in the Stevens automobile and a passenger in the truck were treated for minor injuries and released.

3D PARTY CLAIMS TWICE NUMBER OF NAMES NEEDED

Missouri citizen" to intervene in the fight to get the third party on he Missouri ballot. Text of the telegram sent to the White House follows:

"As President of the United States you are sworn to uphold the constitutional guarantee of freedom of political expression. It is your duty to speak out when this basic right is threatened as it now is in Missouri.

Missouri and Eastern Europe.

"We call on you both as President and as a Missouri citizen to intervene in the attempt of your party to deny Henry Wallace a place on the Missouri ballot. Keeping Wallace off the ballot will thwart the will of the hundreds of thousands of Missouri citizens who want to vote for Wallace, and the other hundreds of thousands who believe every citizen is entitled to vote as he pleases.

"You have repeatedly expressed concern over free elections in Eastern Europe, yet never in Missouri's infamous record of stolen ballots, Pendergast ghost votes and in attempted governship steal have you expressed yourself forthrightly on the question of free elections in your home state.

"The Secretary of State's decision affords you another opportunity to do so. Speak out, Mr. President. Silence will indicate only complicity on your part with fellow Missouri Democrats."

Wallace Calls Ballot Ruling Trick for Votes.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace says the Missouri Secretary of State's decision that the Progressive Party can't appear on the state ballot "is a bald-faced effort" to swing the Missouri election.

The Progressive candidate said the action by Secretary Edgar C. Nelson is an indication that "Pendergast and Truman are frightened by the sweeping support which the Progressive party is winning" in Missouri.

"I warn Mr. Truman," Wallace said in a statement yesterday, "that the people of this state are in no mood to tolerate any more stolen elections.

"They saw how cynically Democratic Senators in the Eightieth Congress voted down the line to stop the investigation of the mystery of thousands of missing Kansas City votes."

Cites Record of Democrats.

"Missourians also saw how the Democratic Senators did not go down the line against the Taft-Hartley Act and most Democrats and Republicans joined to support the draft, to appropriate billions for the cold war and to reject the Taylor-Isaacson bill to roll prices back to 1946 levels.

"Like growing millions in other states, the people of Missouri deman a free choice between the old parties and the Progressive party. Progressive party leaders in Missouri tell me that our drive there for signatures on nominating petitions is rolling over the top."

Wallace said Nelson's action "is in shocking contempt of the peoples' rights" and was "announced without a single supporting reason or finding of fact."

Vote Margin Called Small.

"On the same day he decided against us," Wallace said, "he announced that the Democratic state primary vote exceeded the Republican vote by only 81,000. . . .

"It is highly significant that the Secretary of State waited until it became obvious that our petition drive was going 'way over the top before he ruled us off the ballot."

Nelson's announcement said only that the Progressive Party had not complied with Missouri election laws.

Douglas C. MacLeod, Progressive candidate for Attorney General of Missouri, had said he would appeal to the State Supreme Court if Nelson ruled out the new party.

Illinois Board to Study 3d Party Ballot Spot.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 23 (AP)—Democratic objections to the Wallace-Taylor Progressive party bid for a place on the Nov. 2 Illinois ballot will be considered Thursday by the State Electoral Board.

The objections, filed just before Saturday's deadline, contended the nominating petitions do not meet the legal requirement of at least 200 valid signatures from each of 50 counties.

Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett said the objections will be heard by two Democrats and one Republican. The electoral board is composed of the Secretary of State, Auditor and Attorney General. But because Attorney General George F. Barrett, a Republican, has a Progressive opponent he is disqualified by law from sitting on the board, Secretary of State Barrett said.

Under this procedure, the Attorney General's place on the board would be taken by Francis S. Wilson of Chicago, a Democrat, who is senior justice of the Illinois Supreme Court.

Secretary of State Barrett, a Democrat, said he will remain on the board because his Progressive opponent, Rebecca Styles Taylor of Chicago, withdrew. Her withdrawal was a last minute development Saturday.

of a plot by "the St. Louis gang" to kill him. Miss Davis, a divorcee, was found at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Davis, New Baden, Tex., by Texas deputies, Spainhower said.

The Texas authorities reported to Sheriff Spainhower that Miss Davis asserted she did not know that Shelton had been killed. She was quoted as saying she had "known of" Bernie for several years and last saw him in a hotel bar, where she worked, in 1944. She apparently was not questioned about the reported warning that Bernie was marked for death by rival gambling interests.

Efforts to return Miss Davis to Peoria as a grand jury witness may be made, it is believed. Her warning message was relayed to Bernie two weeks before his death by John Robinson, a former employe of the Illinois State Highway Patrol. Robinson said Miss Davis wanted to repay the Sheltons for a past kindness.

The message was that a man acquaintance, whom she did not name, had boasted to her that Shelton was to be killed at a secret meeting, which had been arranged to play the Gatewood recordings. Her description of the man making the boast fitted the missing Petrakos, who was to have attended the meeting.

A sudden decision by Bernie to sell some of his Palomino horses in Muscatine, Ia., resulted in the meeting being called off. It then was planned, Robinson reported in relaying the message from Miss Davis, to waylay Bernie on his way to Iowa, but he took another road. The warning added: "They are still going to hit him, and it will happen quick."

Prosecutor Studies Case.

Special Prosecutor Verle W. Safford spent Sunday studying the information to be placed before the jury. Safford, appointed last Friday by Circuit Judge Henry J. Ingram, has full powers to conduct a sweeping investigation and call for indictments against persons shown by the evidence to be guilty of accepting bribes and payoffs from gamblers.

Demands for a vigorous investigation of official corruption have been voiced by speakers representing church, civic, legal and business groups. Representatives of two large manufacturers have used radio time to demand a clean-up and restoration of the city's good name.

WOMAN REPORTS ATTACK; MAN ACCUSED BY HER IS HELD

A woman was attacked by a man early yesterday when she was walking in the 1500 block of Salerno drive in St. Louis county, she reported to the St. Louis county sheriff's office.

She said the man followed her off a Woodson streetcar when she alighted at Salerno drive, then approached her in the 1500 block and put his arm around her waist. When she threatened to scream, she reported, he seized her by the throat and draggd her to a cornfield, where sh lost consciousnss.

She was found by Mr. and Mrs. George Dietz, who live at 1549 Salerno, and was treated at St. Louis County Hospital for multiple abrasions. A warrant charging David C. Wallace, 1557 Salerno, with assault with intent to ravish, was issued today by Magistrate Taylor W. Strubinger at Clayton. Wallace, who has been identified by the woman as her assailant, denied the charge.

POLES HANG WAR CRIMINAL

WARSAW, Aug. 23 (AP)—Dr. Joseph Buehler, 44 years old, chief of administration under the Nazis' wartime general government for Poland, has been hanged at Krakow for war crimes, it was announced yesterday.

The supreme national tribunal convicted Buehler July 10 of engineering the killing of more than 2,000,000 Jews and deportation of almost 2,000,000 Poles. His widow and two children live in Germany.

CAROLINA NEGRO MOBBED AFTER VOTING, HE SAYS

Minister Charges He Was Clubbed, Slashed, Left for Dead at Calhoun Falls.

COLUMBIA, S.C., Aug. 23 (UP)—A Negro minister formally charged today that he was clubbed, knifed and left for dead after he voted in the Democratic primary Aug. 10 at Calhoun Falls.

The Rev. Archie Ware swore that two policemen stood by and looked on while he was beaten to the ground. He told the story in an affidavit filed with United States Attorney General Tom C. Clark.

James M. Hinton, state president of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, said "the object of the affidavit, of course, is to bring criminal prosecution."

Ware, 66 years old, said he voted at the high school gymnasium at about 11 a.m.

Names Officers, Ringleader.

"There were two police officers near the entrance of the gymnasium whom I recognized," he said. He called their names in his affidavit.

Some 20 or 25 other white persons were standing nearby, the affidavit said. It named the man Ware termed the ringleader.

The Negro said he was leaving the voting precinct when one of the men "with a squarish-looking club about two feet long and two by two inches" called him by name. He said four or five younger men were with the man.

"They had drawn knives," Ware said. As the man with the stick began trying to hit him, he said, "I begged, 'Please don't hit me'."

Ware said the man told him: "Damn you, I'm gonna bust your damned head open."

Ware said he "knew that two officers were there and I thought they would help me. I kept backing away."

Stunned as He Runs.

He said he soon realized they did not intend to help him so "I made a quick turn and started to run."

Ware said he was stunned from two or three blows on the head.

"The younger men stabbed my left thigh to the bone before I I could start running again," he said, adding that "one of the men cut me with a hook-nose pocket knife in my right side."

Ware said "they thought I was dead and walked away." He said Dr. Aaron C. Ward, Calhoun Falls physician, carried him to the hospital.

Sheriff Chester Fleming of Abbeville county said he had investigated but had taken no action because "there weren't any eyewitnesses that I could find."

The N.A.A.C.P. said photographs had been made of Ware's wounds and would be turned over to the Justice Department.

$35,000 FOUND IN ANTIQUES

GALESBURG, Ill., Aug. 23 (AP) Two experts dividing up the antiques collected by the late Mrs. Ina Isabelle Peterman reported today that $35,000 in cash and Government bonds has been uncovered about the house where Mrs. Peterman was found dead Oct. 24, 1947, after being missing for two days. The latest find was $600 in an old black purse.

HOSPITALS HERE NOT CERTAIN OF STATE POLIO VICTIM SPACE

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 23 (UP)—Facilities of the University of Missouri student health building have been opened for the admission of polio cases because of the shortage of hospital space in certain areas of the state.

Dr. Trawick H. Stubbs, dean of the School of Medicine and director of university hospitals, said here today that "since priority must be given to university students, this arrangement will be in effect only until Sept. 18. After Sept. 5, admission may be emergencies only."

Stubbs said that St. Louis hospitals had notified him there is no longer any guarantee patients from rural areas of Missouri with acute poliomyelitis can be provided hospital beds in the St. Louis area.

NEW BRIDGE AUTHORIZED ACROSS COLDWATER CREEK

Authority to construct a 30-foot bridge across Coldwater creek at Wright avenue, east of St. Ann, was given by the St. Louis County Court today to Arno J. Pfeiler, county engineer.

A bridge that had been over the creek at that point was washed away by spring floods 10 years ago and never replaced, although the county constructed a new span at Geraldine avenue, one block east.

Pfeiler said the bridge should be completed by late fall. He estimated it would cost about $13,000. Money for the construction will come from road department and drainage ditch funds.

INSTALLMENT BUYING

You can buy almost anything for $1 down and $1 a week. Now an enterprising butcher has advertised steaks for sale on the installment plan. Perhaps the plan has merit, but in our business we believe in cash on the line. We do a thriving business serving delicious steaks, chops, and our famous special dishes to St. Louisans who like finer food. Paying a check at Rock Grill on the installment plan would be ridiculous, because our prices, you will be happy to know, are extremely moderate.

ROBBER'S CAREFUL PLANS BACKFIRE, LEAD TO ARREST

Ex-Convict Held for Drug Store Holdup on Reporting His Borrowed Auto Stolen.

The careful plans made by William F. Scott, an ex-convict, 4523 Arco avenue, in preparation for holding up a drug store in Creve Coeur last Saturday had only one flaw—they led to his arrest.

A warrant charging Scott with robbery with a deadly weapon was issued today by Magistrate Taylor W. Strubinger at Clayton, and his bond set at $10,000. He will be given a preliminary hearing on the charge Sept. 2.

Miss Dorothy Fitch, 8009 Glen Echo drive, Bel-Nor, became suspicious Aug. 14 when she noticed Scott loitering about the neighborhood, and made a notation of the license number of the automobile which he parked across the street from the store. When he parked near the store again last Saturday, she again noted the number. A few minutes later Scott entered, displayed a pistol, robbed Miss Fitch of $200 and then pushed her down a flight of steps leading to the basement and fled.

Miss Fitch gave the license number of the car to state patrolmen, who went to the Arco avenue address and found Scott was not at home. They learned he was employed at a cleaining establishment, however, and went there.

One of the employes of the plant said he had lent his car to Scott. A short time after patrolmen left, Scott telephoned the place and was informed they had been inquiring about him. In an effort to avoid arrest Scott went to police and reported that the borrowed automobile had been stolen.

Police arrested him and turned him over to state patrolmen. After being identified by Miss Fitch, Scott readily admitted the holdup, Patrol Capt. L. B. Howard said, and told officers he had hidden the loot and the pistol at the home of a relative without the latter's knowledge. Both were found there.

Scott told officers there was just one detail in the holdup he hadn't counted on. He found a large German shepherd dog, named Pal, sleeping in front of the store door when he entered. Pal, who is owned by persons living near the store, didn't budge, however, and Scott stepped over the animal and completed the robbery as scheduled.

Police records show Scott was sentenced to two years in the reformatory at Boonville in 1939 on a charge of delinquency by larceny; three years at Boonville in 1941 on a charge of delinquency; two years in the intermediate reformatory at Algoa in 1942 on a charge of grand larceny, and two years in the State Penitentiary in 1946 on a charge of larceny from the person. He escaped from the reformatory in 1942 and was recaptured. He scuffled with deputy sheriffs in the court of Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller after the jury's verdict was returned on the conviction in 1946, apparently in an effort to escape.

Prairie Fire Under Control.

RAPID CITY, S.D., Aug. 23 (AP)—A prairie fire that swept across rich grazing land in the heart of the badlands was brought under control yesterday by a United States Air Force ground contingent. The fire burned over about 10 square miles near Scenic, S.D.

MAINTENANCE GROUP OUTSIDE NLRB'S ORBIT

Board Declines Jurisdiction Over Employes Caring for Office Building.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has declined to claim jurisdiction over maintenance employes of a general office building.

Ruling on the matter yesterday for the first time, the board held in a Kansas City case that the employer's operations were essentially local and the effect of a work stoppage on interstate commerce would be small.

It said:

"The employer's operation of a general office building is essentially local in character. While many of the employer's tenants are clearly engaged in interstate commerce, the activities of these tenants, insofar as the employer's building is concerned, are predominantly clerical and constitute a relatively small and unimportant part of their interstate operations. The services rendered by the employer's building maintenance employes are still more remote from the tenants' interstate operations. It seems unlikely that a stoppage or curtailment of the employer's services and facilities would have more than a negligible effect on interstate commerce. Therefore, we are of the opinion that it would not effectuate the policies of the act to assert jurisdiction in this case."

Accordingly, the board unanimously dismissed a petition for an election to determine whether or not the 21 employes of the building wish to unseat Local 96 of the AFL Building Service Employes' Union as their bargaining agent. The building involved is the Railway Exchange Building, Kansas City.

FINE OF ELECTION JUDGE WHO SHOWED UP DRUNK IS STAYED

George H. Dooley, a Democratic election judge in the primary election last Aug. 3, was fined $25 for drunkenness today by Police Judge George J. Grellner. The fine was stayed after his attorney asked for clemency.

Dooley was arrested after he was found to be drunk when he reported to the polling place at 1221 North Taylor avenue, where he was to serve on the day of the primary. He gave his address as 1221A North Taylor.

Benelux to Drop Bread Rationing.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 23 (AP) — Abolition of bread rationing in the Benelux nations — Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—is scheduled for November, at the latest. As a step toward this goal, it was announced that the Belgian daily bread ration of 300 grams will be increased in September to 500 grams (about 17½ ounces).

GREEKS ROUT REBEL FORCE NEAR ALBANIAN FRONTIER

ATHENS, Aug. 23 (AP) — The Greek army, turning north and east from the Grammos mountains, today routed guerrillas who were moving toward the Vitsi area with the apparent aim of finding a new home for Communist "free Greece." A communique said the rebels entered Greece from Albania directly west of Kastoria.

The Vitsi area consists of some 20 to 25 square miles. It is directly north of Lake Kastoria in the triangle formed by the juncture of the Greek, Albanian and Yugoslav borders at Lake Presba. Kastoria is about 13 miles northeast of Nesotirion, northeastern anchor of the old Grammos front.

The Vitsi sector would offer the guerrillas supply lines into both Albania and Yugoslavia, but the terrain is not nearly so rugged as the Grammos mountains and thus offers fewer natural defenses. About 1000 rebels were reported in Vitsi last week. The Greeks reported 1500 heading that way from Albania after the retreat from Grammos.

• Who wouldn't!

Here are reasons: Your secretaries like the Voicewriter because . . . it is smart and modern . . . because it is so easy to use . . . because it is almost impossible to use incorrectly . . . because its earphones are so light in weight, comfortable to use . . . because it "talks" into her ears so carefully, so distinctly, that she transcribes without missing words, without doubt or delay.

Consequently, when you have an Edison Electronic Voicewriter, your secretary can and does transcribe your dictation quickly, easily, accurately AND has time left over to use in office work, to help you, finds time to go UP the ladder, time to BE a secretary.

May we demonstrate . . . leave the Voicewriter with you for trial . . . with one request . . . that you use it and COMPARE it with all or any other dictating equipment . . . then YOU be the judge.

M'GRATH SAYS G.O.P. LEADERS PLAN SALES TAX

Asserts Income Levy Reduction Is Forcing Government to Operate in 'Red.'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Democratic campaign headquarters charged today that Republicans plan to push through a federal sales tax if they retain control of Congress in the November elections.

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath said in a statement that the "lavish" income tax reduction voted by the Republican congress was "forcing" the Government to operate in the red. He said, Republicans who sponsored the cut are thinking of a sales tax to get more revenue.

"They are not likely to insult their rich campaign contributors by suggesting the raising of income taxes," McGrath said. He named Chairman Harold Knutson (Rep.), Minnisota, of the House Ways and Means Committee as one who was thinking of a federal sales tax.

Dewey Works on Speeches.

McGrath issued his statement in Washington as President Truman and his Republican rival for the presidency, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, continued work on speeches for their election campaigns, slated to get under way in earnest next month.

Dewey and his aids were conferring at the governor's farm at Pawling, N.Y., on a schedule that calls for about twice as many speeches as Dewey delivered in the 1944 campaign.

Truman, who is now on a nine-day cruise aboard the yacht Williamsburg, held several shipboard conferences with his advisers on the Labor Day speech he will make in Detroit. White House press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the talk had been discussed but the writing had not yet begun.

Mississippi Election.

A turnout of about 125,000 Mississippi voters was forecast for tomorrow's Democratic primary in which nomination is tantamount to election. Four of the stae's congressional poss are at stake, among them the one held by Represenative John E. Rankin, a veteran of 28 years in Congress. He is opposed by Judge Raymond Jarvis and Claude Clayton, a war veteran who came close to defeating Rankin two years ago.

Norman Thomas, Socialist party candidate for president, predicts Deyey will win the presidential election. He made the forecast at Lincoln, Nebr., after a party meeting that indicated the Socialists would not get their candidates on the ballot in Nebraska. Only 200 Socialists turned out for the meeting, far short of the 750 needed to sign he petition required to get the names on the ballot.

Senator McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee, said today he is supporting Truman in the November election. McKellar5s announcement came in the face of reports from Tennessee that at least two of the state's 12 Democratic elector candidates have made known their intention of voting for the states' rights ticket headed by Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

McKellar's statement recalled a recent similar declaration by Senator A. Willis Robertson of Virginia. Administration Democrats immediately put them together to back their claims that Truman is making some headway in the South, despite protests over the civil rights program.

Control of Senate.

Two southern senators who fought Truman's nomination said they expect Democrats to regain control of the senate in the November election.

Senators Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama and Olin D. Johnston (Dem.), South Carolina told a reporter in separate interviews that despite their opposition to Truman they feel free to go out and campaign for Democratic senatorial candidates.

Republicans now hold 51 Senate seats and Democrats 45 so that a switch of four could give the Democrats a narrow control and chairmanships of all the committees as well as leadership.

A third Democrat, who is supporting Truman, Senator Elmer Thomas (Okla.), agreed that his party has a chance to upset the present G.O.P. control of the senate.

Sparkman, who is seeking reelection in Alabama, is pledged to support Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina for the presidency along with other states rights Democrats.

Johnston has made no announcement about supporting either Thurmond, who is from his home state, or Truman since their nominations. But he was one of the most active anti-Truman leaders prior to the Philadelphia National Nominating Convention.

HICCUPER TRIES 'SILLY' REMEDY AND IT WORKS

PASADENA, Cailf., Aug. 23 (AP)—Theodore L. Syvertson had been plagued with hiccups for nearly two years. He tried all the usual remedies, spent months in hospitals and had consulted some 60 doctors. But he kept on hiccuping at the rate of about 10 a minute.

Late Saturday night Joseph Wollert, Los Angeles, called on him and urged him to try bending at the waist and drinking water from the far side of a glass.

The 69-year-old Syvertson said it had been suggested to him before, but he had turned it down as silly. Wollert insisted.

To please him, Syvertson tried it. Midway through the second glass he straightened up. The hiccups had stopped. They haven't returned since.

President Quips About Small Boat Chartered by Reporters to Keep Up With Him.

ON CHESAPEAKE BAY WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, Aug. 23 (UP)—The yacht Williamsburg, carrying President Truman on a nine-day cruise, headed toward Atlantic coastal waters today with a dozen White House reporters in close pursuit aboard a yacht of their own.

While many persons watched from shore, Truman's yacht passed through the Delaware ship canal and headed for the Atlantic ocean. The sun was shining and the weather moderate in contrast to fog which had shrouded Chesapeake bay earlier this morning and delayed departure from Annapolis.

The White House press men had been unable to charter a vessel to accompany the Williamsburg when it left Washington Friday and until yesterday were "following" Truman's progress by land.

Reporters on Yacht.

At Annapolis, however, arrangements were made for them to follow the Williamsburg aboard the yacht Wanderer. Radiotelephone facilities were provided to keep them in touch with the President's yacht.

Truman apparently enjoyed efforts of the reporters to keep up with him. Talking to them about the comparatively small press boat, he asked:

"Will it rock enough to justify our crossing the Gulf Stream?"

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the President and his advisers have discussed the Labor day speech that Truman will deliver at Detroit but that no writing has been done. The address will formally kick off the President's campaign for election.

President Attends Church.

He heard Comdr. E. P. Wuebbens, of Flannagan, Ill., the academy chaplain, deliver a sermon on "living together" — with your neighbors and among nations of neighbors.

The President also met John Paul Jones of Piqua, O., midshipman regimental commander for the week, and namesake of the nation's first naval hero.

"I hope you will live up to your name," the President said, "I'm sure you will."

Academy officials said the middy was not a descandant of the famous admiral for whom he was named.

Illinois State Fair Record.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 23 (AP)—The largest number of persons ever to attend an Illinois State Fair thronged the grounds during the 10-day ninety-second annual event which ended yesterday. The total attendance figure was 1,192,500, which breaks the record of 1,145,000 set last year. The attendance yesterday was 65,000.

AMERICANS HUNGRY FOR MEAT FLOCK TO CANADA TO BUY

FORT ERIE, Ont., Aug. 23 (AP) — Meat-hungry Americans flocked into this border town near Buffalo during the weekend to take advantage of the lifting of a restriction formerly holding their beef purchases to $5.

The regulation was changed at the same time that the embargo on the export of Canadian beef to United States was lifted. Tariff on all beef and veal products now is three cents a pound. This allows American housewives to buy Canadian meat more cheaply than they can at home, they said. Products still protected by the $5 limit are ham, liver, cheese and butter.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 23 (AP)—Mexico will have officially lower meat costs tomorrow when new government-fixed prices go into effect. Most prices have been reduced 20 centavos (three cents) a kilogram.

The Government ordered prices reduced after it stepped up shipments of livestock to the capital. Butchers had complained they were unable to get meat and raised prices. More than a score were jailed and fined.

TWO SMALL BOYS DROWNED AS JEEP PLUNGES INTO RIVER

RICHARDSON'S LANDING, Tenn., Aug. 23 (UP)—Two small boys clung to each other in terror yesterday when a runaway jeep careened over an embankment and carried them to death in the Mississippi river.

Joe Beall Lackey, 6 years old, and his cousin, Billy Howard Lackey, 5, were sitting in the jeep with Mrs. W. F. Lackey, mother of Billy, when a chock beneath a wheel slipped. The jeep, attached to a heavy trailer, began rolling toward the river.

Joe E. Lackey, father of the older boy, leaped into the car and tried to jam on the brakes.

"The two children grabbed each other," he said. "My brother's wife and I tried to pry the children apart but they were frozen with terror. Then we all hit the water. The jeep pinned me down in the mud. I fought loose, and then I had to come up."

Mrs. Lackey was recued by Sanders Thrailkill, who had joined the Lackeys for a Sunday fishing trip.

ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Heard Waller, Negro, 2133 Walnut street, was arrested at his home yesterday by members of the police liquor squad and agents of the State Division of Liquor Control, after they reported they bought a half pint of whisky from him.

A stock of 98 half pints and 24 pints of whisky and 68 fifth gallons of wine was confiscated. Waller was booked to appear in Police Court next Saturday on a charge of selling liquor without a city license, and a warrant charging failure to have a state license will be sought.

Family That Won 'Dream Home' More Thrilled Over New Auto

A brand-new automobile that goes with a $25,000 "dream home" won by Cecil M. Davis, a painter, gave his family more of a thrill than the five-room furnished bungalow itself.

"We have a house," said Mrs. Davis, "but we've been without an automobile for a year, and it's the car that has our children all excited."

Davis, who owns his home at 5940 Wanda avenue, held the winning ticket at the carnival conducted by Santa Cruz Council, Knights of Columbus, to raise funds for a youth center. He was not present when the announcement was made Saturday night at Santa Cruz park—in fact, did not know when the prize was to be awarded. A telephone call at 1 a.m. gave him the news.

The Davises rode out to Arbor Terrace in a taxicab yesterday to inspect the brick bungalow at 6600 Sacramento avenue—and the Plymouth sedan parked in the basement garage. They know what to do with the automobile, but the house presents a problem.

"We've always lived in South St. Louis," said Mrs. Davis. "My husband and I would sort of like to try out that house in the county, but the children prefer the city. We've had a number of calls from people wanting to rent the house we're now in. We'll think it over carefully before making any decision."

4 OREGON G.O.P. LEADERS KILLED IN LAKE PLANE CRASH

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Aug. 23 (AP)—A private plane plunged into a lake yesterday, killing four Oregon Republican leaders.

Two State Representatives, a State Senate nominee and a State House nominee died in the crash. It was the second aircraft mishap within a year to take the lives of prominent Oregon officials.

The bodies of Representative Earle Johnson, 40 years old, of Corvallis; William H. Fluhrer, 47, Medford, the Senate nominee, and H. H. Evans of Waldport, House nominee, were recovered last night from the plane. Search of the resort lake water continued today for the body of Representative John Snellstrom, 53, of Eugene.

Coroner George Adler of Klamath county said a coroner's inquest showed Fluhrer, owner of the plane, was piloting. He said Representative Frnak Van Dyke and Representative Douglas Yeater saw the plane circle the lake after taking off. Their testimony indicated the plane was in a sharp banking turn at low altitude when it side-slipped andp lunged into the lake. The coroner's inquest reported there was no engine trouble.

The legislators and nominees were among 15 state Republican legislative members and nominees who were guests at Fluhrer's summer cabin.

Last Oct. 15, Gov. Earl Snell, Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell Jr., and Senate President Marshall Cornett died with their pilot in a crash in the adjoining county.

3 CHILDREN, FROM 4 TO 11, SEIZED TRYING TO CRACK SAFE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23 (AP)—Two young girls and an 8-year-old boy were caught by police last night attempting to crack a safe in an automobile sales company office.

The oldest of the three was an 11-year-old girl. Assisting her were the boy and a 4-year-old girl.

The children had knocked off two combination knobs when Thiele arrived. They broke a window to enter the office. They were turned over to juvenile court.

VETERANS' GROUPS MAY BUILD WITHOUT CASH, SAYS SENATOR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, said today it is possible for groups of war veterans to build homes under the new housing act without putting up any of their own funds for a down payment.

This can be done, McCarthy told a reporter, if the veterans can qualify for home building loans under the G.I. Bill of Rights and then get FHA approval to cover 90 or 95 per cent of the costs of a co-operative venture.

"Usually the G.I. loans will cover the 5 or 10 per cent down payment required by the FHA," he added.

The Wisconsin Senator, himself a World War II veteran, said federal housing officials soon will announce new details and regulations for veterans' co-operative projects.

In the meantime, McCarthy said any groups of veterans eager to build under the co-operative plan should do these things:

1. Organize and determine on the price range and possible sites.
2. Investigate local costs and arrange for the necessary down payments.
3. Consult with the FHA for technical advice available.

SWEDES SEND POWDERED MILK, SUGAR TO WEST BERLIN AS GIFT

BERLIN, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Swedish Social Democratic party sent a food gift of four tons of powdered milk and sugar by air today to western Berlin.

Two tons of fat donated by the American Federation of Labor also was included in the shipment. It was the first donated relief food to arrive since the blockade began.

Military Government officials said more than 3000 tons of food gifts are awaiting shipment to Berlin by commercial airlines.

I'll know you're talking about the product that makes me proud —Phillips 66 Premium Motor Oil!

MAN this "Lubri-tection" is something to boast about!

It means the two things you get with Phillips 66 Premium—lubrication plus protection! Here's a motor oil with all the great lubricating qualities you just naturally get from fine base stocks and expert refining, plus additives and inhibitors that protect by helping lick sludge, carbon and varnish deposits.

That's a lot in one quart of oil but Phillips 66 Premium's got it! Why don't you switch to "Lubri-tection" today!

SELLING IN OIL GROUP MARKS LOWER STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—An early downward move in stock prices speeded up later today and the market closed with losses running from fractions to 4 points.

Oils gave ground readily and weakness soon spread to other groups.

Brokerage quarters suggested several reasons for selling in the oil division. They have been in the forefront of most of the market's advance for months past and hence are in a more vulnerable position than stocks which have been marked up less sharply.

Recent predictions have indicated that an anticipated oil shortage this winter might not pan out at all or might not be as bad as expected. In other words, the oil industry is narrowing the gap between record high production and record high demand.

Superior Oil of California, a high-priced issue, dropped 4 points or so at one time.

In the curb Pittsburgh Metallurgical advanced after news of an increase to 25c in the dividend. Also ahead at times were Dennison Mfg. "A," Ashland Oil, Babcock & Wilcox, Colt's Mfg., and Quaker Oats. Glen Alden Coal declined at one time.

Trading in listed corporate bonds was sluggish and price changes indecisive. U.S. Governments held steady in the over-the-counter market.

COTTON OFF $1.20 TO $2.75

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Cotton futures were easy today under pressure of liquidation and hedging. Selling was inspired partly by Washington reports that the chances are against the Administration re-imposing production controls in cotton next year.

Renewed selling developed in the final hour of trading, coming chiefly from New Orleans and commission houses. Mills were good buyers on the late decline with prices closing around the lows for the day.

Futures closed $1.20 to $2.75 a bale lower than the previous close.

WOMAN DROWNED IN SAILING ACCIDENT, DOLE HEIR SAVED

HONOLULU, Aug. 23 (AP) — Richard A. Dole, 40-year-old son of the chairman of the Dole Pineapple Co., and three companions were saved but a fifth was drowned as their 22-foot sailboat was swamped by heavy seas off Diamond Head yesterday.

Miss Kathleen Burkhalter, 24, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and San Diego, Calif., died within a few feet of the shore after Samuel Gilbert Jr., a University of Southern California student, pulled her two miles through the heavy seas.

Dole and Mrs. Marie Akers, 25, of Medina, Wash., both near exhaustion, were fished out of the water by the crew of the yacht Mokuoula which was captained by Coast Guard Comdr. Arthur K. Powlison. Mrs. Barbara Steffee, 25, fifth member of the Dole yachting party, swam to shore.

NLRB RECORD IN FIRST YEAR OF TAFT-HARTLEY ACT

Board Begins Issuing Curbs on Unions—Most Cases Decided Arose Before Law Passed.

By MAX HALL.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The standout fact on yesterday's first birthday of the Taft-Hartley Act is that the National Labor Relations Board has begun issuing orders against unions.

Indeed, a new look has come over the face of labor-management relations.

For a dozen years the board has been issuing orders against employers. And that process continues under Taft-Hartley. For example the board recently ruled that companies must bargain in good faith with unions over pensions and insurance plans.

But the prosecution of unions for unfair labor practices gets the main attention these days because the whole field is new and uncharted. Organized labor is campaigning for defeat of the law's backers.

Initial Orders From Courts.

The federal courts began issuing Taft-Hartley orders long before the NLRB did. In the last 12 months the courts have handed down 14 injunctions of various sorts against unions, one against an employer, and four "80-day" national emergency orders for cooling off periods.

All those injunctions were temporary stop-gap measures. They were not supposed to be verdicts on the merits of any case.

Such verdicts are made by the five-man labor board (Paul M. Herzog, John M. Houston, James J. Reynolds Jr., Abe Murdock, and J. Copeland Gray), although they can be appealed to the courts for review.

How does an unfair labor practice case reach the board for decision?

1. First, somebody files a charge. A summary of NLRB monthly summaries showed today that in the first ten Taft-Hartley months—to be exact from Aug. 22, 1947, to July 1, 1948—there were 2528 charges filed against employers and 739 against unions.

Inquiry by Denham Office.

2. Then the office of Robert N. Denham, the independent general counsel of the NLRB, investigates and decides whether to issue a complaint. Until July 1, they are said to have issued 146 complaints against employers, 37 unions, and three against both.

(Most of the complaints against employers were in cases that had been filed before the Taft-Hartley Act went into effect.)

3. On issuing a complaint the Denham office prosecutes the case before the NLRB trial examiner, who makes recommendations to the board. In the first 12 months trial examiners have made reports in 119 cases, 50 of which originated after the new law went into effect.

Then the board considers the report and makes a decision. In the first Taft-Hartley year, the board decided nearly 200 unfair practice cases. But only four of these originated after the law went in effect, and only three have been against unions.

Of those three, one was a finding that a union was guilty of a secondary boycott (an attack on an employer by trying to force other employers not to do business with him).

Another was a board approval of an agreement already made between a union and a company, under which the union agreed to reimburse the company for money paid in a "featherbedding" case (for services not performed).

Hiring Halls Outlawed.

The third and by far the most important order came last week.

The board found that seamen's hiring halls operated on the Great Lakes by the CIO National Maritime Union are illegal, and ordered the union to stop insisting on their continuation.

All this is aside from numerous other activities under the Taft-Hartley law, such as plant elections.

The NLRB, during the 10 months up until July 1, conducted 17,476 elections to determine whether employes wanted the union shop. They voted yes in 17,130 elections and no in 346.

DOOLITTLE'S SON IN JAPAN

TOKYO, Aug. 23 (AP)—First Lt. John Doolittle, whose father led the first wartime air raid on Tokyo, arrived in Japan today for duty with the Fifth Air Force as a troop carrier pilot.

HARD OF HEARING NOW HEAR CLOCK TICK

A new device has been developed to give hope for the hard of hearing. Through the adoption of a new miniature electronic tube, science now brings restored hearing to the deafened.

No more cumbersome batteries or battery cords needed. This new device weighs only a few ounces yet so powerful the hard of hearing may now hear whispers.

It is suggested, if interested for yourself or a friend, write Tonemaster Hearing Aids, 954 Paul Brown Bldg., St. Louis, Mo., for full information or call CH. 4565.

'MISS AMERICA,' 5, IS HURRIED HOME TO AVOID FILM OFFERS

Child's Mother Says, 'I Have 5 Other Youngsters' Who Need Attention, Too.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 23 (UP)—Pigtailed Kathleen Cecile Flynn, five years old, Spokane, Wash., crowned Little Miss America, was hurried home by her mother today before movie and radio agents got a chance to offer prizes, guest performances and a movie contract.

"We'll just have to turn them down," said her mother, Mrs. Howard A. Flynn, after the child was crowned before 10,000 persons at Hollywood Bowl yesterday.

"I've got five other youngsters at home and they need my attention. Thanks an awful lot, anyway," said Mrs. Flynn, wife of a Spokane elevator mechanic. Michael Louis Perich, 12, Sacramento, Calif., son of Jeter J. Perich, bank employe, was judged winner in the all-American boys contest.

DISPLAY OF SPRING FABRICS, ACCESSORIES AT 2 HOTELS

Next spring's fabrics and accessory lines were displayed today at Hotels Statler and Lennox at the annual exhibit of Textile Merchants and Associated Industries, Inc., in co-operation with the Associated Garment Manufacturers. The exhibit opened today and will continue through Wednesday.

The fabrics and accessories were being shown on the first, second, third and fourth floors at the Statler and on the mezzanine and third floors at the Lennox. Meantime, meetings of the Boys' Apparel and Accessories Manufacturers' Association, the Central West Garment Manufacturers' Association and an organizational meeting of the national work clothing group were scheduled at the Statler.

R. Adm. Richard Evelyn Byrd, U.S.N. (Retired), and Maj. Gen. W. H. Middleswart of the Army's Quartermaster Corps were scheduled as principal speakers at an informal dinner beginning at 7:15 o'clock this evening at the Statler.

ON OIL ALLOCATION BOARD

Holbrook T. Ashton, manager of the central marketing division of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. here, has been named to a regional committee that will allocate petroleum products if shortages arise this winter. The appointment was made by the National Petroleum Council at Washington.

Ashton, who lives at 36 Fair Oaks, Ladue, will serve on the committee for the region that includes Missouri, Illinois and 13 other states in the Midwest.

New Car for $265.

PHILADELPHIA—Jacob Affannato has a new automobile—a neat little job that cost him exactly $265 plus a chunk of his spare time.

Affannato, a barber, decided to fulfill his desire for a new car by building his own. The Affannato Special, which he calls a "scooter mobile," is 75 inches long, weighs 250 pounds and is powered by a four-horsepower one-cylinder engine. Affannato says he gets 60 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Three Bucks Saved?

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Patrolman Robert McGarvey stopped a motorist in an old automobile and started to give him a ticket because the car's rear window was cracked and dirty. A car window that obscures vision carries a $3 fine in Kansas City.

"If I clean that window within two minutes will you leave that ticket on your pad?" the driver asked. McGarvey agreed.

The motorist grabbed a crank and with two quick blows knocked the glass out of the window, then drove away.

CHICAGO'S ANSWER

City Has Two Choices: To Run From Blight or Stand, Fight; How Chicago Stood and Fought

Dr. Henry Heald Laid Down Formula: Public Agency Acquires Slum Land With Public Funds, Write Down Inflated Value, Make It Available.

By JOSEPH DRISCOLL
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
SECOND OF A SERIES OF SIX ARTICLES.

CHICAGO.

"WE have two choices, either to run away from the blight or to stand and fight. I submit that this is everybody's choice—and that behind the principle of 'Stand and Fight' is where we must all be counted."

So declared Dr. Henry Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology and chairman of Chicago's South Side Planning Board, in a moving speech which sounded the keynote for Chicago's present attack on the urgent problems of slum clearance and rehousing.

As far back as 1937 the city on the lake had established the Chicago Housing Authority to clear slums and to erect and manage low-rent dwelling units, but the war curtailed and diverted this program, and it was not until Mayor Martin H. Kennelly entered office in April 1947 that the command for action was given.

The action that has since developed was largely foreshadowed in an address delivered in October 1946, by Dr. Heald at a forum sponsored by the Metropolitan Housing Council. Active in this civic group was Milton C. Mumford who was to become Mayor Kennelly's first Housing and Redevelopment Co-ordinator.

Dr. Heald, a distinguished civic leader, and a prophet not without honor, delivered more than an inspiring speech; he presented a four-step program of action which ultimately was to be adopted by the city:

1. Acquire slum land by a public agency, using the powers of condemnation for that purpose.
2. Use public funds as a one-time subsidy to write-down the land from its acquisition cost to its real use value.
3. Make such land available, cleared and written off to its use value, to private developers and for such public use as required by proper redevelopment.
4. Provide assistance to displaced families in finding other housing.

On the menace of the slums, Dr. Heald was eloquent:

"The time has now come when the citizens of this great city must decide to act or to allow the malignant growth of slums to destroy its civic vitality.

"All around us we see increasing evidence of the decline in the heart of the city—tax delinquencies, slums, absentee ownership. With them we see the increases in municipal costs—fire, police, juvenile delinquency, health; we see the continual flight away from the city by those who can afford it, the escape to greener pastures.

"The city, to many, becomes a grim prison to which one travels every day to earn enough money to retreat to the suburbs at night. Those who are fortunate enough to get away need only worry about the twice daily trip through the rotting core of the city; for the rest of the time they are free—or think they are.

"Soon there will be a magnificent series of superhighways which will make it all the easier for them to escape the jungle of blight. Yet few have faced squarely the problem of doing something to attract people back into the city, to live in the area most suited for good communities, where transportation would not be over-extended."

Chicago has 15,000 acres of blighted and near-blighted lands. Of this acreage, public housing projects cleared little more than 150 acres in the ten years prior to passage of the $30,000,000 bond issue.

It has been estimated that the amount of lost taxes that Chicago's blighted areas could and should pay, but do not, is around $15,000,000; the capitalized value of this loss would be about $500,000,000.

Meanwhile, as Dr. Heald pointed out, Chicago was arranging to spend $295,000,000 for the construction of super-highways, and he suggested clearance of slum lands was at least equally important.

Slum-itis, as defined by Dr. Heald, "is more than just a house in need of major or minor repairs. Blight is a deadly disease which attacks and destroys cities and devours the property and investments in them. Blight affects not only the minds and bodies of the people who must live in these areas, but everyone else as well."

The first step in slum clearance must be to recapture the land. Said Dr. Heald:

"We must take areas of an old city, built up in helter skelter fashion, and get the land on which to build our new Chicago. Industries, stores, and bad housing are all scrambled together in a confused patter. Vested interests in these areas naturally resist change, even though it might be for the good of the entire city."

Once the lands have been assembled and cleared of their slum structures, the second step, as laid down by Dr. Heald, must be to squeeze the water out of the inflated land costs.

With land costs in the blighted areas of Chicago ranging from $1 to $3 a square foot, as against 30 to 50 cents in the peripheral areas and suburbs, the builder, who is still in business to make money, is not interested in the blighted areas, unless the city buys the land and writes the value down to what a builder will pay.

Dr. Heald spoke also of the obligation of taking care of the people who will be displaced by slum clearance:

"Like everyone else, people in sub-standard dwellings become attached to their home and environment, and we have a grave responsibility to these people so that they, too, may profit from the change. . . .

"Many will themselves find satisfying housing either in the redeveloped area or elsewhere; many others will need only assistance in finding accommodations; some may need more time and may have to be housed for the interim in units dedicated specifically for that purpose; some who are eligible will find their way into public housing projects.

Calling for a definite program of action, Dr. Heald said:

"It can happen here. It is happening here. Nobody wants Chicago to die. Nobody wants the entire core of the city to rot away, to lose its values, to exist as a festering sore. We can, we must prevent this. Now is the time for action."

Certainly it is a speech for our times.

Tomorrow: Chicago's program is based on the theory that action by both city and state is required, and on a recognition that a minimum provision for re-housing some displaced families is necessary.

Business Outlook

LABOR-MANAGEMENT MEDIATION

By Cyrus S. Ching

J. A. Livingston is on a short vacation. Substituting for him today as a guest columnist is Cyrus S. Ching, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and former member of the War Labor Board.

WASHINGTON.

WHEN Joe Livingston asked me to do a guest column for him on my work as director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, he said: "Most people don't know what you do. Now, tell them. Use examples. Name names."

That's easier said than done. In the first place, my job is performed by about 230 commissioners in the service. In the second place, I can't name names. I can't say, "We did this in the American Telephone & Telegraph case, or that in the Western Union case, or something else in the Bethlehem Shipbuilding case." We want labor and industry to use our service freely and willingly. Our stock in trade is being the middleman in whom both sides have complete confidence. Our efforts are best when anonymous.

Wall of Emotions.

Sometimes relations between a management and a labor union get to the point where neither side will talk things over quietly. Collective bargaining breaks down. That happened frequently in 1946, just after the war ended, when strikes reached the highest total on record.

Maybe the management is set in its ways; maybe the union makes demands that management feels are ridiculous. There's a bit of name-calling; perhaps the conference breaks up. The two sides are separated by a situation, not issues. And that's where the conciliator comes in.

We can bring the parties together only when they want to be brought together. If management is determined to show a labor union where it gets off or a labor union is determined on a knockdown, dragout strike, we can't help much. Each side has got to learn by experience; each side must get hard feelings out of its system. Occasionally the hardship of a strike is the only way out.

Fortunately, most cases are not like that. Labor leaders want to keep their men at work. Management wants to keep production rolling or trucks moving and so on. When an impasse arises, the parties are only too happy to have an intermediary step in to find a way out of the impasse. The big task is when both sides appear to be right; when both sides have what seems to be sound contentions. Then we have to show them that compromise is necessary and possible.

As Others See It.

Our job is to hear both sides of a dispute. Sometimes the mere statement of the case helps. The labor leader or the manager of a plant gets his beef off his chest. When I was the Director of Industrial Relations at U. S. Rubber, the Conciliation Service came in several times. And I must say that having an outside point of view made it easier for us.

A commissioner of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service looks at a case as an outsider, as a neutral. He sees, perhaps, that a union is asking for a clause far out of line with what is customary in the industry. He sees that management is asking the union leader to accept terms which he'd not be able to sell to his members. The conciliator can point out privately to each side how the dispute looks to a neutral. That helps the labor union and the management to see the dispute as others see it.

There is no typical labor dispute. Sometimes the union, knowing it's going into collective bargaining, will demand a change in every clause in a contract—all benefiting the union, of course. In the case of a large corporation recently, the union sought changes in 134 clauses. The management also demanded numerous changes. That makes sheer drudgery.

Whittling—Part of the Job.

A commissioner will sit down with the union, then with the management to get each side to recede from such unrealistic positions. Eventually, the demands for changes are whittled down clause by clause until three or four clauses, such as wages, hours, vacations, pensions, etc., remain. Once the mediator has the parties at that stage, he has done a major

More Industry Passes Peak, Cuts Output

Commerce Department Finds Production Moderately Lower.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP) SIGNS of a slowdown in the steady postwar climb of American industrial production were reported today by the Commerce Department.

While price increases gained rapidity, the department's monthly publication, Survey of Current Business, reported that industrial output was "moderately lower" in June and July than in the early part of the year.

Output over the entire first six months was only slightly higher than in the last half of 1947, a special analysis showed.

"The rate of advance was probably the slowest for any six-months period since the postwar uptrend began, with fewer industries reporting gains in output and more reporting downward adjustments," the survey said.

"It is apparent that additional industries have been added to the list of those which have worked off demand backlogs, though in a number of major industries the unfilled orders are still large. A few industries have staged a renewed upturn after experiencing an earlier set-back."

New orders placed with manufacturers rose in June after drifting lower in the first months of 1948, but production was handicapped in many cases by shortages of materials.

Out of 26 manufactured products, it was reported, nine have generally had an unbroken uptrend in production since 1945; 17 reached their postwar peaks and have shown declines running to six months or more.

Among the earliest to reach their peaks were women's and children's clothing, shoes, truck-trailers, automobile tires, water heaters, glass containers and oil burners.

"Rising costs and increasing demand . . . resulted in a further advance in the price level," the report said.

"In recent weeks the area of rising prices has broadened and the pace of the advance has quickened."

"The outstanding deviation from the general upward trend of prices was in agricultural crop prices where there is the prospect of bumper crops aggregating about 6 per cent larger than the previous record harvest of 1946.

"The prospective enlarged grain supply has reduced the average of wholesale grain prices about 15 per cent in the past three months."

Japanese Birth Rate Up.

TOKYO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Allied headquarters announced today the Japanese birth rate is the highest since 1926 and the death rate is the lowest ever recorded. Last year there were 1,562,587 more births than deaths in Japan. Japan's population Oct. 1, 1947, was 78,090,991.

Guide to Dispersal of Industries For Defense Lists Likely Targets, Urges Economic, Feasible Plan

Study on Security Boils Down to Common-Sense Application of Not Putting All Eggs in One Basket — Rejects Use of Underground Plants.

By GEORGE H. HALL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.

THAT American industrialists are keenly interested in the problems of locating their plants with a view to maintaining production if this country should be attacked by air is indicated by their response to the recent study of the National Security Resources Board.

Within three weeks after the study was issued on July 22 the board had received more than 4000 requests for copies. These came from giant concerns such as Ford and General Motors, from airplane and arms manufacturers and from engineers and planners. Next month the board expects to distribute 25,000 printed and illustrated copies to persons concerned with the subject.

The study, now in mimeograph form, is only 15 pages long but Arthur M. Hill, chairman of the NSRB, hopes it will become a sort of Bible. It is a concise statement of the principles of industrial location for national security and has a long-range viewpoint. Analyses of the problems of specific industries and of Government institutions will follow from time to time.

Purpose of Booklet.

"This country's policies must be directed, at one and the same time, toward making every effort to build a stable peace and toward being adequately prepared in case those efforts fail.

"The immediate objective is the development of an economically practical approach to the problem of industrial security. The purpose here is:

"To alert industrial leaders to the strategic significance of industrial plant location in the event of another war:

"To suggest that industrial leaders think of strategic location or relocation of plant facilities as an added essential factor in any plans for plant expansion;

"To impress upon industrial leaders the urgency for this type of thinking. Urgency, not because a national emergency is necessarily imminent, but because 12 to 14 billion dollars are being spent annually for new plants and new equipment. A substantial portion of these plants is being located in highly concentrated industrial areas, thereby increasing vulnerability in the event of attack."

The board dismisses underground factory installations as not practical for application on a large scale. Its advice is designed to be taken without disruption of the economy or large-scale additional expenditures. It all "boils down to a common-sense application of the old adage about not putting all of one's eggs in one basket."

The board accepts the thesis that there is no defense against the atomic bomb, but it says there is and will continue to be a defense, not sufficient in itself to save the nation from defeat, against any carrier a potential enemy might use to deliver such a bomb.

"The constantly increasing range of aircraft, together with the enormous destructive effect of atomic weapons, makes it reasonable to assume that within the foreseeable future no area in the United States will be immune from possible attack because of its location alone," it is stated. "This assumption, coupled with the knowledge that the destruction or immobilization of a nation's vital industry will destroy its capacity to defend itself, makes it reasonable to assume that highly concentrated areas of vital industry and population will be the most attractive targets."

Areas Likely to Be Vulnerable.

The assumption is made that because of the expense of atomic weapons no country is likely to be able to afford to use an atomic bomb on each city of as few as 50,000 persons or on a congested industrial city of less than five square miles. A location less than three miles from a potential target center of an atomic bomb is considered to be vulnerable in the light of experience with the bomb at Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The board lists eight targets which an enemy might mark for destruction, and notes that if a plant is not on the target list but is near a target plant, the practical effect on the non-target plant is the same.

The facilities in a given area that might interest an enemy are given as follows:

An individual plant producing a large percentage of a highly critical item which, if destroyed, would have immediate far-reaching adverse effects on the production of that and other related items.

All major developments, industrial or otherwise, which could be considered highly inflammable or explosive to the extent that their general destruction would substantially endanger other vital resources in the area. This would include such things as oil refineries, oil storage fa-

Weak Points In Dewey Plan For Colonies

By George Fielding Eliot
(Copyright, 1948.)

GOV. DEWEY has told a delegation of American citizens of Italian descent that he thinks the former Italian colonies in Africa should be returned to Italian administration, probably under a United Nations trusteeship. There is, probably, something to be said for this idea from the point of view of Italian sentiment and Italian pride, but as a practical proposition there are considerable difficulties to be encountered.

In the first place, none of the four colonies—Tripolitania, Cyrenaica, Eritrea and Italian Somaliland—is self-supporting.

In 1933, for example (about the last year of reliable statistics prior to the Ethiopian war), the Italian taxpayer had to foot the bill for 40 per cent of the expenditures in Eritrea, and more than two-thirds of the expenditures in the other three colonies. The total bite put on the Italian budget to support these non-productive colonies was in that year about 255,000,000 lire, and the lira in those days was worth about five cents.

Colonies Need Reconstruction.

All these colonies have been fought over and they suffered heavily from the war. They need reconstruction today as well as normal support.

Where is impoverished Italy to get the money, as she struggles to re-establish her own economy at home?

It is all very well for Gov. Dewey to say that Italian recovery "will be assisted . . . if the Italian people are now given an ample opportunity to take part in the development of the resources of these African areas," but the sad truth is that these African areas have virtually no resources that can be developed.

In 1933, the total imports of all four colonies amounted to 412,000,000 lire; their total exports were 139,000,000 lire.

That gives you an idea of how much developing can be done—and at that time they had all been under Italian control for many years. It is just possible for their scanty populations to wring a bare living from the earth, except for small parts of Eritrea and Cyrenaica where there is somewhat greater fertility.

Then there are certain political

JET 'CLAY PIGEON' PLANES ORDERED BY U.S. AS TARGETS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Air Force and Navy are buying a few high-speed radio-controlled "clay pigeons" for their gunners to practice up their sharpshooting.

A contract with Ryan Aeronautical Co., announced yesterday, calls for a "service test quantity" of target planes which an Air Force official explained is usually about 13. If the early models hold up under test, more are ordered, he said.

How much the jet-powered, pilotless targets will cost is a secret. The closest estimate that could be obtained was "under $100,000 each." The official declared it is Air Force policy to withhold the amount of a contract until it is completed. No details on their speed were given. Known as the XQ-2, the plane is less than half fighter-size and will be used for practice by anti-aircraft and combat plane gunners, and in interception problems.

VICTORY COST US DEARLY, WE MUST KEEP IT---CHURCHILL

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France, Aug. 23 (UP)—Winston Churchill was greeted by local officials and newspaper men when he arrived here today on a month's holiday.

"Ah, victory . . ." Churchill said. "It cost us dearly and we must keep it."

Churchill was accompanied by his wife, his daughter and her husband. They will occupy a whole floor of the local hotel, where Churchill will paint and work on his memoirs.

State Department Says Objection Is to Sponsorship by American-Soviet Council.

LONDON, Aug. 24 (AP)—Dr. Hewlett Johnson, so-called "Red Dean" of Canterbury, said today he had been refused a visa to enter the United States for lecture engagements. He issued his statement through the London Daily Worker, Communist newspaper. He is a member of its editorial board.

Dr. Johnson said the visa was refused because the United States Embassy disapproved of the American-Soviet Friendship Council which was sponsoring his tour and an address at New York's Madison Square Garden Nov. 3.

"It seems that no steps must be taken in the United States to cultivate American-Soviet friendship or understanding," the Dean said. "America is said to be the land of free speech, but obviously speech about friendship with the Soviet Union does not come under that category."

(In Washington, Press Officer Michael McDermott said the State Department has no objections personally to Dr. Johnson. But, he added, "it would regard a visit under auspices of this organization as not in our national interest."

(The American-Soviet Council, McDermott said, is on the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations.)

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Slum Bond Questions

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The slum clearance bond issue drive for $16,000,000 depends upon votes. During the past few months I have attended several meetings where the proposal was presented, usually with a maximum of fancy and a minimum of fact.

After the applause (in no case loud or long), the real sentiment crystallized in small groups—people sufficiently interested to remain and talk it over. Judging by these people, I would say that at the moment the proverbial snowball has a better chance than the bond issue.

The Citizens Committee has a responsibility for presenting a clear statement of fact. At present there is confusion worse confounded as to the proposal itself. Its future cost; the relationship between the Citizens Committee and the St. Louis Housing Authority; the difference between slum clearance and subsidized housing; the type of improvement which is planned for the razed area (boulevards, parked areas, low-rent homes, middle- and upper-class apartments), the temporary displacement of present tenants—these and many other questions trouble the voter.

The answers to these questions may be clear to a few, but these few can't pass the bond issue. In my opinion no meetings should be held until a statement of basic fact has been prepared with all the questions and all the answers. To date we have been deluged with shadow-boxing.

Those of us who pioneered slum-clearance and low-rent housing 15 years ago still recall the discouraging obstacles which, without the support of the press, would have meant failure.

Negation and name-calling will get us nowhere. Merely to damn realtors, property owners and objectors will invite defeat. Only good will, hard work and an honest, understandable blueprint will make the voters say "yes" in November.

Socialism and Communism

What is the difference between Socialism and Communism?

There is no difference. Both terms designate a society in which the means of production are collectively owned and democratically managed by the producers. There is, however, a great deal of difference between Marxian Socialism and the pseudo-Communism advocated by the so-called Communist party. The former is based on science; the latter is a shameless distortion of Marxism.

Farm Prices Aren't Too High

When the people who are ranting about high prices of farm products get what they want, they will find they have dealt themselves a bad deal.

We read that these prices are too high; something should be done about it. Compared with relative cost of production they are no higher than other products. A farmer sows 100 acres of wheat. From this he may reap 4000 bushels of high-grade wheat. Also, he may reap 50 tons of stock bedding, if he can afford to harvest it; a heavy loss. This, through no fault of his or any other person, is an unavoidable work of nature. From some source this loss of part of his living must be made up.

True, in percentages farm products have risen more than most other items during the past decade. But that means absolutely nothing. If the farmer is to be anything more than a mere serf because of the varying conduct of nature, there must be some years of abnormally high earnings intermixed with years of equally low earnings. The farmer rarely squeals when they are unusually low; and the city man should not squeal when they are unusually high. Consider the average!

We often hear comparisons of prices of industrial goods and farm products of the '30s and today. Such comparisons are definitely unfair. In the '30s, the only way the Government statisticians could figure the farmer as coming out even was by refusing to allow him wages of any kind for his long hours of hard work—both himself and his family. Try this system on the manufacturer, the professional man, the middle man, the laborer, and hear the mighty howl go up.

Yes, bring prices on farm products down; but bring all other prices down, penny for penny, with them! Then let the laboring man and all others spend their time working conscientiously, instead of lolling around "on a strike," and we will have taken a mighty step toward quietly moving out of inflation.

Ossified Americanism?

Frequently one hears the indiscriminate use of such expressions as "un-American," "not our way of life," "Communistic," etc., when the speaker or writer wants to annihilate an idea or condition that conflicts with his way of life.

Is Americanism something static? Was it ever? Can it endure if it is?

To me Americanism is more than the absence of J. Stalin, T. Pendergast, etc. It is more than "freedom," more than equal opportunity. It is a way of life, a use of freedom and a grasp of opportunities through critical thinking that is alert to the best in anything and against anything that has outlived its use.

The issues and problems of the future are very different from those of the past. In the arena of life it is not parties or nations that face one another but rather the thoughts, the needs and demands of mankind. Let us temper the good steel of the American weapon with honesty and flexibility so that we can fight the battles of man without dulling or shattering it.

HENRY P. ROSENOW.

The Anti-Wallace Plot

Unless the Missouri Supreme Court reverses Secretary of State Nelson, the Progressive party presidential ticket will be barred from the ballot in the general election.

To put it plainly, this looks like a vicious Democratic plot to suppress the Wallace party and thus to save the Democrats the loss of many votes in this state. It has been predicted that President Truman will lose the state if Wallace's name is on the ballot.

In 1924, Senator La Follette received 84,160 votes in Missouri. If those votes had gone to John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate, Mr. Coolidge would not have carried Missouri.

Secretary of State Nelson's decision to bar the Progressive party was announced in one brief paragraph, which failed to state his reasons. It merely sustained the objections to the certification made by Bert Koester.

And who is Bert Koester? He is a small-fry Jefferson City Democratic politician who holds the office of collector of Cole county. It is difficult to see how Mr. Koester can have any interest in the matter except from a partisan political viewpoint.

This suspicion is strengthened by the fact that Mr. Koester's attorney is the ineffable Pete Lauf, who has a long and malodorous record in Democratic politics.

Pete Lauf, in turn, represents no doubt a clique of slickers similar to the crowd, of which Lauf was a member, that attempted to steal the governorship in 1940.

They know that Wallace represents a threat to a Truman victory in Missouri. Therefore, the "smart" thing to do is to use the technicalities of the election laws to keep him off the ballot.

In addition to barring Wallace electors from the ballot, Mr. Nelson indicates that candidates of the new party for six state offices and for three congressional seats will not be certified unless the Progressive central committee files nominating petitions before Tuesday night.

The election laws governing the placing of a new party on the ballot allow for considerable latitude and also for the raising of all sorts of technicalities. They are a fine browsing ground for Philadelphia lawyers.

Mr. Nelson has given the statutes a strict construction. He might just as well have given them a broad construction and avoided the controversy now raging.

There is no doubt that the Progressive party made every effort to make itself eligible for a place on the ballot next November. Its leaders have been working at this for months.

Progressive candidates did not appear on the primary ballot because, as ruled by the Supreme Court, there were no contests for the nominations. Mr. Nelson now says: "It is unsettled legally whether these candidates are properly the nominees of the Progressive party."

If they are not properly the nominees, surely it is the Progressive party itself which should object, and not a cabal of Democratic politicians.

The effect of Mr. Nelson's decision is to martyrize the new party and to give sharp point to the following statements of Robert Logsdon, its state chairman:

> The arbitrary and wholly unjustified decision of the Secretary of State attempting to rule the Progressive party off the ballot is a despotic effort to rob Missourians of their American right to a free ballot.
> It does not surprise us that a party machine which tried to steal the governorship in 1940 should compel the Secretary of State to violate the plain provisions of the election statutes. Our founding convention fully complied with all provisions of the law.

We hope the Supreme Court will find it possible to decide the mandamus suit in favor of the Progressive party so that Wallace electors may appear on the ballot. We hope that the Progressive party is able to produce petitions to place its nominees for state and national offices on the ballot.

Needless to say, we are opposed to Henry Wallace and his third party, but they and their followers have a right to a square deal and anything less would be a humiliation to the State of Missouri.

Meanwhile, let the better elements of the Democratic party read the riot act to the Jefferson City cabal. The attempted governorship steal turned out to be a party disaster whose effects are still being felt by the Democrats. This shabby attempt to keep the new party off the ticket will prove another boomerang, which the Republicans will properly seize as a potent campaign issue.

A Slight Intercollegiate Green

Could it be something as nontechnical and unscientific sounding as envy that is eating on Dr. Jules H. Masserman, director of Northwestern University's Psychiatric Research Foundation?

Dr. Masserman says the University of Chicago's "Great Books" program, which has been going like a house afire, is a "regrettable form of escapism." He not only dislikes the U.C. program, he dislikes the works of Aristotle and Plato for having anything to do with it.

Several thousand persons have found in these and other classics, through the medium of the University of Chicago, a common ground on which their minds can meet and consider today's problems. If Dr. Masserman can think of something that can stir up as much popularity, enthusiasm and thoughtful discussion as the Great Books program, he will have accomplished quite a good deal. And incidentally, being busy like that is the best way we know of to break the habit of biting your nails.

Russia's Diplomatic Dream World

The Kosenkina-Samarine affair, we are now told, will not have much effect on Russian-American relations. It is to be attributed to a misunderstanding of American ways on the part of Russian consular officials, says John M. Hightower of the Associated Press, and to their lack of authority to depart from the police state methods which prevail in the Soviet Union.

But it is not very encouraging to hear that, under his instructions, Mr. Lomakin, the Russian consul general in New York, was not free to obey American law as it applied to him, that he had no choice to behave otherwise than he would have in Romania or Bulgaria or any place where the Russians run the show to suit themselves. Such an attitude simply threatens more clashes in the future—unless, of course, the Kremlin issues new orders.

That seems less likely since the suspicion is growing that Soviet diplomatic and consular officials are not sending true reports to Moscow, but rather the kind of statements which the Kremlin bureaucrats prefer to read. The State Department accused Lomakin of such misrepresentation in its note of last week.

It is understandable that a man may be tempted to portray a situation in terms most favorable to him. His career depends on a good record. Such a psychology is bad enough. But when a diplomat is driven to falsification by fear of police state punishment, he becomes a hindrance rather than an aid to international understanding. His own government is the worst victim of such misrepresentation.

The Politburo has long been suspicious of Western motives. The goal of its diplomats ought to be the removal of such cause as there may be for these doubts. But how can this be accomplished if every event is to be twisted out of its true shape and forced into some preconceived pattern?

The essence of sound diplomacy is realism. The Kremlin seems to be basing it on fantasy. On such a foundation, it cannot stand.

Chicago and St. Louis

Chicago, as the Post-Dispatch is showing in a series of articles, has low-rent public housing for 11,274 families and is about to add units for 800 more. St. Louis has only 1315 units and cannot build an authorized third project because of the Missouri Legislature's unwillingness to pass enabling legislation.

Because Chicago contributes a lion's share of Illinois state revenue, the state is contributing $20,000,000 to its slum clearance efforts. St. Louis is in a similar position in Missouri, but our Legislature has not appropriated a cent.

A large life insurance company offers to build apartments for 1400 families in Chicago. Efforts to bring such investors to St. Louis have not borne fruit so far.

Chicago voted a $30,000,000 slum clearance bond issue last November. St. Louisans will decide for or against a $16,000,000 issue this year. And there, by all indications, is the key to the whole matter.

Chicagoans' willingness to tax themselves was an inducement to the Legislature to add to the fund. It was also the act which made it possible to offer land at a price the insurance company can afford to pay. A St. Louis bond issue cannot remove the barrier to further public housing construction, but sooner or later it will be removed, and voting for the bond issue would let our Legislature know that the slum problem is serious and the city really means to wage a full-scale attack on it.

"The time has now come," says Henry Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology and chairman of Chicago's South Side Planning Board, "when the citizens of this great city must decide to act or to allow the malignant growth of slums to destroy its civic vitality." The statement is equally true for St. Louis, and the fate of the bond issue will tell whether St. Louis measures up to the challenge.

For an End to Berlin Kidnapings

The fact that the Russians released Thomas P. Headen so promptly suggests that they may be aware of what a dangerous game they are playing in Berlin.

Mr. Headen, a former officer in the Army, is deputy chief of the information service of our Military Government. He was with his wife and two small children adjacent to the British-Russian sector line when three Russian soldiers pushed him into a jeep and drove away, leaving his family in tears. But almost immediately after releasing the American official, Russian soldiers invaded the American sector and seized a German photographer.

There is only one course for the United States in this situation. This is to serve immediate notice on the Russians that invasions and kidnapings will not be tolerated any longer. If necessary our military force in Berlin should be increased to such a point that our sector boundary can be protected against these intentional trespasses and seizures.

The people of Berlin and Germans generally are watching us with both eyes. So are people over the whole of Europe. They want to see how firm we will be in this critical situation. If we are weak or vacillating, Europeans will conclude, as many have been disposed to think all along, that we will not follow through on our commitment in Berlin. That would cost us good will, morale and much support which could never be regained.

These violations of American and German rights in the western sectors of Berlin are first order of business at the meeting of American, British and French envoys with Foreign Minister Molotov in the Kremlin. Unless we get these kidnapings stopped, any other results of the conference will look pitifully small to the people of Germany and Europe.

Twilight of Boss Crump

The Citizens' Committee of Memphis, which did so much to defeat Boss Crump's candidates in the statewide Democratic primary in Tennessee, has announced its reorganization on a permanent basis for the purpose of defeating the boss in his home city and county.

One of the foundations of Crump's dictatorship has been the corruption of the ballot. Another has been the spoils system in city and county government. The Citizens' Committee will strike at the Boss' power by asking the State Legislature to enact:

1. A civil service system for Memphis and surrounding Shelby County.
2. A "Little Hatch Act" to forbid city and county employes from engaging in political activity except as private citizens.
3. A permanent voters' registration law.
4. A law authorizing the use of voting machines to end vote stealing.

There seems to be an excellent chance for this program to be enacted. Certainly it is favored by Gordon Browning, the anti-Crump Democratic nominee for Governor. If Roy Acuff, the Republican nominee, is elected, he should be no less interested in cleaning up the political charnel house in Memphis.

Crump shows a pathetic inability to understand why his hitherto submissive subjects are in revolt. He repeats his refrain that Memphis has the lowest tax rate of any city of its size in the country and that Shelby County has the lowest tax rate of all the counties in Tennessee. He cannot grasp that the people want the free franchise of American citizens.

The plain truth is that the people of Memphis are tired of being bossed. For nearly 40 years they have taken their politics, and even their morals, as Mr. Crump prescribed.

The people want to be their own boss. That is what democracy means. It has been open season on bosses for several years. Boss Crump has lasted longer than most, but the twilight is closing in—fast.

It has been said repeatedly, pertaining to the spy hearings, that where there's smoke there must be some fire. Of course, but even the most reckless hunter would hesitate before firing the woods that surround the homestead to drive out the skunks.

NEXT SESSION'S AMNESIA VICTIMS

—From the Denver Post.

Greetings to You, Gentlemen!

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Draftee of 1948 can expect very different treatment from what his father and older brother had; the Army is trying "the New Evangelism of Johnnie Devine," which emphasizes "brain, not brass" and believes that dignity and self-reliance breed better soldiers.

Howard Whitman in Collier's

Not long ago, a young lieutenant was addressing a group of recruits at Fort Dix, N. J. "Gentlemen," he said, "your officers are here to serve you—like a big brother or father. They understand that you are individuals, with particular individual characteristics which no other men in the world possess."

If I hadn't been forewarned, I wouldn't have believed my ears. "Gentlemen" . . . "like a big brother or father." You didn't hear much of that sort of thing during World Wars I and II.

Gen. Devine

The answer is: a new kind of "military mind" is running the Army show, and the lads of 19 to 25 who receive their draft greetings in the coming months—and 18-year-olds who volunteer—will like it. It places the emphasis on brain, not brass. It puts its store in human values, individual dignity, and the rights of man, rather than in the peabrain authoritarianism which GIs of World War II knew contemptuously as "chicken."

Speaking of the changed mood, Army leaders often call it "the New Evangelism of Johnnie Devine." It was Maj. Gen. John M. Devine who gave the new philosophy a trial run at Fort Knox, Ky., and is now diffusing it throughout the Army. Johnnie Devine was recently promoted to Deputy Chief, Army Field Forces.

What Makes Men Fight

"Every man in the Army," says Devine, "shares the basic human needs: He needs self-respect, he needs the respect of others, he needs a chance to get ahead, and he needs warmth and affection."

One brass hat, still living in the days of Prussian glory, said to Johnnie Devine, "There's only one trouble with your little plan. These men won't fight!"

Gen. Devine's eyes sharpened. "That just proves to me that you've never been in a battle," he replied icily.

Later he said to me, "I've seen a lot of men fight and a lot run away. I think I've learned what really makes men fight. It's the self-respect and the individual strength you build into them."

At Fort Dix, N.J., I went through the draft-geared reception rigmarole with a dozen new recruits for a preview of what the draftee can expect. Each was handed a manual called Army Life. On one of the opening pages he could read, "This Army has a great respect for your mind. . . . You, too, must respect your own mind. Don't sit back and stop thinking simply because you will have food and a place to sleep. Ask questions. . . ."

Any Beefs to Report?

He could also notice on the bulletin a prominent sheet headed: "Opportunity to present complaints and grievances." And he received a mimeographed greeting from Lt. Col. Charles F. Arny, head of the receiving division, in which his scanning eye could find such lines as:

"The Army belongs to you and 140,000,000 other Americans. . . . We must prevent future wars, and guarantee peace for ourselves by assuring peace in the rest of the world. . . . We convinced the world of our power in the fighting war. Will we prove our points in the 'war of ideas'?"

Next morning the four-day "processing cycle" began. To those who had visions of Hard-boiled Smiths barking, "Okay, punks, yer in the Army now," it must have come as a surprise to hear the first speaker say, "Good morning, gentlemen," and then go on as if he were talking to the American Association of Bank Presidents.

Basic training has been considerably changed from what the World War II soldier knew. Much of the blood and thunder, like the famous "infiltration course" in which soldiers slithered forward on their bellies while live machine-gun fire whizzed over their heads, has been eliminated.

Most veterans will remember a bitter pill of their basic training days known as the "obstacle course." I saw trainees doing the same things at Fort Dix. But there was a big difference. The course wasn't called an "obstacle course." It was a "confidence course."

Confidence Surmounts the Obstacles

The trainee wasn't forced to take any of the hurdles he didn't want to. It was left entirely up to him. If he had the "confidence" he did it. If not, he could walk around it. Result: Every trainee took every hurdle, and took great pride in so doing.

"The Army's getting smart in its old age," a battalion commander remarked. "These kids get a kick out of the course now. Man, how they used to cuss it in the old days!"

While the new man is in his fifth or sixth week, the classification board at the training center will decide whether to ship him to an Army unit after his eighth week, or to hang onto him a bit longer for specialist training or for the Army's new pride and joy, the "leadership course."

Just as old-line militarism stressed followers, so the new evangelism stresses leaders. The leadership training course is under Brig. Gen. Wayne C. Smith (who demonstrated his own leadership quotient by rising from buck private to general).

Men chosen for the leadership course get kid-glove treatment. They eat in a special "leaders' mess" with handsome drapes on the windows and flowers on the tables. They have a day-room as elegant as any officers' club.

At Dix there is a conspicuous absence of swearing. In fact I heard but one swear word while I was there. It was uttered by a new private, not by the legendary tough sergeant. It was the sergeant who said, "Watch your language!"

Eager Obedience vs. Resentment

For the old boys in iron pants who prate about the Army going soft, Gen. Devine likes to haul out the West Point graduation address of Gen. Schofield in 1877. He likes to read these lines:

"The discipline which makes the soldier of a free country reliable in battle is not to be gained by harsh or tyrannical treatment . . . such treatment is far more likely to destroy than to make an army. It is possible to impart instructions and to give commands in such a manner and such a tone of voice to inspire in the soldier no feeling but an intense desire to obey, while the opposite manner and tone of voice cannot fail to excite strong resentment and a desire to disobey."

"No," says Johnnie Devine, "the draftees won't be coddled. The regime will be as strict as that in any military organization, the hours as long, the work as arduous, and the fatigue and guard duty as inevitable. . . .

"But—we're also going to build those boys' characters, give them confidence, increase their self-respect, and make them better citizens while also making them good soldiers."

NO AMBEETION?

Bennett Cerf in the Saturday Review of Literature.

An opinionated English author, lecturing in Pittsburgh, thundered, "I was born an Englishman, I have lived an Englishman, I hope I shall die an Englishman." A voice from the auditorium, in unmistakable accent, called out, "Mon, hae ye no ambeetion?"

When Loa Was God

THE SKY AND THE FOREST, by C. S. Forester. (Little, Brown and Co., Boston. 313 pgs., $2.75.)

Unbelievable as it may seem to Forester fans, there are no fighting frigates, no booming broadsides—not even a dash of salt spray—in this unusual novel and venture into a new field for the master craftsman who created that redoubtable seaman, Horatio Hornblower. Instead, the locale is the fetid and gloomy rain forest of Central Africa. And the principal character is Loa, an ignorant and cruel cannibal.

In his usual clear and rapid style, Forester tells the story of how a touch of Western civilization, in the form of mass greed and cruelty, affects Loa who ruled as a god in his squalid little village of huts until Arab raiders in search of slaves strike suddenly. The invaders burn, kill and enslave ruthlessly. The kurbash—a whip of hippopotamus hide—and the chained yoke reduced Loa from superman to sub-human in a moment of time. He finds he is, after all, only a helpless man.

Weeks later, Loa is rescued by his first wife and his eldest son, who escaped capture. Alone in the immensity of the tangled jungle into which the sun's rays rarely penetrate, they begin the great adventure of returning home. Despite pygmies and their poisoned arrows, lurking crocodiles and coiled snakes, disease and loathsome insects, rivers and tangled undergrowth, they finally struggle through.

Immediately Loa has to re-establish himself among his surviving people who had seen him humbled. He fights and kills Soli who succeeded him as head of the village. Then he sets up his "new deal." For Loa during his period of adversity has learned how to fish, how to make war, how to sail canoes, how to hold a people in subjugation. He was centuries ahead of his people now.

C. S. Forester

Some may say that Forester's pen boosts this decidedly dumb Tarzan a little too fast. Others will say, perhaps rightly, that Forester has written an allegory — civilization brings evil, or, perhaps, that Loa in his new little kingdom was in as confused a state as man in the Atomic Age.

At an accelerated pace, Forester covers the 20-year period in which Loa introduces his people to empire. He prepares them to meet invasion. And invasion comes in the overwhelming form of an improvised river gunboat and mercenaries of King Leopold II of Belgium led by Capt. Victor Augustus Talbot, remittance man, "late of the Green Jackets and once the darling of London drawing rooms."

Talbot, drawn with all Forester's consumate skill in characterization, may once have been a "darling," but he accomplishes the downfall of Loa and his little empire with a casual relentlessness that puts him in the cruel rotter class.

Most of the characters are either the tools or the victims of old Leopold whose bloody exploitation of his Congo colony a half century ago puts him in Hitler's class. Nevertheless, "The Sky and the Forest" is good reading. Mr. Forester shows his extraordinary gift for telling a story in direct and simple prose that is at its best in portraying the excitement of lively adventure. Forester the anthropologist is almost as good as Forester the mariner.

Summer Mystery for Teenagers

Children from 10 to 14 who enjoy action-jammed mysteries will revel in this story of a summer camping trip that turned out to be a cops-and-robbers affair. There's a villain who keeps a surprise "uncle" captive in a subterranean cave. He leaves a weird trail to follow. Surprise follows surprise. Finally it all ends in a lively battle in the cave, some rescues and the recovery of the loot.

MARQUIS CHILDS

McCALL, Idaho.

As we rode through wilderness country along the high mountain ridges in the Payette National Forest, we felt the presence of two vigorous ghosts. They hovered benignly over the dark, wooded slopes and the clear running streams that they saved from blight and destruction.

These were the ghosts of Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot. Pinchot was the father of conservation in America. Roosevelt was the political godfather of the movement that saved large areas from ruinous deforestation and the disastrous erosion that eventually means desert.

Teddy Roosevelt

Working together 40 years ago, they got Congress to put the mountainous watersheds in Federal ownership under supervision of the Forest Service. Out of that move, linked with other conservation measures, has come the whole development of irrigated farming and the industries related to it.

G. O. P. Heritage.

This is the heritage of the Republican party if it only had the sense to know it. In laying the cornerstone of conservation, Roosevelt and Pinchot set a high precedent.

The Republican candidate for President, Gov. Dewey, is planning to tour the West next month. He will have an opportunity to take hold of the conservaion issue and restore the heritage of his party. And in reality he will be taking the popular side not only among convinced conservationists, but among most people in the West who understand how vital it is to preserve the base of the West's permanent well-being.

In my opinion, conservation ranks as one of the three most important issues before the country. First, of course, comes the question of war or peace and the way in which America's foreign policy has been directed.

End to Plundering.

If a third world war should follow quickly upon the one that ended three years ago, then there would be little use to talk about conservation. The demands of a new war would carve so deeply into remaining resources as to jeopardize for all time the American standard of life.

But assuming that a fairly long period of peace is at least a possibility, then the issue of conserving and broadening our natural resource base ranks with the question of trying to control inflation and prevent a depression. The plundering of "our plundered planet" must be halted if mankind is not to be reduced to the level of starvation existence.

On his western trip Dewey can, of course, evade this great issue. He can pay lip service to conservation while at the same time talking about the need to relax overly severe bureaucratic controls.

That would please a few big ranchers and stockmen—the same little group that set out deliberately to undermine the public land policy. They are out to make a killing in this era of phenomenally high prices.

Effect of Booms.

One can understand the force of this motivation. The boom is something! A lamb on the hoof brings $30. A big sheep operator expressed it by saying that he felt as though he were growing orchids.

Some of the money to feed the boom comes, ironically enough, from Government sources. This potato state will get a sizable share of the millions being paid out in subsidies to potato growers.

Part of it will go to such big-time boys as Idaho's Jack Simplot, whose millions made during the past seven or eight years are already a new get-rich-quick legend. The Government pays $2.40 a hundred pounds for "surplus" potatoes and sells them for $2 a ton to be converted into animal fodder.

Will Take Courage.

If Dewey evades the conservation issue, he will leave a feeling of puzzlement and anxiety among those who are hoping that he will provide leadership. It will take some courage to speak out. Dewey will have to go against those Republican Senators and Congressmen who have followed the wishes of the minority—the big stock raisers.

In all this is a challenge which Dewey, the administrator, the skilled public servant, should welcome. It is a challenge for a big man.

Written in sky-high letters is this impressive fact out of history: No civilization has ever been able to organize a watershed-irrigation system so that a permanent way of life could be based on it, and history is littered with the wreckage of societies that failed from the Euphrates valley to our own continent and the destruction that overwhelmed the high civilization of the Incas.

In the book of history the page of failure is written with a record of desert and famine, swift decay and obliteration beneath the shifting ocean of sand. Here is a challenge, not for one man alone, but for a whole society that stands at the dividing line.

WORLD CHURCH BODY SET UP IN AMSTERDAM

The Council's first assembly, which opened yesterday and will meet until Sept. 4, was called to set up a permanent instrument for co-operative church action on a world-wide basis.

Eighty per cent of the Christians in Protestant and Orthodox countries throughout the world had delegates on hand when the opening service of the assembly was held in the New Church of Amsterdam, the main Protestant church in the city.

Russians Are Missing.

A minority of the Protestant church, fearing "modernistic" influences in the world council, abstained from the meeting. Russian Orthodox church representatives were missing, but delegates of the Czech, Hungarian and other eastern European churches behind the iron curtain were represented.

Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the World Council, said the Russian church's decision not to attend was made at a conference of the Eastern Orthodox Church in Moscow in July. Unofficial observers affiliated with the Russian church outside of the Soviet Union were reported present.

A resolution adopted at the Moscow conference, Dr. 't Hooft said, "describes our movement as a body which is not really concerned with the unity of the church but rather with the gaining of political and social influence." He said the reasons given for the Russian church's "negative decision" were "based upon a complete misunderstanding of the true nature of our movement." He said the door would be kept open for the church of Russia to be represented in the World Council.

Dr. 't Hooft said the Roman Catholic Church was not invited to send official delegates because the provisional committee "was fully aware of the reasons why that church would not participate in the ecumenical (world-wide) movement." A limited number of unofficial observers was invited, but the Vatican decided in June that permission to attend "would not be granted to anybody," he added.

He referred to other communions "which refuse to join us or even attack us," but mentioned no names. (The Associated Press quoted Charles P. Taft, American Lay delegate of the Protestant Episcopal Church, as telling a news conference that the other communions to which Dr. 't Hooft referred included the Southern Baptist Convention, with a membership of 6,500,000, and the Missouri Synod Lutherans.)

Dulles Will Speak.

John Foster Dulles, Republican party adviser on foreign affairs, was on hand as an American delegate of the Presbyterian Church. He will address the assembly tomorrow.

Dr. John R. Mott, American Nobel Prize winner, told representatives the world council movement now had been called upon to "face the greatest concentration of major unsolved problems we ever confronted." Dr. Mott is one of the five presidents of the Council and a veteran of the world movement that led to formation of the world council.

The Archbishop of Canterbury was chairman of the first business session.

Dr. John A. MacKay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N.J., addressed yesterday's gathering of delegates. He said secular as well as religious writers have begun to see in Christianity "the one hope for mankind."

Time for Action.

"When the world craves to know the meaning of salvation," he said, "and when millions have been disillusioned by devotion to false saviors, it is the time of all times for the Christian church, by word and by deed, to interpret to passionate and despairing people that there is a Redeemer who can give true life to men and establish righteousness and judgment in the earth. . . .

"There are powers, both secular and religious, in the world of today which confine the Christian church, or certain branches of the church, to the exercise of strictly localized worship. By doing so, they raise afresh the crucial issue of the meaning and right of religious freedom.

"The International Missionary Council has maintained, and I trust that the World Council of Churches will also maintain, that missionary activity is both a native right of all Christians and a permanent obligation of the whole Christian church."

Donnelly's Son Leaves Hospital.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

SIX young women will return to Sweet Briar (Va.) College and one will enter as a freshman next month. In the group are three debutantes of the current season who are entering their sophomore year. They are Miss Ruth Turner Clarkson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer L. Clarkson, 6325 Ellenwood avenue; Miss Janet Marie Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Sidney Johnston, 18 Kingsbury place, and Miss Lois Annette Aitken, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis F. Aitken, St. Louis Country Club Grounds.

Miss Mary Rogers Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cunningham Jr., 808 South Warson road, Clayton, is the new student. Miss Rogers attended Mary Institute and was graduated last year from the National Cathedral School in Washington. Her roommate, Miss Mary Jordan, Skaneateles, N.Y., was a recent guest at the Cunningham home.

Also returning to Sweet Briar are Miss Elise Habenicht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Habenicht, 60 Fair Oaks, Ladue; Miss Alice Dahm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer B. Dahm, 321 Planthurst avenue, Webster Groves, and Miss Ruth Clarice Magee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles D. Magee, 48 Berkshire, Clayton. Miss Habenicht visited friends at Virginia Beach early in the summer and has recently returned from Portage Point, Mich., where she was a guest of Miss Marilyn Weissenborn, daughter of the Arthur Weissenborns, 2 Ellsworth lane, Ladue.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Capen, Florissant, Mo., accompanied by their daughter, Miss LaMay Capen, are in Wequetonsing, Mich., where they are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Christopher C. Baldwin of New York. Mrs. Baldwin is the former Miss Katharine McCluney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney, 37 Kingsbury place.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer L. Clarkson, 6325 Ellenwood avenue, will have as their guests this week Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hutchins of Bangor, Me. The Hutchins's son, Chris, who has been at Round-Up Lodge, Buena Vista, Colo., for several weeks, will join his parents here and accompany them home.

To Be Wed at Home.

A GARDEN wedding is being planned by Miss Virginia Woermann Wagner, whose marriage to John F. Kinnaman II will take place Saturday, Sept. 11, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melchior August Wagner, 9 Ladue lane, Ladue. Guests will remain for an informal reception after the ceremony, which will be performed by the Rev. W. Davidson McDowell, pastor of Ladue Chapel.

The bride-elect will have her sister, Miss Valentia Ann Wagner, as her maid of honor, and Miss Joye Siroky, Miss Martha Skinker, Miss Jean Lyle and Miss Anita Heinrichsmeyer as bridesmaids. Flower girl will be Andrea Schipke.

The prospective bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kinnaman of Indianapolis, has not yet chosen his attendants.

Miss Wagner, who was guest of honor Saturday evening at a barbecue supper given by Miss Lyle at her home, 1305 Laclede Station road, Richmond Heights, will be feted at a luncheon to be given Friday by Mrs. J. Hershey Cross, Kennerly road, Kirkwood, and at another luncheon Sept. 1, with Mrs. G. Torrance Flint and Mrs. Richard Hardcastle as hostesses, at Mrs. Hardcastle's home, 715 South Price road, Clayton. Mr. and Mrs. Wagner will give the rehearsal dinner Sept. 10.

* * *

Plans for Wedding.

MISS JULIE ANN MORRISON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Morrison, 8009 Watkins drive, has completed plans for her mariage to Benjamin Bock Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Clay Morris, Bedford, Ia. The ceremony will be performed at Central Presbyterian Church the evening of Wednesday, Sept. 8, by the Rev. Dr. William H. McCorkle, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church. A reception will be given afterward at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Jane Safford will be maid of honor, and the bride's younger sister, Miss Sue Morrison, will be junior bridesmaid. Other attendants will be Miss Marilyn Hayes, Miss Mariana Meyer, Kansas City, Mo., Miss Patricia Hatfield, Amarillo, Tex., and Miss Mary Lynn Jones, Houston, Tex. Lynne Wavering, Glenview, Ill. Miss Morrison's cousin, will be flower girl.

Mr. Morris's older brother, Lowell C. Morris Jr., Kansas City, Mo., will be best man. Ushers will be another brother, Robert D. Morris, Oliver F. Hook, Portland, Ore., Donald Simpson, Potosi, Mo., Robert L. Teel, Webb City, Mo., and William L. Whitehead.

Mrs. Clyde P. Ferguson and Mrs. Paul Ashlock were hostesses at a shower recently in honor of the bride-elect at the Ferguson home, 108 Roseacre lane, Webster Groves. Miss Hayes and Miss Safford gave a garden party and kitchen shower last week at the home of Miss Hayes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Alfred Hayes, 7720 Club drive, Clayton. Miss Morrison's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer H. Wavering of Glenview, Ill., will give a dinner at the Missouri Athletic Club Sept. 7 after the rehearsal.

Bodies of 16 more service men from St. Louis, St. Louis county and East Side communities who lost their lives in World War II have been returned to this country from Italy aboard the United States Army Transport Carroll Victory, the Department of the Army announced today.

A total of 2081 bodies were aboard the transport, with 44 destined for burial in Missouri and 129 being returned upon instructions of next of kin living in Illinois, the department reported. The dead include many originally interred in temporary military cemeteries in Italy.

Next of kin, under the program authorized by Congress, may elect to have bodies returned to the United States for burial in a private or national cemetery. They also may request interment in a permanent American military cemetery overseas or a private cemetery in a foreign country which is the homeland of the deceased or the next of kin.

The names of the dead, with names and addresses of designated relatives were listed by the Army as:

St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Pvt. Joseph O. Beyer, Army; Charles Beyer, 5630 North Broadway.

CONSTANCE MURRAY

GIRL WHOSE FAMILY INHERITED $50,000,000 TO ENTER CONVENT

The 19-year-old pretty blond debutante's decision to become a nun was disclosed by her widowed mother, Mrs. John F. Murray, last night after the girl returned by plane from a tour of Europe.

Mrs. Murray said her daughter will enter the Convent of the Holy Child at Sharon Hill, Pa., Sept. 15—three days after she acts as a bridesmaid at her sister Catherine's wedding here.

Miss Murray decided to become a nun when she was 14 and attending a convent school at Suffern, N.Y. She expressed the desire again when she finished school, Mrs. Murray said, but was persuaded to wait until she had made her debut last season and taken a trip abroad.

The trip ended last night, Mrs. Murray said, with the girl "more than ever anxious" to enter the convent. "It will be realizing a dream she's had for so many years," the mother said. "We're all very happy about it."

OPERA IS OFF; UNION SENT A FAT CHORUS

Brooklyn Producer Says AFL Won't Let Him Pick Own Performers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (UP)—Alfredo Salmaggi canceled the 1948-49 season of his Brooklyn Opera Company today because the chorus members supplied by a union are too old and too fat.

Salmaggi said the AFL American Guild of Musical Artists won't let him pick his own chorus from among union members. It picks the chorus itself.

Salmaggi's opera season at the Brooklyn Academy of Music was scheduled to start Sept. 12.

"For 10 years the union has been sending a bunch of old people who can't work anywhere else," he said. "I feel sorry for them—some I have known for 35 years. But what kind of a show do they make? I'd even prefer to pay them and let them stay home."

The union admitted the problem was complicated. In a letter to the Salmaggi Opera Company, Hyman R. Fain, executive secretary, said he was sure an answer to the problem could be found.

Salmaggi said his troubles were typified by a recent openair concert at which his soprano could not climb the steps to the stage.

"Too old and fat, like 75 per cent of the choristers they sent me," he said. "There are only six or seven steps going up to the stage, but she couldn't make it."

She and her husband directed the choir for 20 years. The funeral will be at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Lupton undertaking establishment, followed by burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

MRS. FRANK ALEXANDER SMITH DIES; FUNERAL TOMORROW

Mrs. Frank Alexander Smith, widow of the retired traffic manager of Armour & Co. in East St. Louis, died of infirmities today at her apartment, 6232 Northwood avenue. She was 80 years old.

Her grandfather was James Carver, one of the settlers of Fort Bellefontaine, which was north of St. Louis. Mrs. Smith, the former Grace Bostick, was a member of the United Daughters of Confederacy and the Daughters of 1812. Her husband died in 1944.

Surviving are two sons, Frank A. Smith Jr. and James E. Smith, and a daughter, Mrs. David W. Woods. Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Ambruster undertaking establishment, 6633 Clayton road, Clayton, followed by cremation at Oak Grove Chapel.

STEPHENS COLLEGE ASSEMBLY TO BE IN NEW FIELD HOUSE

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 23—The opening fall assembly Sept. 13 at Stephens College will be held in the uncompleted field house, President Homer P. Rainey has announced.

The field house is scheduled for final completion by Nov. 1, he said, but the auditorium would be in shape for an assembly.

The 110x250 foot building of reinforced concrete, fronted with stone and brick, has been under construction all summer. It will house the physical education department, offer stage facilities for dramatics, a dance studio, and an auditorium for assemblies.

STATE FAIR OPENS, CROWDS SEE AUTO RACES, HORSE SHOW

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 23 (AP)—A crowd estimated at 66,000 attended yesterday's opening of Missouri's forty-sixth annual State Fair, despite 98-degree temperatures. Grandstand crowds saw auto races in the afternoon and a horse show last night. Judging began in several departments of the exhibits.

The mule show promises to offer some of the toughest competition of all time. There were 1200 mules on the grounds from Missouri, Texas and Illinois, and more were scheduled to arrive.

Braves, Giants and Dodgers Coming Up; Dyer Fears the Bums

By Bob Broeg

'Long about the time the evening sun goes down a week from today, Eddie Dyer and his Cardinals will be wailing an off-key version of the St. Louis Blues or kicking up their heels to a lively "Happy Days Are Here Again." The 10 ball games coming up in seven days can make that much of a difference to the Redbirds' pennant chances.

Idle today, the Cardinals could have spent the day off kicking themselves for letting a big one get away to Pittsburgh, but more likely they were thinking about the three series just ahead in a hot National League race that has 40 games and six weeks to go.

Boston's league-leading Braves, two up on the Redbirds when they took the field today for an afternoon game at Brooklyn, will be in town tomorrow night and Wednesday night. And with a 10-7 edge over the Braves on the season's play, the Cardinals are banking on Harry Brecheen and Howard Pollet to bother Boston again with their lefthanded cunning.

The Pitchers' Headache.

The New York Giants, three and one-half lengths behind the Redbirds, will follow Boston for two games Thursday—one in the afternoon and the other at night—and a floodlight contest Friday and a day-time game Saturday.

The Cardinals have a 9-7 advantage over the Giants, thanks to a recent sweep of a three-game series at the Polo Grounds, but those big bats of Leo Durocher's club could put a pitching staff in a hopeless snarl for the all-important doubleheaders scheduled against Brooklyn next Sunday and a week from today.

"The way the Dodgers have been playing over a long stretch, they look like the team to beat, all right, but," Manager Dyer commented, "this entire stretch just ahead is tough. Boston, New York and Brooklyn all have pennant ambitions, too, and two of 'em are still ahead of us in the standings."

Dusak Stands Alone.

As Red Schoendienst threw harder the last two days, Dyer said he hoped to have the regular second baseman back at his position against Boston after a long absence, but yesterday it was Red's understudy, Erv Dusak, who struck the Cardinals' only telling blow in 4-1 defeat in 10 innings at the hands of Pittsburgh's fourth-place Pirtes. Dusak whacked his sixth home run in the seventh and added a pop double in the ninth.

Marty Marion belted three hits, and Stan Musial two. But even though the Redbirds totaled nine safeties and received the benefit of four bases on balls, their four-game winning streak and a chance to move into second place went out the window with muffed scoring opportunities.

And speaking of muffs, errors proved costly to the Cardinals in contrast to the sparkling defensive play the Pirates threw up around perspiration-soaked Elmer Riddle, particularly in the early innings.

Riddle Still Unsolved.

In the first four frames the Redbirds left eight men on base, but even without the stitch-in-time hit only sterling support saved soreback righthander Riddle from his sixth straight defeat. Eventually, singling to open Pittsburgh's winning uprising in the tenth, Riddle bowed out for a pinch-runner, exhausted. He was credited, however, with his tenth victory against eight defeats.

With two on in the third and only one out, Slaughter struck out and, following a base-filling pass to Northey, Don Lang flied out. And in the fourth with runners on second and third, one away and the Pittsburgh infield pulled in for a play at the plate. Danny Murthaugh scampered back for an over-the-shoulder catch of Dusak's looping fly to short right. Marion then flied out.

Murry Needed a Shutout to Win.

So the Pirates trailed by only 1-0 at a time Stan Rojek opened the eighth with a double, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Kiner's outfield fly. And while Murry Dickson again was pitching good baseball, the little righthander actually was on the way to his thirteenth defeat against 10 victories.

Riddle's single and Stan Rojek's blooper to right put two men on at the top of the tenth. And with a possible force play a third, Babe Young fumbled and drop-kicked pinch-hitter Johnny Hopp's sacrifice bunt, loading the bases. Kiner's fly drove in the run that really was enough to win, though two more came across when Walker singled off reliefer Alpha Brazle and Slaughter committed his second outfield fumble.

Pittsburgh was the better ball club yesterday, but that's the kind of in-and-out season it has been all around the league. And that's why, too, the Cardinals' cash register probably will ring between 175,000 and 200,000 times the next seven hectic days.

Redbird Notes.

Musial, who came through with another good catch just after the Pirates had scored their first run in the eighth, led off the fifth and tenth innings by reaching base, the last time against lefthanded Vic Lombardi. The league's leading run-scorer didn't leave first either time, however.

Del Wilber, catching for the Cardinals, crashed into the grandstand wall so hard while chasing a foul fly midway in the game that by the time his turn at bat came around in the ninth he couldn't bend his sore knees. Schoendienst pinch-batted and went out.

Heckling plate umpire Larry Goetz, Hopp was run off the Pittsburgh bench early in the game. But it's one thing to be put out of the dugout and another to be put out of the game. Hopp was permitted to pinch-hit.

Pollet passed around cigars after learning of the arrival at his Houston home of his fourth child and second son, Christopher Clark, weight 10 pounds 11 ounces. The other little Pollets are Roberta, 5½ years old; Joseph, 3, and Shirley, 2.

A crowd of 18,578, regarded as disappointing, put the Cardinals' home attendance up to 789,052 for 54 games. That's nearly 94,000 behind the same period a year ago—but probably not for long.

Bookies Hold Braves, Dodgers and Cardinals Equal at 11 to 5 Odds

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (UP). BROADWAY bookmakers today accorded the Braves, Dodgers and Cardinals exactly the same chance to win the National League pennant, despite Boston's two-game lead over the two clubs.

Although boss Burt Shotton of the Dodgers still insists that Pittsburgh and the Giants are "very much in the race," the bookies did not agree with him. They quoted 8 to 1 against the Giants, and 10 to 1 against the Pirates.

In the American League, however, Cleveland was favored at even money.

The other quotations were 2 to 1 against the Red Sox, 3 to 1 against the Yankees, and 8 to 1 against the Athletics.

Toledo Mudhens Are Fined $100

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—The Toledo Mudhens were tagged with a $100 fine today for failure to make good train connections from Columbus to Kansas City.

The connections the team finally made, President Frank Lane of the American Association reported, delayed the start of a night doubleheader in Kansas City Aug. 13 by three hours.

Lane denied a claim by Kansas City for forfeiture of the second game of the night, which a 12:50 a.m. curfew law stopped after three innings with Toledo ahead, 7 to 1. The game remains just an incomplete game, he said.

The Kansas City management accused the Mudhens of not only being tardy in getting to town, but also of delaying the start still further by holding a players' meeting in the clubhouse. This, the Blues contended, further jeopardized chances of possibly completing two legal games before curfew time.

However, Lane said his investigation showed no "dilatory tactics" after the Mudhens reached Kansas City and no evidence of the reported "players' meeting."

The late train the Mudhens took to Kansas City, Lane continued, was an hour and a half behind schedule getting there, adding to the difficulties. On top of this, he said, Kansas City Manager Dick Bartell kicked five minutes more around by announcing the wrong pitcher for the first game.

Frisco Eleven Wins.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 (AP)—San Francisco's '49ers of the All-America professional football conference inaugurated the 1948 season here in auspicious fashion yesterday by defeating the Baltimore Colts in an exhibition game, 42-14.

Columbus Ties Association Mark With Eight Home Runs in Game; Seven Out of Nine for Garagiola

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 23 (AP)—It was explosion day in the American Association yesterday as 20 home runs, including a record-matching eight by Columbus in one game, and 171 hits were blasted in a set of four double-headers.

Despite a few respectable scores, like runner-up Milwaukee's sweep over first-place Indianapolis, 5-2 and 5-3, which snapped the Tribe's 14-game winning streak, some 104 runs clattered over the plate in the afternoon's eight contests.

The Columbus Redbirds got their eight circuit smashes—tying the league single-game mark set by Minneapolis on July 4, 1940—in a zany 20-7 opening win over Minneapolis.

Then Columbus got two more homers in winning the nightcap, 10-0, rounding out a 34-hit machine-gunning of vulnerable Nicollet Park by the Redbirds for the day.

The Redbirds collected 22 hits and the Millers 15, including one homer, in the wild opener.

It was a big day for Joe Garagiola, former Cardinal catcher now with Columbus. For the day he had seven hits in nine attempts. In the opener it was four out of six, including two home runs and a double. He drove in six runs. His three hits in three attempts in the second game for all singles. He scored three runs in the opener and two in the nightcap.

In the Columbus home run parade, league-leading Mike Natisin, slammed a pair in the opener for a season bag of 29. Redbird Bill Howerton hit a homer in each game, giving him five for the series and 20 for the season.

The next most turbulent brace was at Kansas City where Louisville split with the Blues, 5-12 and 12-9. Although only three homers were recorded in that set, there was a total of 52 hits—29 by the Blues and 23 by the Colonels.

Toledo spanked St. Paul, 11-1, bashing two homers in the opener, but the finale settled down to a neat 2-1 triumph by the host Saints. In the first game, Toledo's Al Gerheauser held the Saints to three hits.

Milwaukee's double win over the Tribe left the Brewers 11 games behind the pace-setting Indians in the flag race. The Brews got all of their runs in the 5-2 opening decision on homers by Damon Phillips and Al Roberge. Two more Milwaukee homers were boomed in the nightcap, Nanny Fernandez's two-run circuit hoist helping Al Epperly to his 5-3 verdict.

Sleeper Plays Are Banned by Valley Coaches

Missouri Valley Conference football coaches held a clinic here yesterday in collaboration with the Midwestern Intercollegiate Officials Association.

Among other things, the coaches agreed to a closer adherence to the rule against "sleeper" plays. It also was agreed that quarterbacks would not give a play a jack rabbit start after a substitution, thereby embarrassing the opposition with a charge of 12 men on the field.

Another agreement provided that on the road Valley teams will wear white jerseys.

In collaboration with the officials, it became Valley policy that the field judge will time the 25-second rule, applying to getting play under way. That official also will be supplied with a whistle. The field judge also will fire the gun at the end of a quarter, a duty heretofer belonging to the clocker.

The session included a full discussion of rules by officials and talks on various phases of the game. At its conclusion, the officials were given a written examination. Grades were not made public.

Two Firsts for Ault in Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 23 (UP)—Harrison Dillard, ex-G.I. from Baldwin-Wallace, Herb Barten of Michigan and Dick Ault of St. Louis and the University of Missouri led the barnstorming American Olympic track and field squad to a one-sided triumph today over the United States occupation army's best athletes.

Dillard won the 100-meter hurdles and edged out his fellow Olympic teammate, Barney Ewell of Lancaster, Pa., in the 100-meter dash as the Olympic competitors swept all 10 events. Dillard won the hurdles race in 14.2 and the dash in 10.4.

Barten won the 800 and 1500-meter runs, while Ault also scored a double, taking the 400-meter dash and hurdle races.

The Army men failed to press the invaders, who turned in mediocre performances. The lone exception was pole vaulter Dick (Boo) Morcum of Durham, N.H., who, jumping without competition, cleared 14 feet, 2 inches.

Little Joe Lilly, Dillard's Cleveland (O.) neighbor, was the top Army performer. He finished a close third in both dash events and nearly held his own with the zippy Dillard on the anchor leg of the 400-meter relay.

Army competition was so weak in the javelin and weight events that javelin man Steve Seymour and hammer thrower Sam Felton merely put on exhibitions. Discus thrower Fortune Gordien and high jumper Vern McGrew didn't even work up a sweat in outdistancing their G.I. competitors.

Rock Springs Captures Pro-Ladies Golf Meet

Rock Springs Country Club of Alton won the playoff for the pro-ladies team championship sponsored today at Westborough by the Eastern Missouri P.G.A., scoring a best ball of 59 to 65 for the defeated Glen Echo foursome. The teams had tied in the tournament held several weeks ago.

Lou Miller was the Rock Springs pro playing with Mrs. N. K. McBrien, Mrs. H. G. Wickenhauser and Mrs. J. J. Sharkey. Professional Don Clarkson of Glen Echo had as teammates Mrs. Frank Capera, Mrs. Frank J. Bush and Mrs. W. J. Engel.

Amateur Team Sets New Mark In Shoot Event

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—A new world record went into the books yesterday as a huge field of scattergun artists wound up preliminary events in the forty-ninth Grand American Trapshoot.

Firing in the final half of a 200-target 16-yard race, an all-amateur squad broke 499 of 500 clays, first time in the history of the sport that a Simon-pure quintet has turned the one-miss trick.

Twice before, a squad has broken 499 of 500, but each time a professional was in the ranks. The record-breaking squad, with the scores: O. E. Inloes, Hamilton, O., 95-99—194; R. B. Crabill, Sturgis, Mich., 100-100—200; Julius E. Petty, Stuttgart, Ark., 100-100—200; E. M. Wenz, Louisville, Ky., 99-100—199; Vic Reinders, Waukesha, Wis., 99-100—199.

As the big field—524 fired in yesterday's windup of the practice rounds—headed into today's opening championship events, indications are that the entry list will be one of the largest in history. More than 2000 faced the traps a year ago.

In the three days of practice firing a total of 223,950 targets were thrown and the same number of 12-gauge shells fired.

Of the 524 who blazed through the day's 200 targets, 17 shooters broke the first 100 without a miss, 17 broke the second 100, and four tacked the two centuries together for a perfect score.

In addition to Petty and Crabill of the world record squad, those with perfect marks were Ralph Smith of Vandalia and professional Cliff Doughman of Brookville, O.

Ten other scattergun artists missed only once in the 200-clay race and seven muffed only two targets.

Kansas City Midgets Defeat Khourys, 12-0

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Aug. 23—Rogers Fister, 14-year-old righthander, who used to live in St. Louis, made himself right at home by hurling a one-hitter as the Kansas City All-Star Midgets walloped the George Khoury Association Midgets, 12 to 0, in the first game of a tripleheader here today.

A third-inning single by Catcher Bovori of St. Louis prevented Fister from getting his no-hitter. Fister's ftaher, Peter Fister, is a former St. Louis Muny star.

The first-game victory enabled Kansas City to gain some revenge for the two defeats handed them by the Khoury teams at the Blues' park last year. The other 1947 game was a tie.

The other two games today pitted the juniors and intermediate squads of the two cities. Attendance was more than 1000.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 23.—As the St. Louis Browns headed for their last eastern tour of the season, the chance of a sixth place finish had been materially strengthened by weekend developments in Detroit.

The Browns took two of three games from the Tigers and their one defeat may be stricken from the record by order of William Harridge, president of the American League.

"I have mailed a formal protest of Saturday's game to Mr. Harridge," said Zach Taylor. "I think I have a good argument."

The St. Louis manager referred to a play in which a newspaper photographer handled the ball when the Browns were trying to prevent Johnny Lipon from scoring on a wild pitch. The run was allowed and since Detroit's winning margin was only 6-to-5, Taylor gained a point in his insistance that the interference was a vital factor in the outcome.

Sunday's game was of a different pattern. The Browns hammered five Detroit pitchers for 15 hits, totaling 22 bases, to win 10 to 1, behind the three hit pitching of Fred Sanford.

The St. Louis right-hander, moving to his ninth victory of the season, was deprived of a shutout in the eighth inning when Eddie Lake walked, sprinted to third on George Vico's single and scored on George Kell's fly to Don Lund.

Until two were out in the sixth, the Tigers did not make a hit off Sanford. The spell was broken by Pat Mullin's single to right. Sanford quickly regained the effectiveness that has become customary in his dealings with the Tigers. He beat them for the third time this season.

While Detroit was more or less helpless before Sanford, the Browns enjoyed one of their biggest days at bat. In repetition of a performance in St. Louis 10 days ago, they drove Harold Newhouser from the box. The lefthander made his exit in the sixth inning when the Browns scored six runs.

Whitey Platt's second double of the afternoon was the blow that convinced Steve O'Neill that Newhouser must have help. A parade of relief pitchers followed — Bill Pierce, Stubby Overmire, Hal White and Al Benton. Only Benton succeeded in curbing the Browns.

St. Louis attack was led by Gerry Priddy, who connected for his fourth home run of the season, plus a double and two singles. Roy Partee was the only member of the St. Louis cast who did not make at least one hit.

Open in Washington.

The Browns left Sunday night for Elmira, N. Y., where they play their farm club of the Eastern League in an exhibition game tonight. From Elmira the team goes to Washington where Bill Kennedy will pitch Tuesday night in the first of a three-game series.

Fellhauer's One-Hitter Wins for St. Stephen

Dick Fellhauer hurled one-hit 18-strikeout ball for the eight-inning game, but his St. Stephen mates needed a squeeze bunt by Dick Hampel that scored Don Hopson to beat St. Philip Neri, 2-1 yesterday. The victory opened St. Stephen's title defense in the C.Y.C. juvenile playoffs.

St. Phillip's intermediate champions started off right by downing Holy Family, 6-1. In an intermediate league playoff St. Aloysius defeated Prep Seminary, 3-2 for the title.

In senior play Ed Rudd of St. Margaret yielded two hits in beating St. Ferdinand, 7-0. Junior Saunders' triple scored the winning run as Seven Holy Founder juveniles defeated St. Margaret, 4-3.

To Win at Soccer U.S. Must Change Method, Says Giesler

Until such time as the United States can adequately prepare and train its team it has no chance of success in Olympic soccer competition, said Walter Giesler, coach of the United States team, upon his return to St. Louis from London.

"Look at the handicaps we are under," he said. "A dozen other countries which have great soccer teams give from four to six weeks intensive practice to their Olympic selection. We, with less brilliant material to start with, slap our squad together, load onto the boat and reach the scene of the Olympics hoping to win. It doesn't work out that way."

As soccer followers painfully recall, the United States team lost in the first round to Italy, 9 to 0, Sweden was the eventual winner.

Giesler returned home yesterday with the five St. Louis players who won places on the squad. They are Ray Beckman, Charley Colombo, Gino Pariani, Bob Annis and Bill Bertani.

"In almost all other countries so-called 'broken time' cash payments are permitted so that Olympic trainees can afford to be away from work while practicing. We don't allow that over here," added Giesler. "That makes it difficult to compete on an equal basis."

He said he expects this country to make a much better showing in the North American games at Mexico City next year and in the World championship tournament at Rio de Janeiro in 1950. Both are 'open' tournaments in which professionals can compete.

Giesler said the American soccer squad was warmly received in Oslo, Norway, and Belfast, Ireland, where it played exhibition games.

Stephens and Doerr Star for Sox

Sparked by the brilliant allround play of this pair, the Red Sox today were in second place in the American League standings, only half a game behind the pace-setting Cleveland Indians.

Stephens and Doerr accounted for three of Boston's four runs yesterday as the Sox whipped the Washington Senators, 4-1. It was Boston's fourth straight over the Senators and the tenth victory in their last 12 games.

It proved a profitable day for the Sox as the Indians dropped a doubleheader to the cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox, 8-1 and 4-3, to lose a game and a half to Boston.

The red hot New York Yankees also gained ground, whipping the Philadelphia Athletics, 10-0 to climb within two games of the Indians. The Mackmen, now in fourth place, are three games off the pace.

Doerr was the big gun of the Red Sox's victory yesterday. He hammered his twenty-third home run with Stephens aboard in the third inning off Forrest Thompson to put the Sox ahead, 2-0. Doerr walked in the eighth and tallied one of Boston's two runs in that inning.

The Yankees made it three in a row over the Athletics as Vic Raschi, an old Philadelphia nemesis, pitched a four-hit shutout for his seventeenth victory against five defeats. Raschi helped his own cause with a bases-loaded double and a single to drive in three runs. Charley Keller also batted in three mates as the Yankees collected 12 hits off three Philadelphia hurlers. The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was postponed by rain.

The White Sox not only whipped the Indians twice, but knocked out Bobby Feller in the sixth inning of the first game. The Chisox added insult to injury when Pat Seerey, who was discarded by the Tribe, poled a two-run homer to sink the Indians in the second game.

The Boston Braves moved two games ahead of the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers, coming from behind to win, 4-3, on rookie Clint Conatser's eighth-inning home run with one on. The Dodgers had forged ahead in the last of the fifth with two runs including Jackie Robinson's fourth steal of home this season.

The New York Giants moved into a virtual fourth-place tie with Pittsburgh by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies twice at the Polo Grounds, 9-4 and 3-0. The second game was called in the Giants' half of the fifth because of rain. Sheldon Jones went the distance for the Giants in the opener, allowing six hits for this thirteenth triumph.

Johnny Schmitz earned his fourteenth triumph as the Chicago Cubs trounced the Cincinnati Reds, 10-3, to move within a game and a half behind the seventh-place Redlegs. The Cubs got 12 hits off three Red pitchers including Bill Nicholson's sixteenth home run. Hank Sauer banged his twenty-eighth for the Reds.

Kasden Puts Stockhams in Regional Final by Beating Mason City, 8-1

MASON CITY, Ia., Aug. 23 — Charley Kasden, 15-year-old southpaw, pitched the St. Louis Stockhams into the Legion junior baseball final last night by stopping the host Mason City club on four hits, all singles, to score an 8-1 victory.

Topeka will play Mason City tonight for the right to meet the Stockhams in the final tomorrow afternoon. If a seventh game is necessary in the double-elimination meet, it will be played tomorrow night.

Kasden issued a walk, hit a batter and gave up a clean single to Ray Holder in the first inning for a Mason City run. He was touched for two singles in the third and one in the eighth as he pitched steady ball to blank the Iowa champions the rest of the way.

Stockhams Get 14 Hits.

Bill Postma, Mason City right-hander, was reached for 14 singles in the game, but until the late stages matched Kasden for effectiveness. A walk and two singles after two were out and none on base in the third frame gave St. Louis a 2-1 lead. Exactly the same setup produced another St. Louis marker in the fifth.

But Mason City's defense fell apart in the late innings, and so did the pitching of Postma.

Pete Moelling and Catcher Lou Prince each got three safe blows but it was the fielding of the St. Louis club which stood out. Brilliant plays, both infield and outfield, choked off almost certain hits by the losers. Stockham played errorless ball in the game and has been charged with only one miscue in the tournament.

Mason City was charged with six errors in the game and each error figured in the Stockham scoring.

The defeat was the seventh for Mason City this season and marked the twenty-first triumph in 23 games for the red-hot St. Louisans, playing here for the second successive year. The overflow crowd totaled nearly 5000 fans.

Protest on Bat.

A protest was lodged over the use of an illegal bat by the Stockhams. The bat was taken out of the game by the umpires and Mason City withdrew a protest of the game on the condition that the bat be sent to National Junior Legion headquarters as evidence.

In the other game yesterday, Frank Logan, Topeka hurler who beat the Stockhams twice last year and struck out 16 batters in losing to the St. Louisans Saturday night, twice came in to retire Altus, Okla., with three on and one out, to save an 8-3 triumph for his mates.

Belleville Drubs Fort Wayne.

Belleville trounced Fort Wayne, Ind., 15 to 4, and Cincinnati defeated Kalamazoo, Mich., 9 to 6.

Bob Kaiser of Belleville was the star in his team's victory. He got four singles in six trips to the plate and drove in four runs.

Cincinnati came from behind with a six-run rally in the seventh against Kalamazoo.

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 23 (AP)—Albuquerque, N. M., defeated Casper, Wyo., 5-1 in the American Legion 4-state regional junior baseball tournament last night to win a spot in the winner's bracket.

Albuquerque will meet Omaha Metz tonight. Denver 40 and 8, which lost to Metz, 12-8, in the first game of the tournament, will meet Casper in the loser's bracket.

Van Blerck Is Winner In Speedboat Regatta

RED BANK, N.J., Aug. 23 (AP)—Joe Van Blerck of Freeport, N.Y., took down the big prize with his little boat in the National Sweepstakes Regatta because the big boats couldn't keep going.

Van Blerck, in his Aljo V, was the only entry to finish both heats of the national sweepstakes which ended yseterday on the North Shrewsbury river. His boat had a 180 horsepower engine.

Lombardo started late in Saturday's heat and didn't enter yesterday. Instead he drove Lynn's Lahala which won the heat. However, the Lahala couldn't finish Saturday's heat because of a broken fuel line.

To add to its troubles, the Lahala was beached in the Gold Cup race when it struck an obstruction.

The gold cup went to Sid Street Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., with his 225-cubic inch hydroplane Z-Z-Zip. Lombardo had trouble in this race, too, when he couldn't get his Tempo VI underway. He finally started, but late.

The Lahala did win one event—the Judge Emil Auerbach trophy. Lombardo was second—he didn't race in one of the three heats—and Robert A. Bogie of Saranac Lake, N.Y., was third.

Stags Out of Playoffs.

The Belleville Stags passed up an opportunity of gaining a fourth place tie in the Illinois State League by losing to the first place West Frankfort club, 11-5, in the final game last night at the Stag Field. The Stags finished in fifth place. Playoffs start tonight with West Frankfort meeting Marion and Mount Vernon opposing Mattoon.

Guariglia Shoots 74, Higgins 76, in First Caddy Qualifying Round

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 23—St. Louis's two representatives in the third National Caddie golf championships were well to the fore after the first 18 of the 36-hole qualifying round over the Ohio State University course here this morning.

Don Cuariglia, runnerup in the St. Louis district tournament, was in second place among the early finishers with a 37-37—74, two over par for the course. Jack Higgins, the St. Louis champion, was two over on each nine and scored 38-38—76.

A putt which hung on the lip of the cup on No. 18 kept Guariglia from going into a tie for first place with George Frankenfeld, 15-year-old player from Dayton, O., who had 36-37—73 for the first 18.

In fourth place among the early finishers was another Dayton entrant, Robert Benning, who shot 40-37—77.

In the 1947 qualifying trials, Bill Cox tied for twenty-second place among the 64 with 82-79—161, while Ron Guariglia fell into a twenty-seventh-place tie with 81-81—162. In that tournament there was a 22-stroke spread from the medalists' score of 151 and the last sure qualifying score of 173.

This year Higgins, at the age of 17, and Don Guariglia, only 15, owning a rapidly accumulating fund of tournament experience, both seem to fall into the more capable group of national caddie contestants.

From what little information there is available on the field as a whole, it appears Guariglia and Higgins should manage to keep pace with the more select group of players, although undoubtedly they will, if they go far, meet still competition in later rounds.

"The winner should come out of the few who have played this tournament before," said Bob Kepler, Ohio State University golf coach who is the professional at the O.S.U. golf course, where the tournament is being held.

The contenders include Tony Ondrus of Akron, O., who tied for the national medal in the first two tournaments; Darrel Reed of Madeira, O., who last year was another shareholder of the frequent medal ties; and Roy Wythers, Lincoln, Nebr., and Hugh Quinn, Hamilton, O., who were 1947 quarter-finalists.

Proximity of the event attracts a great number of Ohio caddies and among them are several who played the Ohio State U. course in this season's State Prep title tournament. Ondrus won that event in bad weather with 77-79—156.

Fourteen States Represented.

Fourteen states are represented in the tournament. Ohio had 36 registered entrants, New York, 15; Indiana, eight; Illinois, six; Texas, four; Missouri, three, and the others were scattered among West Virginia, Michigan, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado.

Executive Director E. Hugh Davis of the Columbus group, originating the tournament, said that promotion efforts to widen the nation-wide scope of the event will be increased in future years.

Because of the excellent facilities of the university course and clubhouse, the event has remained here thus far. One natural result has been that Ohio has placed three out of the four boys in the past two final matches. George Allmon of Kansas City broke the Buckeye grip last year by winning the title. Champions are not eligible, however, to attempt a repeat.

Hill Ace for Hill A. C. Loses in 16 Innings to Pelligreens; Fouke Nine Advances; Shamrocks Upset

The Kelly Shamrocks didn't have their luck charms with them yesterday as they were the only favorites to drop from the Muny senior baseball tourney. But two other seeded clubs, the Pelligreens and Foukes, had their biggest scares.

A triple by Stan Drezek, two intentional passes off Hap Currier and Mike Doby's squeeze bunt gave the Trojans the tenth-inning run that beat the Shamrocks, 5-4.

The day's hurling hero was a loser, Matt Mugavero, who tired in the sixteenth inning for the Hill A.C., yielding three runs to the Pelligreens who then jumped on relief man Paul Oliver for five more and a 12-4 victory. Home runs by the Rooneys, Jack and Bob, gave the Pelligreens a 2-2 tie for nine innings. Both clubs scored twice in the fifteenth.

Ahead, 8 to 1, after four innings, Fouke Furs, champions two years ago, trailed, 9-8, two innings later, before putting on a two-run rally that brought a 10-9 victory over Missouri Pacific.

In other second-round games, Carondelet Sunday Morning Club eliminated Records Administration Center, 9-3; the Panthers walloped McDonnells, 14-3; St. Xavier beat the Fleet Flyers, 12-4; McMahons won from Carondelet of the DeMolay League, 13-9, scoring 10 times in the seventh.

Monsanto, last year's runner-up, needed a two-run rally in the eighth to gain a 3-2 victory over Carter Carburetor behind Lefty Les Mitkos.

Next weekend's quarter-finals: Foukes vs. Panthers, Carondelet Sunday Morning Club vs. McMahons, Xavier Boys vs. Pelligreens, Monsanto vs. Trojans.

The Hoffmeisters, 7-3 victors over Schweiss, and the Windsors, 10-3 winners over the Aces, begin their best-of-three series for the intermediate title next Sunday. The Hoffmeisters had three homers—by Ral Hilgert, Bill Linton and Norm Faveer. The Windsors had four 4-baggers, hit by Charles DuBois, Ralph Sheets, George Hunt and Don Herdt.

SHORT WAVES

With TOMMY MONT tossing three touchdown passes and scoring another, the East squad defeated the West, 33-24, in the Washington Redskins' annual intra-squad game at Long Beach, Calif. . . . Mont completed 15 of 32 pass attempts for 241 yards. . . . For the West, Sammy Baugh completed five of 10 passes for 164 yards.

ARLINGTON FARMS polo team gained its twelfth victory in 13 starts, defeating the Big Horn Cowboys of Sheridan, Wyo., 12-6. . . . DALLAS, Tex., won the national inter-circuit polo championship with a 11-9 victory over Pittsfield, Mass.

GEORGE STEWART of Panama and DR. HUBERT EATON of Wilmington, N.C., won the 1948 American (Negro) Tennis Association doubles championship with a 7-5, 3-6, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Harold Mitchell and John Chandler. . . . Stewart defeated Mitchell last Saturday for the singles honors. . . . ALAN FORD, a member of the United States Olympic swimming team, says that he plans to retire from amateur competition. . . . He said he would turn pro if the right offer came along.

Haas Fades on Last Two Holes, Hogan Triumphs

DENVER, Aug. 23 (UP) — Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., won the $12,500 Denver Open Golf tournament yesterday, picking up $2150 at the end of 72 holes over the Wellshire course with a 270, 18 under par. Hogan had a card of 66-67-70-67—270 for the tournament.

Second place winner, Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans, staged a last round duel with Hogan that saw the Louisiana professional, a relative newcomer to the circuit, slip in the final round and lose by a single stroke after leading by two at the 54-hole mark.

In the third round, Haas and Hogan played in the same threesome and Haas finished one stroke below the National Open and P.G.A. champion with 69. But in the finals yesterday, Haas played behind Hershey's expert and obviously was bothered by the news reported back over Army radio systems set up on the course.

Haas could have triumphed by either taking a par on the seventeenth or getting a birdie on the final green, and most of the huge gallery following him was hoping he would sink the final six-foot putt which was his last chance. Haas won $1550 for second.

Marcel Cerdan's Plane Forced Back to Paris

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (UP)—A Trans-Atlantic plane carrying middleweight challenger Marcel Cerdan to the United States from Paris was forced back to France tonight after running into "poor flying conditions" at Shannon, Eire.

The announcement came from the office of the Tournament of Champions, Inc., which is promoting a title fight between Cerdan, the French Moroccan, and Champion Tony Zale at Jersey City, N.J., Sept. 21.

Cerdan and his entourage were expected to catch the re-scheduled flight later tonight at Paris and will arrive at New York's new Idlewild Airport tomorrow.

Joy Rice, Richardson Win.

Joy Rice and Allen Richardson defeated Jean Tuholske and Bob Ziervogel, 4-6, 6-3, 9-7, in the final round of the Westwood Country Club's invitational mixed doubles tourney, played last night before a crowd of 200 spectators. The event was conducted by professional Bill Bell.

Australia Moves Into Davis Cup Challenge Round

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 23 (AP)—For the fourth consecutive time since 1939, the Australian Davis Cup tennis forces today were in the challenge round against the as-yet-unnamed United States defending forces.

Little Billy Sidwell, freshman member of the Australian team, moved his forces into the last round of the international play yesterday when he won the fifth and deciding inter-zone finals match from Vladimir Cernik of Czechoslovakia, 7-5, 6-4, 6-2.

They were halted by a mutually agreed upon 5:30 p.m. deadline on Saturday, when Sidwell pulled into a 7-5, three games to one lead. The little Australian had an even easier time with the Czech when they resumed their interrupted match.

Sidwell, also defeated Jaroslav Drobny, the Czech ace, 6-3, 6-2, 9-11, 14-12 in his first singles start. Adrian Quist, the Australian team captain split, defeating Cernik, 6-2, -3-11, 6-0, and bowing to Drobny, 6-8, 3-6, 18-16, 6-3, 7-5.

Drobny and Cernik gave Czechoslovakia the first of its two victories by defeating Colin Long and Geoff Brown, the Australian doubles specialists, 10-8, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, on Friday.

Such experts as Chairman Walter Merrill Hall and Member Walter L. Pate of the United States Davis Cup selections committee, saw every stroke played by the Australians here and they were convinced Quist's current forces were much weaker than the team that lost, 4-1, to the United States last year.

Frick to Be Here For "Slaughter Day"

Ford Frick, president of the National League, has accepted the invitation of the Slaughter Day committee to be present at Sportsman's Park on the night of Aug. 31. The Cardinals' colorful outfielder will be honored on that occasion. The Philadelphia club will be the Cardinals' opponents in a night game.

Win Two-Ball Event.

Mrs. Roy Diedenbach and Ralph Juan shot a combined score of 69 to win the two-ball mixed foursome tourney held yesterday over the Municipal 18-hole course by the Women's Association of the Forest Park Golf Club. Winners in the other flights: Class A—Mrs. Jim Hannagan and Bill Jones, 70; Class B—Mrs. Nell Cooper and O. C. Wheeler, 69; Class C—Ruth Hartman and Harry Nauman, 68.

West Beats East, 9-2, In Tandy All-Star Game

There was safety in numbers for the West nine, chosen from teams in the Tandy Industrial League, in its 9-2 victory over the East squad in a Negro All-Star baseball game at Fairground Park yesterday.

WRAY'S COLUMN

OUR candidate for the "I told you so champion of the year" is Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland baseball club. . . . When the Indians' head showman (just another way of designating Veeck) signed the 44-year-old Negro Satchel Paige in mid-season, he took a major league castigation from many writers. . . . They thought the move just a gesture. . . . The Sporting News suggested that Bill was "going too far in his quest for publicity."

Just now, William is wearing that "I told you so" look because the supposed publicity stooge, Paige, has turned out to be a firecracker.

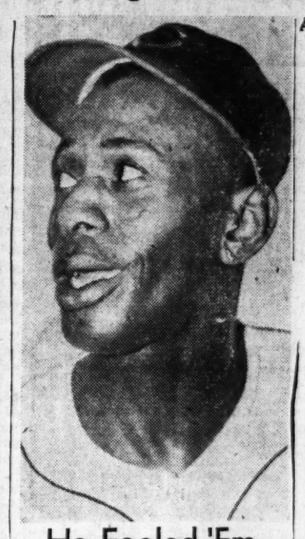
He has a record of 4-1 in the victory column and pitched one shutout game in which he allowed the enemy only three hits. . . . In Cleveland, the writers are now beginning to praise Veeck for uncovering "another starting pitcher," in the Indians' hour of need.

Like the frequently sensational, often abused and twice-fired Larry MacPhail, Veeck may be a showman. . . . But his vaudeville always seems to turn to shining gold.

Paige is doing much more than Feller to draw in the huge attendances by which Feller profits on a bonus arrangement. . . . Feller himself hasn't been so hot.

"I oughtta be working on commission," Paige grinningly told a reporter. . . . He said a mouthful.

After winning his three-hitter, Paige was asked by a reporter how he felt. . . . "Pretty good," Paige replied, "but kinda tuckered. . . . Must be gettin' old. . . . Four, five years ago I'd breeze through that kind."



He Fooled 'Em

SATCHEL PAIGE, 44, recently pitched a three-hitter, thereby seeming to confound critics who wrote that signing him was just a publicity stunt.

All-Stars Easy—But How About the Bears?

That Jimmy! . . . Whenever you want something done, call on J. Conzelman. . . . The job will go over big. . . . This writer has seen it proved through 30 years. . . . He licks every circumstance he tackles. . . . And it wouldn't be a bad idea to bring him to St. Louis to lick some of our unwhipped local difficulties. . . . And we don't limit him to sports. . . . The guy is a go-getter. . . . And that's what we seem to need at Jeff City and at Washington.

For two years the pro football champions couldn't score a point against the All-Stars. . . . Not even the mighty Bears of George Halas. . . . Along came Jimmy and presto! . . . Beat 'em 28-0, a record score.

It will be interesting to see what Jimmy will do with the Chicago Bears during the pro season. . . . The Bears have probably the outstanding collection of stars, new and veteran, that one team ever had. . . . The backfield list could be divided into two backfields—and each still could vie with the best.

CONZELMAN has lost some fine players from his champions of 1947. . . . Marshall Goldberg has gone. . . . And four other men considered almost indispensable. . . . Jimmy writes that his new talent does not make up in brilliancy for the famous players lost.

But Jimmy still has Christman, Trippi, Angsman, Malouf, Dewell, Kutner and the crew that wrecked the Bears last year . . . He will have replacements of high grade to bring his roster up to three elevens in number . . . And he has had that which has always been his final recourse—something under that gray thatch besides mere skull . . . It's the old saying of mind over matter . . . How about this for a theme song: "And he can do it again!"

Back to that All-Star game and Charley Trippi who was quoted as follows: "I thought the four college All-Star teams for which I had played against the pros had a lot of spirit . . . But it was minor in comparison with the spirit the Cardinals showed in winning." . . . The old college try has gone pro, Charley.

Fan Proves (for $500) That Paige Pitched Pro Ball Before 1927

Paige, who admits only that he'll be 40 "pretty soon," had made the offer three weeks ago.

"Folks have said they saw me playin' professional baseball way back in 1920," Satch reported. "There's no truth to such stories and I'm willin' to pay $500 to the first person who can show a clippin' that I was in professional baseball before 1927."

Carl Goerz of Cleveland won the $500. A month ago Goerz was in Memphis, Tenn., visiting his sister, Ellen Curtis, and brother-in-law, Bill. The conversation turned to Satchel Paige, who had recently been signed by the Indians.

"I saw Paige pitch down around these parts way back when," Brother-in-Law told Goerz. When Goerz returned to Cleveland he read Satchel's reward offer and immediately phoned his sister, Ellen.

Ellen did, and in the newspaper files of the public library she found a score dated May 16, 1926, showing a "Satchel" pitching for the Chattanooga Lookouts against the Memphis Red Sox. Ellen had a photostatic copy made and sent it to her brother.

When Satchel saw it he said:

"Only one man can tell the real truth. That's Alex Herman, the man who signed me with Chattanooga. I'm goin' to ask him to tell me the real truth—even if it hurts."

"It is true beyond all contradiction that I gave Satchel his first chance to play professional baseball. I was the owner of the Chattanooga Black Lookouts of the Southern Association. It was in April 1926 that I carried him to Chattanooga for spring training. He enabled us to win the first half pennant."

After reading Herman's letter, Satchel said:

Goerz plans to send a sizable amount of the reward money to his sister in Memphis. Satch, after handing Goerz a $500 check, said, "Say, how much did that photostat cost you?"

"Two dollars," said Goerz.

St. Charles Coon Hound Wins $700 in Trial

VANDALIA, Mo., Aug. 23—Cry Baby, owned by Charles Wagner of Hughesville, Mo., was the winner of the "line" championship in the Missouri State Coon Hound Field Trials here yesterday. The victory was worth $300 to Wagner, in addition to the trophy and ribbon.

First in the "tree" competition was Happy Jack, owned by Puggy Weickens of St. Charles, Mo., and here the top prize was $700. A total of 122 hounds from 21 states, including the best in the Middle West, was entered.

For 48 years mother and son each thought the other was dead. Then, last June, a chance conversation set up the chain of events which brought them together again.

Saturday night Mrs. Swartzlander stepped off a train from her home in Long Beach, Calif., and ran to embrace her son, a veteran's hospital employe here. She plans to spend two weeks with her son and his wife.

Pershall's parents separated at Concordia, Kan., when he was 3 years old. He was reared by his father. He believed his mother was dead until a patient in the veterans' hospital mentioned a name Pershall recognized as that of a sister of his mother.

He found the sister and when he inquired where his mother was buried he was stunned to learn she was living in Long Beach. The reunion was delayed because Mrs. Swartzlander was so excited when she learned her son was alive she had to be placed under a physician's care for a time.

OFFICERS 'HUNCH' CATCHES YOUTHS DRIVING STOLEN AUTO

Kramer, who lives at 8120 Kingsbury boulevard, Clayton, told Patrolmen Joseph Morgan and Robert Taveggia his machine had been stolen from the same lot a year ago and afterwards recovered in the 3900 block of West Pine boulevard. The officers cruised around the same general neighborhood on a hunch the automobile might be found there again.

The boys, both 15 years old, said they had stolen four other automobiles within the past two weeks. They were held for juvenile authorities. A third youth found with them was released when police learned the other two had picked him up after they stole the automobile.

INQUIRY IN FIRE AT TAVERN

An investigation into the origin of a fire early yesterday which caused damage estimated at $700 to the Counts tavern, 631 North Vandeventer avenue, was being made by police today.

Ernest Counts, owner, told police a five-gallon can, which had apparently contained inflammable liquid, was found near the barbecue pit in the tavern. The can, Counts said, was not part of his equipment.

PRODUCTION RISES TO POSTWAR HIGH IN WESTERN REICH

Iron and Steel Gain in U.S., British Zones—Currency Reform, More Food Are Factors.

BERLIN, Aug. 23 (AP)—Industrial production in the combined British-American zones of Germany scored a 10 per cent gain to reach a new postwar record in July, the American Military Government reported today in its semi-monthly review of occupation affairs.

The report said over-all production now stands at 60 per cent of the 1936 base level, and that all industrial groups showed increases during the month, with all but two setting occupation highs.

The brightest spot was the new postwar record reached by iron and steel production in the Ruhr, which is a cornerstone of German participation in the European Recovery Program.

Pig iron output rose to 401,903 metric tons, a 20 per cent gain over June. Ingot steel production rose 21 per cent, to 457,623 tons, and hot rolled products increased 27 per cent to 321,974 tons.

Ingot Steel Rises.

Ingot steel was 11 per cent above the July target of 400,000 tons and now is coming from the mills at an annual rate of 5.5 million tons. Under the revised level of industry plan adopted a year ago to make western Germany self-sustaining, production of ingot steel is permitted to reach 10.7 million tons annually.

The AMG report credited several factors for these gains, including:

1. Currency reform enacted in June, which, the report said, "brought about greater labor efficiency, decreased absenteeism, and provided a smoother flow of raw materials."

2. A vastly improved food situation, aided by good crops and European Recovery program allotments.

3. Increased imports of raw materials and removal of controls on production, distribution and prices.

The Food Front.

On the food front, the basic ration for August, in Bizonia was boosted from an original 1755 calories daily to 1830. Actually, there are places in the two zones where Germans are getting more than 2000 calories a day, AMG's food and agriculture department said. It has been only a few months since there were hunger strikes because a basic ration of 1550 calories could not be met.

The British, meanwhile, announced that 12,300,000 deutsche marks worth of goods have been exported from Berlin by British planes since the Soviet blockade of the city began two months ago. The deutsche mark is figured unofficially at 30 cents.

This was the first announcement by either Americans or British that they have tried to keep Berlin's trade going by air.

RULES IT'S LEGAL TO SNORE, EVEN IF NEIGHBORS OBJECT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23 (AP)—It's perfectly legal to snore, even if it keeps the neighbors awake. At least this is the ruling of Deputy City Prosecutor Byron Gentry.

The weighty problem was handed him by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson E. Carr, who complained that a neighbor in their apartment house snored so loudly it constituted a disturbance of the peace.

Gentry ruled that the snoring was not willful or malicious and that "the unconscious perpetrator could not possibly exercise any degree of control" over his snores.

The prosecutor declared that a citizen may snore with immunity in his own home "even though he may be in possession of unusual and exceptional natural ability in that particular field."

MISSOURI GUARD ENGINEERS REVIEWED BY GOV. DONNELLY

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo., Aug. 23 (AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri and Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas were among the thousands of persons who visited this post yesterday where 7000 National Guardsmen are undergoing two weeks of training.

Gov. Donnelly drove in from Jefferson City shortly after the departure of Gov. Carlson, who arrived Saturday night.

WOMEN BEATS MAN TO DEATH AFTER HE KILLS HER BROTHER

KEYSVILLE, Va., Aug. 23 (AP) —Crowther Hudson, 70-year-old farmer of the Sunnyside community, was shot to death last night by Walter Green, 31, Negro. The victim's sister, Miss Lelia Hudson, middle-aged former school teacher, seized her brother's shotgun and beat Green on the head until the stock of the gun was broken.

UNIFIED COMMAND FOR TRANS-JORDAN AND IRAQI ARMIES

Israel Repeats Peace Bid to Arabs; Would Agree to Separate Talks With Each State.

AMMAN, Aug. 23 (UP) — High Trans-Jordan and Iraqi officials agreed today on a unified army command in the Palestine war.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 23 (AP)— Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion tendered another peace overture to the Arabs yesterday. Addressing delegates to the Inner Zionist Council, he said:

"We hope the present war will finish soon with a peace conclusion with the Arabs. They need us and we need them."

Ben-Gurion said the Palestine truce is "not yet working against us, but it might one day if it continues indefinitely with immigration restrictions and permanent foreign control imposed upon us."

He expressed confidence of final victory if war is resumed, however.

Separate Talks.

At Tel Aviv, an Israeli Foreign Office spokesman said Israel is prepared to undertake "separate peace talks with each of the Arab countries." A previous Israeli bid for peace talks, transmitted through the United Nations mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, was turned down by the Egyptian Government. A source close to the seven-nation Arab League said the league also had rejected the invitation.

King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan declared at that time, however, that possibilities of peace between the Jews and Arabs should be considered. The Israeli Foreign Office spokesman said that if separate peace talks take place, Trans-Jordan would most likely be the first country on the list.

Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok told the Zionist Council that Israeli policy still is based on the United Nations partition decision. He added, however, that this decision is "no longer capable of being carried out in all details."

He said the Jews reserve the right to suggest several frontier corrections. These, he added, are "not necessarily aimed at a territorial arrangement, but at practical improvements" in the Israeli boundaries.

Shertok said the Arab minority problem should be reconsidered by aiming at a stricter territorial separation between Arabs and Jews "to avoid a repetition of political disturbances." He thinks a solution of the Arab minority question "might be the key to a final, real Arab-Jewish co-operation most urgently desired by Jews."

Protest to Bernadotte.

The Jews, in a protest to Count Bernadotte, said two wounded Israeli soldiers were "killed and their bodies mutilated" while prisoners of Arabs in Jerusalem's International Red Cross zone. A third Israeli prisoner, the Jews declared, "died or was killed."

During a six-hour cease-fire Aug. 20, Shertok said, the bodies of two Jewish soldiers were removed from Government House, on the outskirts of Jerusalem. The former residence of the British high commissioner is in a Red Cross zone.

"Bodies removed from Government House were found beheaded," Shertok declared. He said the third man was buried in the grounds of Government House by the International Red Cross.

"When, after removing the bodies from Government House itself, the medical orderlies proceeded to the removal of bodies from the area around it, fire was opened against them by Arabs from both sides, forcing the orderlies to retreat and leave the dead," Shertok declared.

The Israeli Government said acts of descration against Christian religious property by Jewish soldiers have been "isolated transgressions by irresponsible individuals" who have been punished.

EXPERTS GIVE BABY A 9-TO-1 CHANCE TO SURVIVE SURGERY

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP) — Six medical experts have decided that malformed Pamela Frances Lamphere has a 9-to-1 chance of surviving the prescribed corrective surgery over which her young parents became estranged.

BRITAIN TOPS LIST IN AMOUNT OF AID RECEIVED SO FAR

GENEVA, Aug. 23 (AP)—Britain has received more postwar grants and credits from the rest of the world than any other country, according to United Nations statistics published today.

The figures showed that between May 1945, June 1948, government and private financial aid to Britain totaled an equivalent of $6,670,000,000. But in the same period, Britain aided other war-devastated countries with government and private aid totaling an equivalent of $2,450,000,000.

France received the second highest allocation of all countries, with a total of $3,957,000,000. The next largest recipients were the British-American zone of Germany, with $1,876,000,000; Italy with $1,859,000,000; Poland, with $1,150,000,000, and The Netherlands, with $1,054,000,000.

The figures included all aid given by governmental and intergovernmental agencies and private corporations. They excluded expenditures of certain relief agencies such as the International Children's Emergency Fund and the International Refugee Organization.

Also excluded were direct private investments and gifts, short-term credits and the repayment of existing loans. Expenditures of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration were shown only by receiving countries. Totals of government loans did not include contributions to UNRRA.

U. S. Led in Giving Help.

The figures showed that private and governmental aid from the United States, totaling $16,160,000,000, comprised nearly 70 per cent of all financial assistance throughout the world. Britain's contribution was the second largest, followed by Canada, with $1,894,000,000; Argentina, with $681,000,000; Sweden, with $521,000,000; and the Soviet Union with $478,000,000. The Soviet contribution consisted entirely of a government loan to Poland.

Of Britain's contribution to world recovery, an equivalent of $2,300,000,000 was in the form of loans by private corporations.

The highest British contribution went to Germany, which received $952,000,000. In addition, the British-American zone probably received a large share of a British contribution of $403,000,000 described as "relief supplies furnished by the authority and not allocable by country."

From Britain, France received $465,000,000, Italy $260,000,000 and Burma $122,000,000. British aid in substantial amounts also went to to Austria, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Hungary, the Netherlands and Poland. The Soviet Union received direct British aid totaling $16,000,000.

The figures included the first monthly allocations under the European Recovery Program, but they did not give an adequate picture of United States financial assistance to the rest of the world, as contributions to UNRRA and such items as purchases of bonds of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and subscriptions to the International Monetary Fund were not included.

A contribution by UNRRA of $3,662,000,000 was a prominent item whose source was not analyzed. It came largely from the United States. Individual American contributions went to countries in all five continents. The largest single American item was the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain.

Soviet Loan to Poland.

Poland's list was headed by an UNRRA grant of $479,000,000 and the loan from the Soviet Union of $478,000,000. Poland also received grants and loans from Denmark, Sweden, Britain and the United States.

The Soviet Union received a total of $785,000,000, headed by a government loan of $275,000,000 from Sweden and lend-lease credits from the United States of $242,000,000.

Receipts of $487,000,000 by Canada were made up of an Export-Import Bank loan of $300,000,000 and private credits from the United States totaling $187,000,000.

The Latin-American republics received financial assistance from the United States totaling $302,000,000, mostly in the form of Export-Import Bank loans.

AUSTRALIA TO SEND CREWS TO JOIN IN BERLIN AIRLIFT

CANBERRA, Aug. 23 (UP)—Australia will send 10 complete Dakota crews to Britain to aid the Berlin airlift, Prime Minister Joseph Chifley announced today. The 40 men and their commander will leave within a week.

The Prime Minister disclosed that Australia has shipped weapons and ammunition to Malaya, where British authorities are fighting a Communist uprising. He said that at the request of the British he could not announce a list of the equipment.

Chifley also announced that Australia soon will send shipments of wheat, cheese and butter to aid Arab and Jewish refugees in Palestine. The shipments were requested by Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator.

LEASE OF U.S. BLAST FURNACE TO KAISER CORP. UNDER STUDY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Senate Small Business Committee is going to look into the lease of a Government-owned blast furnace in Cleveland to Kaiser-Frazer Corp. A public hearing will be held Wednesday.

Telegrams and telephone calls have been received from chambers of commerce, trade associations and individual foundries who fear a cut-off of pig iron supplies as a result of the transfer of the plant to Kaiser-Frazer, the committee said.

The war-built Cleveland plant has been operated by Republic Steel Corp. Kaiser-Frazer is due to take over Sept. 1 under an agreement with the War Assets Administration.

SEALED PROPOSALS

SEALED PROPOSALS for furnishing bituminous coal for the School of Mines and Metallurgy (a division of the University of Missouri) at Rolla, Missouri, for the period beginning November 1, 1948, and ending October 31, 1949 will be received in the Office of the Business Manager, School of Mines and Metallurgy, Rolla, Missouri, until 10 a.m. September 1, 1948, and will be publicly opened and read at that time.

All bids must be made upon the printed forms attached to and made a part of the proposed contract documents. The proposed contract documents, including instruction to bidders and specifications pursuant to which the coal is to be furnished, are on file at the office of the Business Manager, School of Mines and Metallurgy, Rolla, Missouri, where said documents may be obtained.

By virtue of statutory authority, a preference will be given to materials, products, supplies, provisions, and all other articles produced, mined, manufactured, made or grown within the State of Missouri.

The Curators of the University of Missouri reserve the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

The Curators of the University of Missouri, Rolla, Missouri.

Date: Aug. 12, 1948.

Sealed proposals for the construction of a DORMITORY BUILDING FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI AT THE SCHOOL OF MINES AND METALLURGY, ROLLA, MO. will be received at the Office of the Business Manager, School of Mines and Metallurgy, Rolla, Mo., until 10 o'clock A.M., Central Standard Time, Sept. 7, 1948, and will be publicly opened and read at that time.

Consideration will be given to proposals which provide for either (1) a fixed price for the work covered by the proposal; (2) a maximum price for the work covered by the proposal with payment to be made to the contractor in an amount equal to the Cost of the Work, as defined in the contract documents, plus a fixed fee, the total not to exceed such maximum price; or (3) a variation of (2) above which provides for the division between the contractor and the owner of the difference, if any, between the cost of the work, plus a fixed fee, and the maximum price, as set forth in the proposal.

The Curators of the University of Missouri reserve the right to take into consideration the skill, ability, experience, size and organization of the bidder, the nature of the work to be performed, the amount of the other work being carried on by the bidder and other similar factors.

All bids shall be made on the printed forms attached to and made a part of the proposed contract documents. The proposed contract documents including plans and specifications, pursuant to which the work must be done, will be on file on the dates hereinafter specified at the Office of the Business Manager, School of Mines and Metallurgy, Rolla, Mo., and at the Office of the Architects, Rathmann, Koelle & Carroll, 316 N. Ninth st., St. Louis (1), Mo., from whom the said documents may be obtained on deposit of the sum of $30. These deposits will be refunded to each actual bidder upon return of documents in good condition within a reasonable time after receipt of bids. In the event no genuine bid or bids are made by the contractor, $15 of the $30 deposit will be refunded, $15 being deducted to cover cost of issuing plans and specifications. All proposals shall be on the basis of cash payment for the work.

All bids shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond satisfactory to the Owner, in an amount equal to five (5%) per cent of the maximum price specified in the proposal.

By virtue of statutory authority, a preference will be given to materials, products, supplies, provisions and other articles produced, manufactured, made or grown within the State of Missouri.

The Curators of the University of Missouri reserve the right to waive informalities in proposals and to reject any or all proposals and, in the event of such rejection, to negotiate for the performance of the work with bidders or nonbidders or both.

But Not Music

Musician Sells Book Of His Operetta

By Clarissa Start

NO librettists need apply to the studio of Edward E. Menges, St. Louis musician, arranger and composer. Menges's search of years to find someone to write a story for his operetta of old St. Louis, "Trapper Call," has ended, not only in his own backyard but in his own front music room.

EDWARD E. MENGES

For the past 15 years, Menges has been working with local and far-off authors trying to get down on paper a story he'd had in mind for some music he had written. Finally in desperation, he wrote his own "book," and took it to New York to author-producer, Russell Janney. The climax of this account, of course, is that Janney bought "Trapper Call" for possible production this winter. The surprise ending is that the operetta will have new music written by Rudolf Friml, but the story to be used will be based on the one written by amoteur author Menges.

"I've heard of some writers' club in California where they won't let you join unless you can paper your room with rejection slips," short, rotund Menges laughed, as he swiveled into place at his piano. "I'm afraid I wouldn't qualify for membership because I've sold my first effort."

MENGES'S ENDEAVOR to write the great St. Louis operetta goes back to 1932 when he decided that a musical play could be written with a historical St. Louis setting. He began writing some music and commissioned a former St. Louisan to write a play based on Mary C. Dillon's novel, "The Rose of Old St. Louis." The story wasn't successful, so Menges again collaborated, this time with a man from Ohio, to produce an operetta with a St. Louis background.

"The producers at the Municipal Opera looked it over and said they thought the music was unusually good but the story was too weak," Menges explained, "so again I gave up.

"HOWEVER, people kept asking me why I didn't do something with the music, so I decided to write a story myself just as a stopgap. I spent a lot of time at the Public Library, doing research on early fur trappers, and evolved a story based on an episode in the life of a trapper scout, named John Coulter. His real life wasn't very colorful, so I made up a story about a French countess who came to St. Louis and went into the fur business in competition with him. The 'Trapper Call' came when he was called to join the Lewis and Clark expedition and had to leave her. Of course, love won out.

"I SUBMITTED the operetta to the American Operetta Contest sponsored by WGN in Chicago and it was one of the four prize winners in the contest. The operetta was given a performance in Jefferson City and some St. Louisans decided to sponsor me on a trip to New York. In New York, once again producers liked the music but didn't like the play.

"Some men I talked to at ASCAP said it would be the hardest thing in the world to get someone to write a libretto. It's very complicated, requires a knowledge of stagecraft and acting, and they said only about 10 people in America could do it. As a last effort I took it to Russell Janney's office with the thought that maybe he knew of someone who could work the story over."

JANNEY KEPT the operetta about a year and meantime Menges became discouraged and started writing an entirely different operetta, also with a St. Louis background. When Janney came to St. Louis last winter to lecture on his "The Miracle of the Bells," Menges told him to forget "Trapper Call" as he had something far better in mind.

But last month when Janney and composer Rudolf Friml arrived in St. Louis to see a performance of "White Eagle," another production on which they'd collaborated, at the Municipal Opera, they looked Menges up to talk over "Trapper Call."

"Janney invited me to luncheon," Menges said, "and after we'd exchanged pleasantries, he told me he and Friml had decided to write one more operetta. He said they wanted to buy 'Trapper Call' with the understanding that the libretto would be used but Friml would write a new score, and I was to share in the royalties.

"Well, the upshot of the luncheon was that Janney, instead of just picking up the luncheon check, wrote a check for an advance and I picked it up."

Suggestions

By Christopher Billopp

IT is good to have friends make suggestions. It may be assumed that they are made with the best intentions in the world. They may discourage you from doing things you will regret later.

But if only their suggestions were not such that they will cost you more money. If only they did not involve your undoing what you have already done and beginning all over again.

If only they did not necessitate your returning something you have bought after a long and tedious search and looking for something in its place that will require another long and tedious search.

IF ONLY they could be carried out without your having to go to somebody to whom you have already given directions and tell him that you no longer want him to do it the way you told him to do it and that you want to do it another way.

If only the suggestions did not make it obvious that your friends consider you are very old-fashioned in your ideas, don't know what is going on around you, and are far from keeping up with the times.

If only they did not embody notions which appeal to your friends but do not appeal to you at all, and did not call upon you to give up habits to which you have been accustomed for years and adopt entirely new habits that are foreign to you.

IN FACT, it would be a good thing to have a heart-to-heart talk with your friends. Explain to them that you welcome their suggestions. But make it clear that you will follow none of them if they involve handing out more cash, making telephone calls and special trips to town, upsetting yourself and other people.

In short, that they must be of such nature that you can adopt them without getting overheated or so much as rising from your comfortable chair.

What Am I Saying!

WHEN an Eskimo mushes his dog team a hundred miles through the snow just to tell his girl he'd gladly die for her, that's certainly a lot of mush. However, it's not really fashionable any more to tell your girl you'd die for her; love these days seems to have become more undying!

REUNITED AFTER 48 YEARS Roscoe V. Pershall, 51 years old, of Lincoln, Nebr., escorts his mother, Mrs. Lulu Pershall Swartzlander, 68, after her arrival by train from Long Beach, Calif., for their first reunion in 48 years. Pershall's parents separated when he was a child of 3 and both mother and son had thought the other was dead. A few weeks ago a chance conversation with a patient at a hospital where he is employed put Pershall in touch with a sister of his mother, paving the way for the reunion.

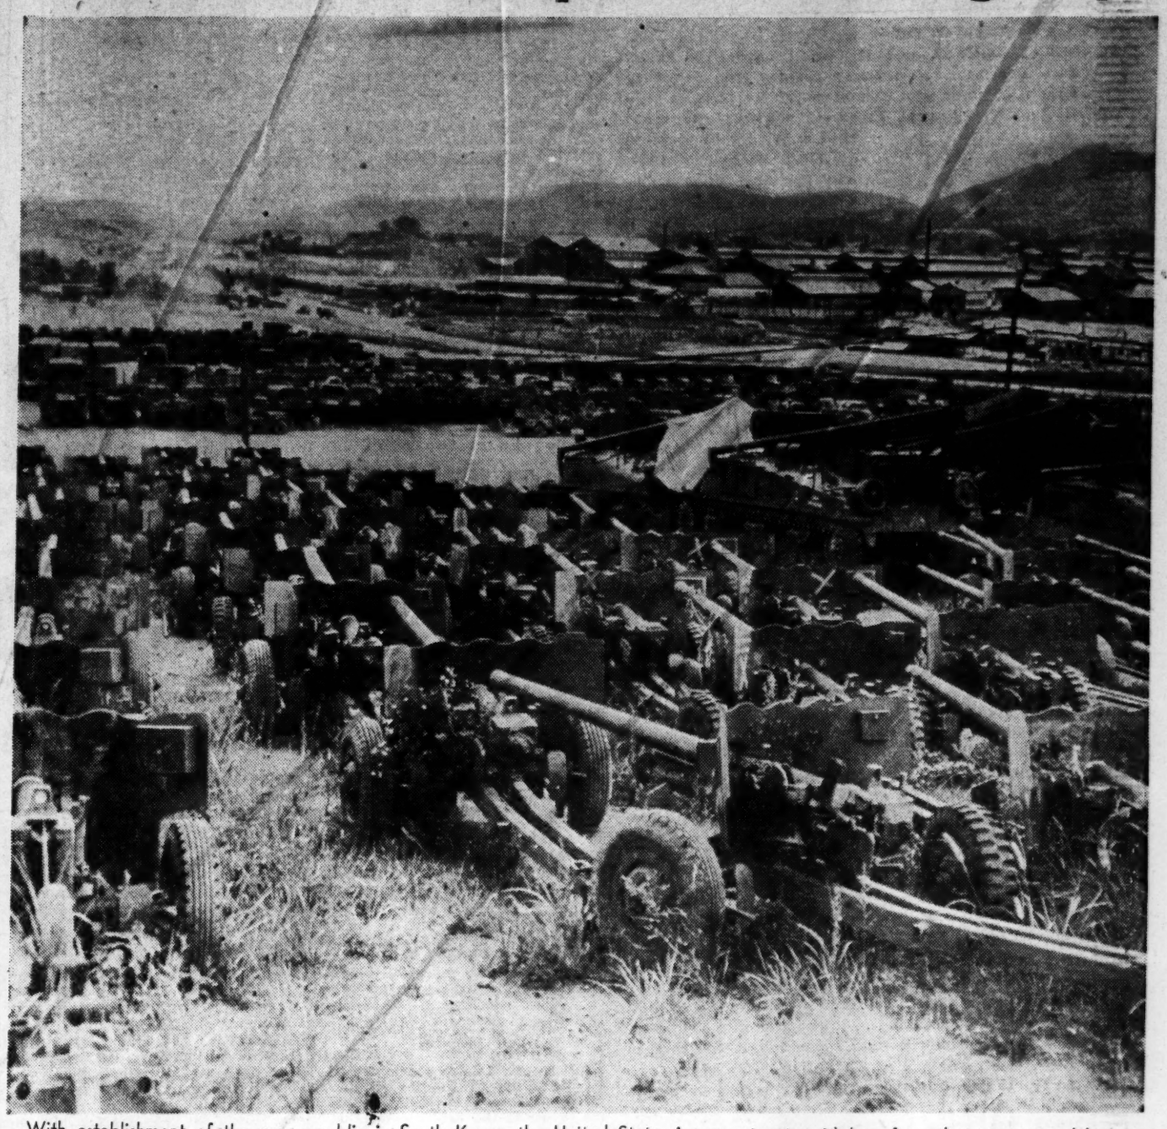
Yanks in Korea Prepare for 'Moving Day'



With establishment of the new republic in South Korea, the United States is preparing to withdraw from that country and huge stocks of guns and other equipment of the occupation forces are piling up at bases near Seoul. This is a gun pile at Inchon, formerly Jinsen. Some of the supplies will be returned to the United States; other shipments will be made to American forces in Japan and on Guam and Okinawa.

MEDICAL JURY DECREES OPERATION FOR CHILD
In a Chicago hospital, 22-month-old Pamela Frances Lamphere (held by her father, Fred), is surrounded by members of a court-appointed jury of medical experts who have decided the child must undergo surgery in the next two months for correction of a deformity which threatens her life. At left is her mother, Irene, who at first opposed the operation on the girl, who was born with her bladder outside her body, but relented when her husband took the issue to court. Others (from left) are: Drs. H. S. Gordon, Herbert Landes, H. Kiefer, Karl Meyer, S. A. Abt and Knowlton Barber and Lucille Gaudroger, a nurse.

Broadway, Elsewhere

By Jack Lait

Don't Say We Told You, But—

CAPRICE CAPRON, ex-Earl Carroll chorine is dating Prince Hohenlohe. . . . Harry Cushing, 4th, forgetting Georgette Windsor with Lila Leeds, of the films, in New York. . . . Edgar Ausnitz, Broadway playboy (who hasn't been a boy for 50 years) is consoling Jacqueline Dalya over the theft of her jewels, which he would gladly replace out of his bulging bankroll. . . . The New York mob is in deep throughout California, setting up "card-clubs," which are legal as such, but faro, craps and wheels sneak in and run raw. Only Los Angeles is keeping gambling practically extinct within its borders. . . . Igor Schwezoff, the ballet star, just back from 18 months in Brazil, reports that interpretative dancing has become more popular down there than bull-fighting. . . . Is there very much difference? . . . The few bull-fights we saw were largely affairs of fast toe work and fancy waving of fluttering capes.

THE FEUD IS REALLY ON between the Democrats and the American Labor party in New York City, with indications that each will drag out its maximum vote. . . . The result foreseen is a sweep of New York City, including Manhattan Island, for Dewey-Warren, by probably 500,000 in the Greater City. . . . Vito Marcantonio, county and State chief of the A.L.P., and mastermind here of the Wallace-Taylor campaign, fighting for his political life, for the first time on the A.L.P. line only, figures to be defeated. . . . Representative Leo Isacson, with the same brand of support, who won the surprise victory in a Bronx by-election this year, isn't conceded a chance to be returned.

NEW YORK, with about one-eighteenth of the national population, buys about one-half of the books sold over United States counters. . . . Authors and publishers get about the same share, dividing some 35 per cent of the gross retail sales returns equally between them. . . . Principal profits of publishers now are the by-products—film rights (about one book in every 1000), and reprints. . . . The latter is the gravy. . . . While an author gets only about 6 per cent royalty on the 25-cent semi-hard-cover editions, they come out in 100,000 lots. . . . James Cain, whose hard-hitting novels never miss the tabloid-sized outputs, draws about $20,000 a year from these alone. . . . Many become perennials. . . . Their being dated doesn't hold them back. . . . One of mine, with a Prohibition gangster plot, never revised, has been selling for 16 years, and had its biggest bulge in 1946. . . . Foreign rights now are virtually valueless, except in England, if published there under a London imprint. . . . Australia is a gold-mine, considering its population, for American crime stories, especially prison yarns. . . . "The Big House," which I wrote about 20 years ago, earned more there than it did in Canada, the British Isles and South Africa combined.

EILEEN O'CONNOR, who has attained high rank as a ballet-dancer, writes to gently chide me as a culture vulture. . . . Her letter is tolerant, intelligent and imbued with a tremendous appreciation of her vocation as an expression of art. . . . This Texas-born beauty (whom I have seen but never met), who now conducts classes in several types of the dance, and who studied under Chalif and Fokine, says: "The moment ballet resorted to earthly themes to appeal to 'lower-class' audiences, it lost its identity and its beauty." One paragraph that struck me as worth passing along is the following:

"THE FAULT lies not in the ballet or the opera, but, rather, in the persons who aim to exploit them for commercial purpose. I agree that your musicians who play together at mutual expense, because they love to execute fine compositions, are sincere artists. But, nevertheless, it is sad that in our present-day civilization there is no sponsorship of such students of the finer things. That they must either prostitute the ability they worked so hard to achieve, by playing in humdrum bands, or else seek a livelihood begging from millionaires (as you expressed it), is pathetic. That they often must, in order to get work at all, adhere to the factory-rulings imposed by a commercial-minded union, picket employers toward whom they bear no malice, or work in company with completely untrained hornblowers, is the fault of our social system, not the fault of the fine music."

TORCH BEARER—Sometimes it seems that burning love is just a cigarette. . . . You light it with a smile—Cupping your heart against a sudden gust. . . . Love brings you pretty smoke-dreams for a while. . Then, like a cigarette, burns to a close. . . . You flick sweet memory's ashes with a sigh, inhaling its faint perfume, like a rose—Wishing the fading bloom could never die. . . . But love and cigarette end like a song. . . . Leaving their mute, gray smoke rings of regret—And never try to hold them overlong—Gay, waning love—or dwindling cigarette—For always, when you fan the flame that lingers. . . . You wake to find that love has burned your fingers!

Meal Built Around Fine Roast Beef

Woman Who's Only Average Cook Can't Go Far Wrong If She Follows Rules

By Hoyt Alden

IN THIS age no one of even average mentality expects to find a good cook in every kitchen. It would be asking the impossible but, at least, every woman who has the apparatus for cookery should know how to manufacture a few passably good dishes. We cite to you a woman who, in reality, only knows how to toss together one first-rate meal yet, by judiciously palming this provender off on a great number of assorted guests, has come up with a reputation as some shakes of a cook.

She knows how to put together a few first-rate appetizers and friend husband makes a decent cocktail. The meal begins with clear turtle soup right out of a can and proceeds from there to a fine roast beef with Yorkshire pudding. The beef is stabbed in various places and slivers of garlic are inserted. It is then put in a rack in a roasting pan and put in a hot oven where it is seared quickly. It is basted frequently with its own juices, no water, and cooked until it is nice and brown on the outside and red on the inside. The heat, of course, is turned down after the searing. No roast beef worth putting on a table was ever cooked until it was done through and through. It is bound to be dry and tasteless. There will be enough well done on the outside to satisfy those hapless chumps if they still exist in any number.

Now for the Yorkshire pudding:

Sift three-fourths cup of flour with a small pinch of salt. Add a half a pint of milk gradually. Beat up two eggs and beat into the mixture with a large wooden spoon. Let it stand for an hour and you are ready for business. From here on out there are two schools of thought. You can put gobs of the batter right into the juice under the cooking roast and let them brown there or fill a shallow baking pan and cook the stuff separately. In case you adopt the latter method, cut the pudding in squares when it is done and pour some of the juice over each serving.

CITED IS THE CASE OF A WOMAN WHO IN REALITY ONLY KNOWS HOW TO TOSS TOGETHER ONE FIRST-RATE MEAL.

With this we have peas cooked French style. For two cups of shelled peas put three tablespoons of butter in a heavy sauce pan. Now soak three or four leaves of lettuce in water, remove, but do not dry and place them in the pan. Place the peas on the damp lettuce and season all with salt, pepper and a big pinch of sugar. Put two more damp leaves of lettuce on top, cover and cook over a very low heat until the peas are nice and tender. No water. There will be plenty of moisture in the lettuce leaves.

For a salad the lady served shredded cabbage, sliced cucumbers and sour cream dressing. This is the only green goods of any distinction that she knows how to make.

Like this:

Shred fine a small head of cabbage. Peel and slice two or three cucumbers. Now make a dressing of some real thick sour cream, say a cupful. Dilute this with a quarter of a cup of vinegar and season with a teaspoon of finely chopped onion, a little salt, pepper and paprika. Mix this well with the shredded cabbage and cucumbers. The success of this number depends on plenty of dressing. Don't be stingy with it.

★ ★ ★

Another amateur chef of some renown was revealed when unmasked to be nothing more than a pork chop man. He had to holler for help from the female contingent when it came to the trimmings but he was, indeed, a master of pork in many forms. A product of the deep South, his passion for pig was terrific. He was in possession of many ancient recipes from his neck of the woods, one of the best of which went like this:

Get six pork chops, an inch thick or better. Put some butter in a heavy pan and fry the chops slowly. As this is going on melt a tablespoon of butter in another pan and fry out a chopped onion along with a hefty teaspoon of brown sugar. When the onions are done add a half a cup of boiling water, a few cloves, a pinch of parsley, a little thyme, salt and pepper and let all simmer. By this time your chops should be done. Remove them to a hot platter and pour off all the grease except a tablespoon full. Stir in a tablespoon of flour. Pour a cup of boiling water into the onion mixture and join the two sauces. Stir well. Put the chops back into the sauce, add a couple of jiggers of dry white wine and cook for a few minutes. Do not boil.

That, friends, along with sweet potatoes and apple sauce, is something to eat.

Women Find It Hard to Tip

WHOEVER invented the saying, "It's the woman who pays," wasn't a waiter or redcap, I bet. A check-up shows that a lot of little girls have one awful time finding change when they see an open palm.

A survey among a cross section of American women shows they are two to one against the whole practice of tipping.

"It's a foreign, un-American custom," says one . . . "I don't tip because I just know the Government can't check up incomes from tipping," says another . . . "In a country where all men are created equal, the practice of tipping is degrading." . . . I feel it's unfair to create a feeling of inferiority in others." . . . It's so inconvenient. The need so often arises when it's most difficult to open a purse."

Yep, that's just what they said. Some of them, you see, are deeply concerned about ruining the other fellow's character. And just think of that poor little babe who can't get her purse open.

Men tip more liberally than girls partly because the stuff comes easier to them—they can earn more and don't have to depend on the other sex for a supply. But the main reason is that the male likes to look like big-time stuff—even to a hat check girl or cab driver he never expects to see again. A woman hasn't got notions like that. Women are shrewder spenders and they carry the instinct with them into the tray-and-luggage department.

The other day in Penn station I was walking behind a woman who was following a porter, who was carrying her bag. He must have had a hole in his pocket because I saw her stoop and pick up a quarter that was rolling on the floor behind him. A moment later she picked up a dime. Then he put the bag down at the gate and she tipped him. I couldn't see how much. It might have been both coins. But I didn't see him faint.

Gin Rummy

By Oswald Jacoby

The Effect of the Up Card on Low Discards

UP to now I have confined my discussion of the initial low discard to that variation of gin in which the dealer gives the twenty-first card to his opponent. When the twenty-first card is faced and becomes the up card the problems center around that card and what is done with it.

If the up card happens to be a low one and both players refuse it the stage is frequently set for the immediate development of a low discard pattern. The first player is very apt to discard some other low card whether his hand is good, fair, or bad. With a good hand, because he does not want to indicate that some high cards may be safe for his opponent to throw; with a band hand, because he feels the low card is likely to be safe; and with a fair hand for a combination of the two reasons.

The second player is likely to follow with a low card of his own for the same reason that prompted the first player. By this time, the low card pattern will be well started and additional low cards will be discarded whenever a player has one to throw.

When the up card is a high one and both players refuse it, it is rare indeed that either player will choose to throw a low card at an early stage. There are so many high cards that fit around it that the first discard will probably be one of them thereupon the next several discards will group around that card and the up card.

If a high up card is refused and one player promptly throws a low card it means one of two things. Either he has a very good hand and is close to out, or else he is just a bad gin player. Now before five hundred readers sit down to illustrate cases where a low card should be thrown under these circumstances by a good gin player with a bad hand I will qualify the last statement with the word nearly always.

To use an extra egg white or two, whip until very stiff and fold into chilled, sweetened applesauce. Sprinkle with a little nutmeg or cinnamon and serve with a topping of marshmallow fluff.

While fresh peaches are in season try baking some of them around a small picnic or "daisy" ham. Choose large peaches, peel, halve and pit, and baste with a brown sugar syrup during the last 20 minutes the ham bakes.

Combine canned luncheon meat with cooked kidney beans and a well-flavored French dressing for a main dish salad; add sliced celery for crunchiness and a tablespoon or two of sweet pickle relish for tangy flavor.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

I RECEIVED the other day a copy of an address delivered this year at the International Bar Association in the Hague by Behan H. Kalenderian on "Social Legislation under Islam." I read it with great interest. Mr. Kalenderian described the Islam religious and legal system and some of the resulting so-called social customs.

Mrs. Roosevelt

Of course, he acknowledges that the religious ideas have been imposed by the sword whenever necessary, but points out that after forced introduction they benefit mankind, because, "Islam immediately accepted the hypothesis that equality is correlary of brotherhood, and equality of men before the law became and is a major premise of Mohammedan religious and legal theory."

★ ★ ★

WHEN ONE READS such high praise and ideals of a religious and legal system, one is tempted to look for results. What are the conditions in countries under Islamic law today?

The structure of society in the areas where these theories are predominant seems to sanction many inequalities and great variation in their social pattern.

Mr. Kalenderian's address states: "This law, through its eventual development, is adaptable to every conceivable exigency. Arabic is unrivalled as a vehicle of ideas." This is excellent if the ideas and ideals lend themselves not only to the theories, but also to practical achievements.

I am intrigued by this statement (which deals with the rights and duties of women in the Mohammedan countries): "A woman under Islamic law occupies a position of pecular privilege." As soon as she is of age, it seems, the law invests in her all the rights of an independent person. She is entitled to share with her brothers in her parents' estate. The proportion may be different, but the disparity is regulated by just appraisal.

THE POWER of the father to impose the status of marriage on his children is recognized. After the age of 15 every contract of marriage entered into on behalf of a youth or girl is dependent upon his expressed consent. Among the Hanafis and the Shiahs, however, the children of both sexes, upon maturity, are free to contract marriage.

As one thinks of the women and children starving along the roadsides, and who must appeal to the world for help in their dire need, one wonders if the leaders are giving much thought to the equality of all individuals and have planned for the good of the little man as well as the man at the top.

Nothing further to report at this time on the threatened secession of Mississippi and Alabama from the Union. Until then, it is no crime to counterfeit Confederate money.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

The "Knick-Knack" and "Getting the Knack of It."

"Knick-Knack" is not an explosive bit of modern American slang, but an expression with a long history in English speech.

Just when or by whom the reduplication, the first half of the term, was added, cannot be established, but the story of the expression is the story of knack.

"Knack" is as ultimately onomatopoeic in origin—that is, a word invented for its sound, to express what its sound would indicate—in this instance a cracking, a sharp, abrupt noise. It is related to the German "knacken," to break, the Danish "knage," to crack or crash, and the English knock. In Provincial English it once meant to speak affectedly—another allusion to the "cracking" sound.

The earliest significance with which "knack" has recorded literary usage is that of some petty contrivance, whence came its meaning of a toy or plaything, now perpetuated in "knick-knack." Thus Shakespeare referred to: "A knack, a toy, a trick, a baby's cap."

And out of the sense of a contrivance, and then, a trick, came the connotation of skill in performing a trick, adroitness—and our "slang" phrase "having a knack for something," or "getting the knack of it!"

Billy Rose believes the Met Opera could pay its way with some streamlining of personnel. Like having the Wagnerian basso double for the bull in "Carmen."

How to Treat Composition Flooring.

AS a general rule, people are kind to dumb animals, rich relatives and children. On the other hand there is a slight tendency these days not to be so kind to our fellow man, linoleum and some of the other kinds of flooring found in the average home.

Linoleum, rubber tile, asphalt tile and other similar kinds of flooring will give many years of bright and excellent service if they are given half a break. The first break is not to flood them with water.

The water will get down between the seams and soften up the cement that holds the flooring to the sub-floor. If you must wash one of these floors, use as little water as possible and dry the surface after it is clean. Another point worth mentioning is not to use strong cleanser—use a mild neutral soap.

Grease and oil will give composition flooring a bad time because the floorings are soluble in oil. Keep oil mops away and don't use an oil wax. If you spill some grease on the floor, dump cold water over it so it becomes hard and then scrape it off.

By far the best way to keep these floorings looking their best is to coat them with a water wax. This will not damage the material but will give it a protective coating that will absorb much of the wear and tear and keep the flooring healthy.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A MOTHER-TO-BE asks: "What is my obligation to a group of generous friends who just had a surprise baby shower for me? They gave me lovely, much needed things. I am not now in the position to return these kindnesses, but isn't there something I might do, meantime, for the hostess who instigated everything and really went to a great deal of trouble on my behalf?"

Unlike the results of most benefits received, the stork shower exacts no return payment other than appreciative "thank-yous" said to each of the givers as you unwrap each gift. Of course, you either should write a note of thanks to your hostess or call her on the telephone and tell her how much you appreciate her kindness.

DEAR MRS. POST: My son's future in-laws have written that they have taken rooms for us at the hotel in their town for the three days we will be there for the wedding. Does this mean that we will be their guests? Should we take this for granted now and write and thank them? Or, in the event we are refused a bill when leaving, is that the time to thank them?

DEAR MRS. POST: When the parents and each of the grown children are sent separate wedding invitations, must each one send his and her own reply? And does each one have to send a separate wedding present?

Answer: One or at most two should be sufficient—this answers both questions.

DEAR MRS. POST: At a second wedding is it unsuitable to play the wedding march from Lohengrin or is this played only for a first ceremony?

Answer: It is suitable whenever a wedding march is to be played.

RIDING AROUND TOWN

with BOB WOLFSON

COURTESY CLUB: You may recall a recent column in which I talked about road courtesy. I told about my experiment in same—in giving the other driver a break at a stop sign. I reported the result as a very small fraction of time (15 seconds in my case) actually lost by so doing. Road courtesy seemed to strike a responsive chord with my readers and many of you have written, citing similar experiences.

Which gives me an idea. Wonder how a "Courtesy Club" would click? No dues, no meetings, no executive officers—just a group of drivers whose acts of road courtesy and regard for the safety of other drivers, have been noticed by other motorists. Perhaps later on Feld Chevrolet might be induced to spring for a lapel button or pin, plus windshield sticker, which would be sent to "Courtesy Clubbers" whose license numbers were submitted by other drivers! What do you think of the idea?

. . . What brought 'courtesy' to mind was an experience I had the other day. I phoned Mid-Continent Airlines for a plane reservation. Now an airline switchboard is undoubtedly hectic, and if the operator is abrupt or brusque, there's the reason of pressure for it. But at Mid-Continent, I got a pleasant shock. A sweet voice informed me that "she was sorry but all the lines were busy and would I mind waiting, please?" Slightly stunned, I said "No, not at all." "Thank you, sir!" she trilled. As I waited, I meditated about courtesy — how truly efficient it is, and how no business or industry is big enough ever to forget that fact. A moment later, the Mid-Continent operator was back on the line. "Your call is through now, sir, thank you for waiting." Approximately twenty-five extra words spoken by that operator, at a total time expenditure of perhaps 10 seconds—but she had gained a lasting friend and fan for her company. * * *

PARDON MY GLOVE DEPT. I guess you know by now that I'm a baseball fan. In all the years I've been going to ball games, I've been noticing the gloves left by the fielders at the batting change. Now those gloves are dropped casually on the field in no particular or specified spot as far as I can gather. Strangely, I've never seen one of these gloves hit by a batted ball. I checked the rules and found that if a batted or thrown ball should strike these gloves, there is no penalty and the ball is considered "in play." Wonder if any of you might have witnessed a batted ball hitting a fielder's glove? I'd like to hear about it. * * * *

YOU TAKE THE CASH—I'LL TAKE THE CREDIT DEPT.—Homer Knox, sales manager here at Feld Chevrolet, slipped a clipping on my desk. It reads simply "How much is a Billion Dollars?" Among the nuggets of wisdom it contains are: "A pile of dollar bills, one on top of another, would reach a height of 60 miles when totaling a billion dollars."

The statement I liked best: "Working forty hours a week, 50 weeks a year, it would take a man 500,000 years to earn this amount." Now what do you suppose Homer had in mind?

ADVANCE CURTAIN CALLS: Paul Beisman, manager of the American Theatre, gave me some interesting notes on the forthcoming theatre season here. The opening attraction on September 27 at the American will be "The Winslow Boy" a play by Terence Rattigan (author of the hit play 'O Mistress Mine" starring vehicle for the Lunts). The cast will include Alan Webb, Valerie White and Frank Allenby. You will recall that "The Winslow Boy" was a hit of last season. It is the first of the Theatre Guild subscription series. . . . Other attractions coming are: Annie Get Your Gun; Blackstone, the Magician; John Loves Mary; Judith Anderson in Medea, and Oklahoma . . . The hard-working Paul Beisman is looking forward to a breathing spell between closing of the Muny Opera and the opening of the Fall stage season. Not able to get away for an extended vacation, Paul will spend week-ends at his Cedar Hill farm. His hobby is horseshoe pitching—and his place is appropriately named "Horseshoe Hill." Questioned about his ability to toss ringers, Paul admitted he is just slightly better than President Truman. * * * *

INDIAN UP-PRICING. I read a column by a fellow named McLemore datelined from New Delhi, India. Now Mac as an ex GI should know his way around and I'm amazed to think he's a victim of inflation. Our friend Henry McLemore writes of paying 2 rupees, 8 annas (75c), for a haircut and massage. Tsk, tsk, Mac, at Kancharapara in Bengal, we GIs got a haircut, shave and massage for 8 annas, or sixteen cents. Wanta guide? * * * *

LOADED NIBLICK. I bumped into a golf story the other day that tickled my fancy — combining as it does two sports. The wife of a golfing friend has lately taken up the game too. Gallantry forbids a true Wolfson estimate of her game. It can be said, however, that the lady is meticulous about her score—even over the one hundred fifty mark. Playing one day, in a gal's foursome, my friend's better half came to the seventh, the quarry hole that even makes strong men shudder. Only 165 yards long, the hole consists of an elevated tee and a pocket handkerchief green, trapped on all sides and slightly slanted. Nice, huh? In between tee and green is the greatest collection of rough, hills, hummocks, sand dunes, shrubbery, vegetation and half-buried tree roots that man has ever seen. The three other gals drove, landing safely past the rough, then my friend's wife made with a mighty heave. Plop—her ball disappeared midway between tee and green. 10 minutes later, she and her caddy found it half buried in a clump of grass. Grimly, she took out her 9 iron—took her stance and . . . (she reported this) closed her eyes. She swung—heard a whirring noise—and found she had flushed a pheasant. When last seen, the girls were on the green, arguing whether this constitutes a "birdie."

WHAT'S THE MATTER, WOLFSON, did you forget who's paying the bills? Here it is 320 lines and no commercial! . . . . By way of reminder, it's Feld Chevrolet and all "fan" or "pan" mail should be addressed to me at 2400 Big Bend, Maplewood 17, Mo. See you next Monday. Bob.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a boy age 17. I am engaged to a girl who works at night. We have known each other for years. There is also a boy I have known for years, who is now 14. He comes of rather poor parents and has had few of the opportunities most boys are given. I have no brothers so I have sort of taken this kid on as my little brother and have tried to do things for him. My girl friend claims I spend too much time with him, even though the evenings we are together I couldn't be with her anyway as she is working. I am devoted to both the boy and the girl. Shall I give up my friendship with one for the sake of the other, or how can I make my girl friend be more reasonable?

L. B.

First of all you and this girl are very young indeed to be thinking of becoming engaged. You should both be part of a congenial teen-age group dating within the crowd and having the usual teen-age good times. Secondly it is all very well to adopt a boy of 14 as your brother, but at 17 you are too old to be spending all your time with a boy several years younger than yourself. Your "fiancee" may get the idea you are a case of arrested development. Encourage the younger boy to get in with boys and girls his own age instead of several years his senior. I can't see why you need to give up either friendship, simply take each more in moderation—date the girl, but don't remain engaged to her. Help the younger boy to find friends, but don't devote all your time to him. Frankly I don't think your girl friend is too unreasonable though if she is inclined to be jealous she should try to overcome that tendency.

Dear Martha Carr:

MY PROBLEM is that my mother doesn't believe me. When I say I am going over to my girl friend's house to spend the night, she never thinks I go straight there. She thinks we go somewhere first. When we have parties she accuses us of drinking liquor. There was just one time when we had liquor at a party, and that was when the boys brought their own. It never happened before or since. What can I do to make Mother believe in me?

N. B.

If you have never been untruthful then your mother is being most unfair to accuse you of doing one thing when you tell her you are going to do another. However, if you have had the habit of managing to work in some recreation that has been forbidden along with one which you have been given permission to indulge in, then naturally you can't expect your mother not to be suspicious. One party with liquor was quite enough at your age. It is natural your mother should try to protect you, and if the boys brought liquor once they might try the same trick again. She is only trying to see that you do what is right, though I will agree accusing you of being untruthful and antagonizing you is not likely to obtain as good results as more tactful methods.

Reorganizing Life

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

MRS. I. is in her early sixties, she tells me. She has just lost her husband and is facing the problem of reorganizing her whole life. The insurance money is enough to meet her needs financially. She is weighing three alternatives:

She can stay where she is and try to keep busy. But how? She can spend the rest of her life visiting around with her two married daughters and other relatives. She can settle down in a permanent home with one of her married daughters.

TO MAKE a decision, Mrs. I., let's first ask what you need from life during the next 10 or 15 years:

An opportunity for creative self-expression—something interesting to do, in short. An opportunity for service to others—a chance to make the world better by being in it and contributing productively to it. Affectionate relationships with young people. An opportunity to associate normally with those of your own generation; and this should include meeting members of the opposite sex frequently, either in work or in joint social and recreational activities. It's not a matter of remarriage; at your age there is not much likelihood of that. But the world is made up of both sexes, and no one lives a normal life without contacts with both sexes. That is true at any age.

NOW, WHERE ARE YOU most likely to be able to meet all these requirements? Of course I don't know your situation; but I think anybody's guess would be that you are better off right where you are than to try to move in with your relatives, whether as a transient or as a permanent boarder. If you land on them, you'll be in danger of limiting your social life too much to them. In your own home you must have many friends; you know the resources of the town and can find places to make yourself useful. Start today. Look around, find where you are needed, and go to work.

★ ★ ★

QUESTION: Do parents object to sex education in the public schools?

Answer: Almost never, says a survey by the Cleveland Health Museum, describing the situation in that city; "in fact, parent-teacher groups have co-operated in establishing the program in many of the schools." This is typical of the situation in other cities.

Q. We can't expect normal behavior when a large part of the nation's children are undernourished.

A. Agreed. A scientist recently told the Ontario Educational Association that malnutrition of children should not be blamed on economic conditions, but on "indifference, ignorance and inertia on the part of mothers. Until cooking is made as much of an art as dancing, we are not going to have a nation of healthy people." How far do you think that is true?

THEY would start with little spots about the size of a dime. Right before your eyes a spot would grow until it was about as big as a saucer and the wallpaper would turn brown and parched, as though someone had turned a blow torch on it from the other side. Then, without even a pouf, the spot would burst into a blue flame. Funny thing, too, as soon as you put the flame out you could lay your hand on the spot and it wouldn't even feel warm.

Thus do the Charles Willeys and their neighbors describe the mysterious fires which, for several days, kept breaking out on the walls of the Willey home and which, after the Willeys had become frightened and moved out, reduced the house to a rubble of ashes.

Close on the heels of the house went the Willeys' barn, which was situated across the road. Some advanced the idea the barn fire might have been caused by a spark from the house. But the house had been ashes for two days before the barn burned.

Then a milk shed, which the Willeys were using for a temporary kitchen, started popping out in flames. Newspapers which had been tacked to the boards to cover cracks began bursting into flame, just like the walls of the house had done. They tore down the newspapers, and nothing more happened to the milkshed.

All was quiet, then, for several days, except for the pretty steady stream of reporters and photographers pulling up to the Willey gate, and everyone sort of presumed that the mysterious fires had run their course. Mr. Willey was discussing building a new house and barn, and the excitement had just about died down, when last Thursday night, the second barn burned. The origin of this fire, like the others, was shrouded in mystery. The neighbors are looking at one another again and wondering what will go next. There isn't anything left but the milk shed and a couple of very small outbuildings and, of course, the big tarpaulin spread over some posts, under which the family has been living.

In the meantime investigations are under way at the office of State Fire Marshal John Crag at Springfield. Samples of the wall paper have been taken there for analysis, but at present writing nothing has been found in them but wall paper and paste. "I doubt," said Craig, "if the wall paper has got anything to do with it."

Dr. A. D. Singh, volatile fuels combustion expert from Chicago, made a thorough investigation and said he was forced to conclude the fires are the result of a planned deliberate attempt on the part of some person.

John Burgard, state deputy fire marshal, who made a personal investigation, said he had never seen or heard anything like it. Fire Chief Fred Wilson of Macomb, the nearest town, also investigated. "It's so doggone fantastic," he says, "you hate to talk about it."

THE Willeys are getting so they hate to talk about it, too, having talked of nothing else for some two weeks now. "It's gettin' plum monotonous," says Mrs. Willey, a gray-haired, heavy shouldered woman who refuses to let the loss of a home and two barns discourage her. But pressed by reporters who have gathered from St. Louis, Chicago and other points, the family agrees to tell the story again.

They are sitting beneath two huge trees whose trunks are charred, and whose leaves have been withered by flames. Behind them is the makeshift tent, in which are beds, bureaus and a few other pieces of furniture. In front of them is a bed of ashes, bricks and rubble which represents what had been, for the 75 years, the Willey home. Charley Willey's father built it before him.

The first of the many "spots" which were to plague the family was noticed, as near as anyone can recall, by Ethel Wanette McNeil, the Willeys' 11-year-old granddaughter. On the evening of Friday, August 6, she was washing dishes in the kitchen when she saw a little spot of flame on the kitchen wall. She called her grandparents. They threw some water on it and didn't think much about it. Especially since there were no further developments and no evidence of any more fire in the wall. Just a little round hole burned in the wall paper.

BUT before another day had gone by they had plenty of cause for concern. The fire spots started popping out on virtually every room in the house. They put out a dozen or more of the little fires that day. The next day, Sunday, nothing happened. John Stoneking, a neighbor, who sells insurance and who had policies on the Willey house and barn, came to look things over on Monday, and decided that someone had been careless with matches. Or something. Stoneking didn't want to say what he thought about the story of the little spots of fire.

On Tuesday they started on the living room ceiling. The family threw water on them and put them out as fast as they appeared. By Wednesday they began to hit their stride. The family kept buckets of water and dippers handy in every room. As soon as one would pop forth, they'd throw a dipper of water on it, and it would go out.

"They never got ahead of us," Willey explained, "they didn't come that fast, but sometimes it seemed like we wouldn't get one put out, but another'd be popping out."

Arthur McNeil, the Willeys' son-in-law, went to town and told Fire Chief Wilson about it. "To be frank with you," Chief Wilson told the writer, "I thought he was screwy." Wilson wasn't the only one. McNeil, who works in a factory in Macomb, told his boss. "Well, Frank" his boss said, "I don't want to come right out and call you a liar—."

"I told him," McNeil related, "that if he'd come out and sit in a rocking chair in the living room, he could see for himself. But he wouldn't do it."

The neighbors did, however. When they first heard about it they were skeptical. But when they saw, there was nothing to do but believe.

The neighbors all rallied to the Willeys' assistance, and for several nights they took turns staying at the farm, armed with buckets of water, in case the fires started popping out at night. They had buckets lined up by the pump in the front yard, ready to set a bucket brigade in operation if needed.

Oddly enough, the little flames never appeared at night. When the sun went down and things began to cool off, they would stop. The temperature was hovering around the 95-degree mark that week, which indicates that the extreme heat was a factor in the mystery.

BY Thursday, Aug. 12, the flames were keeping everyone pretty busy. Thinking it might be something in, or under the wall paper, they started stripping it from the walls. This seemed to make no difference, however. The spots would appear on the pine wall boards, and burst into flame.

By that time everything connected with the house seemed to be in a highly combustible state. A neighbor, putting out flames in an upstairs room, took a curtain from a window and laid on the bed. A half hour later he went back and the curtain was in ashes. But the bed clothes hadn't caught fire.

So on Thursday, the twelfth, the family decided enough was enough and moved out of the house. "We knew it was bound to burn sooner or later," says Willey, with the air of man with no intention of flying in the face of fate.

They drove stakes into the ground on the side lawn, stretched the tarpaulin over it, and moved the furniture under it. That night the neighbors were there again. They kept watch all night, but nothing happened. So early in the morning they went home.

About 9:30 o'clock on the morning of Friday the thrirteenth, it happened. Some of the family was in the yard, the menfolks were cutting weeds. Smoke started pouring out the upstairs windows. "Someone hollered at me," McNeil recalls. "I threw down my scythe and ran in the house. It was already beyond putting out." The family stood there and watched it burn. The 75-year-old timbers went quickly, and in no time at all the house was a pile of ashes and brick. The family admits that regret at losing their home was not unmixed with relief. The strain was beginning to tell.

The family went on living under the tarpaulin and life was as routine as life can be under a tarpaulin until 6:30 o'clock Sunday night. Then the barn went. No one was near it, there had been no little fires like there had been at the house. First thing anyone knew, smoke was pouring out of it. "Seemed like no time," Willey said, "till the fire was over the whole barn. It was full of wheat straw." There is hardly anything to show now where the barn was, so completely did it burn.

While sleeping under the tarpaulin, the family had been cooking and eating in a little milkshed back of where the house had been. Mrs. Willey had moved her oil stove out there before the house went. The shed's rough board walls had large cracks between them, and these had been covered with newspapers, held by tacks. Some time after the barn went, the newspapers on the shed walls started acting like the wallpaper in the house had acted. The Willeys didn't fool with it. They ripped the newspapers off the walls. Nothing further happened in the milkshed, except that a stack of old papers and magazines suddenly burst into flame. They were thrown out.

By this time theories were buzzing around like flies at a barbecue. The suggestion was made that maybe there was something in the wallpaper paste. Samples of it were sent to the state fire marshal for analysis. Nothing could be round in it that could have caused the flames. "I papered the house myself a year and a half ago," Mrs. Willey said. "I've papered it a dozen times before. I bought the paper and the paste at Ross and Parsons store in Macomb, the same kind of paper and paste I've always bought, and I didn't mix anything with it."

QUESTIONS were asked about such things as fly sprays and roach powders. They hadn't used any insect sprays in the house. One time, they recalled, they had used some around the back door. And there was no roach powder or paste in the house.

One of the most prevalent theories had to do with a seepage of gas from the ground. "Someone," said McNeil, "seemed to think that maybe natural gas had seeped up from the ground, and that the heat of the sun would ignite it. But if that was the case it would seep up on the outside, too. Even more than on the inside. And there were no fires breaking out on the outside of the house."

Among other theories were spontaneous combustion and even radioactivity. Some of the neighbors had even hinted darkly at powers beyond the realm of human comprehension. "I'm not superstitious," Mrs. Willey says emphatically, "and I don't put any faith in that kind of stuff."

"We just don't have any ideas on what caused it," says Mr. Willey as he shakes his head and looks at the ashes of his home. "We'd be awful glad if we did know."

By Thursday of last week it began to look as though the strange series of events had run its course when, about 6:30 o'clock in the evening, the Willey's other barn went up in flames. It was a small barn, situated to the left of where the house had been. Like the big barn, it seemed to burst into flames suddenly, then burned rapidly to the ground. This leaves only the milk shed and a couple of small buildings. Whether they will survive the mysterious force remains to be seen.

The Willeys have 140 acres and good crops of corn, wheat and oats. The house was insured for only $1000, and the big barn for $1400.

They're going to get started right away on a new house. "But we're going to build on the other side of the farm," Mrs. Willey says. "Clear over on the Schuyler county line."

MR. WILLEY HOLDS A PIECE OF THE WALLPAPER STRIPPED FROM A WALL OF HIS HOME. "WE'D BE AWFULLY GLAD," HE SAYS, "IF WE KNEW WHAT CAUSED THE FIRES."

Removing Hem Marks From Let-Down Frocks

"I LET down the hems of several cotton dresses, but the creases from the old hems show badly. A seersucker suit has a particularly noticeable mark—a crease and a soiled line. Since these dresses were put away perfectly clean last summer, I did not wash them. I pressed them, however. Is there any way to remove these marks?"

—Alice H.

With a cotton dress — even though it's fresh—suds out the hem thoroughly after it has been opened up. A good plan is to use a hand washboard or lay the material on a flat surface such as the work unit counter in your kitchen and go over the entire hem area with a hand brush. Use plenty of mild soap. Rinse thoroughly. Press with as hot an iron as the fabric will stand without scorching—and while the material is quite wet. Seersucker, of course, should be damp instead of wet, and press it on the wrong side with plenty of padding underneath. If the crease persists, apply cold starch and iron.

Seersucker takes up more soil on the fold that is exposed to so much wear because it has a soft surface. A good tubbing of the old hem line should remove the stain made by the soil. After the hems are thoroughly ironed (not just pressed) proceed with the task of facing them. They look much better when a regular facing is used instead of the makeshift narrow hem.

There also is a new press cloth in most notions departments now that is especially adapted to pressing rayons and nylons. These cloths are transparent when wet, so that you can see where you're going with your iron.

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1♥	4♠
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

West's double was rather aggressive, but with a singleton of his partner's suit and control of spades, he felt that there should be a fair chance to defeat the contract, and certainly he did not want to hear any more heart bidding from his partner!

The singleton heart jack was led and correctly overtaken by East with the queen. East then laid down the heart ace. Declarer, sensing that a ruff with any spade except an honor would not stand up, trumped in with the spade jack, and West did not make the mistake of over-ruffing with the ace—he discarded a diamond.

South now laid down the trump king. West, of course, was anxious to take this trick, but he was not sure about what to do after taking it—whether he could put his partner in with a diamond or a club—and therefore, in the hope that South might have started with an eight-card trump suit, and that East would be able to signal on the next lead, West played low on the spade king. Unfortunately for him, this did no good because when South then led the spade queen, West could no longer afford to hold up his ace, and East had to follow suit.

East, at the second trick, should have returned the heart nine, not the ace, to tell West that East could be reached again in the lower side suit (the suit preference signal). Then West would have led a club after taking his spade ace, and on a third heart play he would be sure to make his singleton nine of trumps.

Economical Menus

By Meta Given

NOW is the best time of the year to break the rich dessert habit. Desserts that have a high granulated sugar (sucrose) content are so pleasing to the palate we crowd out foods containing the B vitamins which are indispensable in the oxidation of the sugar and though we have no vitamins to oxidize the sugar, our craving for it doesn't cease and we eat more and more and go round and round in a vicious circle.

By serving sweet juicy fruits that are now in season such as peaches, plums, grapes, pears and melons, we can satisfy the craving for sweets without robbing our diets of vitamins. These seasonal fruits contain fructose and glucose—two simple sugars that require no splitting up as does granulated sugar. They are immediately absorbed in the blood stream and supply energy and satisfy the craving for sugar. The color, form, texture, juiciness and fragrance of these fruits also satisfy the eye, the palate and the stomach.

In addition they supply goodly amounts of various vitamins and minerals that meet nutritional requirements as well as cellulose that has regulatory value. Should the family get tired of being served a variety of plain fresh fruits, then combine with other ingredients rich in food value such as evaporated milk and they will provide a delicious and refreshing variety. One such recipe follows:

Peachy Mallow.

One-half cup evaporated milk, two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons sugar, three-fourths teaspoon vanilla, one dozen marshmallows (soft), one-fourth cup coarsely chopped pecans or walnuts, one cup freshly diced ripe peaches.

Turn milk into freezing tray and chill until it is an icy mush. Meanwhile chill mixing bowl and whipper. Pour chilled milk into cold bowl and whip until it starts to get stiff, then add lem
